I. Background

1. In its resolution 55/61 of 4 December 2000, the General Assembly recognized that an effective international legal instrument against corruption, independent of the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime (resolution 55/25, annex I), was desirable; and decided to establish an ad hoc committee for the negotiation of such an instrument in Vienna at the headquarters of the Centre for International Crime Prevention of the Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention (now the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime). The text of the United Nations Convention against Corruption was negotiated during seven sessions of the Ad Hoc Committee for the Negotiation of a Convention against Corruption, held between 21 January 2002 and 1 October 2003. The Convention as approved by the Ad Hoc Committee was adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution 58/4 of 31 October 2003.

2. In its resolution 57/169 of 18 December 2002, the General Assembly accepted the offer of the Government of Mexico to host a high-level political conference in Merida for the purpose of signing the United Nations Convention against Corruption; and invited all States to be represented at the Conference at the highest possible levels of government.

Delegates and participants will not need to have a visa stamped in their passport.

40. All delegates and participants must complete the necessary formalities in good time before the Conference with the diplomatic and consular missions of Mexico. The web site of the National Organizing Committee provides a directory of the missions.

41. The diplomatic and consular missions of Mexico are authorized to issue documents for nationals of various States in accordance with the following requirements:

(a) Visa applications should be accompanied by a copy of the official invitation from the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the letter sent by the respective Government to the United Nations confirming the delegation’s participation or the letter to the Government of Mexico requesting issuance of the requisite documents for the members of the delegation of the requesting country; the

54. In order to change or cancel reservations, delegations should inform the National Organizing Committee by facsimile or access the web site containing the reservation form, enter their delegation code and make the desired changes. Cancellation penalties may apply.

55. The names of persons for whom reservations are made may be changed up to seven days before the arrival date, provided that the original reservation dates are not changed.
