In order to ascertain that laws and regulations passed by governments were in accordance with the international instruments on narcotic drugs to which those governments were parties, the Commission, at its first session, asked the Secretariat to prepare:

- (a) A list of all the narcotic laws and regulations now in operation in the various countries parties to the Conventions.
- (b) An annual summary of new laws and regulations enacted by governments.
- (c) A digest giving an analytical survey of national legislation in all countries with a view to ascertaining that this legislation was in accordance with the Conventions in force and thus facilitating the more effective application of these Conventions.
