Raising awareness through Commissions’ social media platforms
Gender equality is a universally agreed objective deriving from the Charter of the United Nations, which unequivocally reaffirmed the equal rights of women, men, girls and boys—and is confirmed in a number of commitments taken through, among others, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women of 1979, the 1995 Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, various resolutions and decisions of the United Nations General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, as well as the Commission on the Status of Women. The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development has provided additional momentum and clear targets and, in it, Member States recognized that gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls would make a crucial contribution to progress across all the Sustainable Development Goals and that the systematic mainstreaming of a gender perspective into the implementation of the Agenda was crucial for success. Achieving gender equality and empowering all women
