

Emile van der Does is the coordinator for the Stolen Asset Recovery initiative, a joint World Bank/ UN Office on Drugs and Crime team to assist countries recovering proceeds of corruption and to conduct research in that area and ensure it remains high on the international policy agenda. He has led or co-authored several publications on AML/CFT and anti-corruption, specifically supervision of AML/CFT obligations, beneficial ownership transparency, the abuse of non-profits for terrorism financing, the decline in correspondent banking relationships and on civil claims to recoup the proceeds of corruption . Previously he worked for the Office of the Prosecutor at the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and in private practice, specializing in banking and securities law.