

Valentina Ricca is an Associate Legal Officer at UNEP Law Division, where she promotes the environmental rule of law by providing technical legal assistance and capacity-building to Member States. Her work focuses on legislation addressing climate change and pollution, particularly air quality, waste, and plastics. With expertise in environmental and climate law, governance, and human rights, Valentina also engages with emerging environmental law issues. Additionally, she supports the Green Customs Initiative secretariat, coordinating efforts to enhance compliance with trade-related environmental conventions and combat illegal trade in environmentally sensitive commodities.
