

Ms. Sarah David,
German International Cooperation Association

Sarah David is the Head of Project of the “Global Partnership on Drug Policies and Development (GPDPD)” at the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ), where she has been working since 2016, focusing on development- and health-oriented drug policies and feminist development policy in Latin America, the Caribbean, as well as Central Asia. From 2021-2024 she was also the Coordinator of the Subcomponent on “Alternative Development” within the EU-financed programme COPOLAD III. She holds a Master’s degree in Latin American Studies from the University of Hamburg and received her Bachelor’s in Political Science from the Ludwig Maximilian University in Munich, including academic exchanges in Mexico and Colombia. Before joining GIZ, she has also worked with an NGO and the Friedrich Ebert Foundation in Mexico, as well as the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) in Vienna.
