

Jonathan Hunter has been dedicated to countering wildlife trafficking with the Wildlife Conservation Society since 2014, leveraging his earlier experience with the UK's Metropolitan Police Service. Over the past decade, Jonathan has contributed to critical counter-wildlife trafficking initiatives, working closely with government agencies to ensure wildlife trafficking remains a high enforcement priority. Now based in Malaysia, he currently spearheads the implementation of the Wildlife Crime Leadership Initiative, an ambitious long-term training program targeting wildlife trafficking hotspots across Asia and the Americas.
