

Ms. Aphrodite Smagadi (PhD) is a Legal Officer with the United Nations Environment Programme, where she coordinates the Law Division's activities on implementation and enforcement of environmental law, including under the Green Customs Initiative; project implementation with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime; and work carried out in the area of marine litter and plastic pollution. Prior to joining UNEP, she worked for the secretariats of the Aarhus and the Espoo Conventions and the World Bank. Aphrodite is specialized and has published in international environmental law, holds a PhD in law from the European University Institute (Florence, Italy) and LL.M from the University of Freiburg (Germany). She is a member of the Bar of Thessaloniki (Greece).