The specific offence criminalizing trafficking in persons was passed in the Parliament in September 2016. This new law covers all aspects listed in the UN Trafficking in Persons Protocol definition. The legislation on trafficking in persons in force during the reporting period criminalized national (Art 231a of the criminal code) and international trafficking for sexual exploitation (Art. 231). Trafficking for forced labour was addressed with Art. 149 of the criminal code on labour conditions similar to slavery. The national authorities also report the use of legislation against illegal adoption and law for transplants to prosecute trafficking cases.
