Our organization is working to promote social reintegration and deter the recurrence of substance abuse and domestic violence by creating an environment for flexible and equal dialogue in vocational schools for citizens, youth, and women, in collaboration with online psychologists and psychiatrists. Today, youth use of domestic violence and drugs is widespread in the Asia-Pacific region, and 30% of these perpetrators are problems caused by young people in their 20s and 30s. To solve this problem, it is necessary not only to curb the distribution of drugs, but also to reduce the number of drug users. Therefore, our organization hopes to be able to solve this problem by simply promoting online activities to curb the distribution of drugs at the community level and to discourage people from using them again.
