

HEUNI's senior programme officer Julia Korkman is an adjunct professor in legal psychology. Korkman has led several large research projects in the field of legal psychology at the research group in legal psychology at Åbo Akademi University, where she still holds an affiliation, and has expertise in, among other things, investigative interviewing and assessing witnesses in legal processes, investigating alleged cases of crimes against children, eyewitness identifications, factors associated with rape victims' tendencies to make police reports and interviews and decision making in asylum processes. At HEUNI, Korkman is particularly working with issues regarding the rights of victims of crime and is currently responsible for the project SARAH, a project focused on improving the situation for migrant women victims of gender- based violence, and she is also working with projects focused on improving the situation of children implied in the legal system. Dr Korkman is also the President-elect of the European Association of Psychology and Law, an umbrella organization for academic research in the field of legal and forensic psychology in Europe.