

Cindy C. Buckley

Cindy Buckley is currently serving as Assistant Director, Illicit Markets, Emerging and Organized Crime at Interpol. She has Juris Doctorate from the State University of New York at Buffalo, a Masters in Business Administration from St. Bonaventure University and a Bachelor of Science in Medicinal Chemistry from the State University of New York at Buffalo. Cindy is also a member in good standing of the New York State Bar. In addition, she successfully completed several training, refining her skills and competencies in investigative techniques and in the use of relevant software and tools.

Seconded from the US Department of Homeland Security, Coast Guard Investigative Service, Cindy previously lead the Buffalo, New York Office as Resident Agent In Charge. She has also served as a Special Agent with United States Secret Service during which time she was embedded as a Special Assistant United States Attorney with the US Department of Justice, United States Attorney's Office, Western District of New York.

Throughout her career, Cindy has led many successful criminal investigations in the areas of environment, financial and general crimes, leading to arrests and convictions. Furthermore, she has prosecuted numerous criminal cases in the areas of white collar and general crimes.

Cindy's vast amount of managerial and operational experience in the areas of environmental crime, trafficking of illicit goods and financial crime is now a key asset in her leadership of the INTERPOL Illicit Markets' Sub-Directorate.