CND Dec.6(S-VI). Drug trafficking and other crime

At its 891st meeting, on 19 February 1980, the Commission on Narcotic Drugs took the following decision:

Since clear links have been established between drug trafficking and organized crime in many parts of the world, this relationship should be examined at a meeting to be organized with the participation of competent authorities of interested governments, by the Division of Narcotic Drugs in consultation with all other competent organs and bodies and with the financial assistance of the United Nations Fund for Drug Abuse Control, during the first half of 1980, and reported on to the Commission at its next session. The aim should be to determine a more co-ordinated approach to counter the activity of those engaging in related crimes nationally and internationally.
