Preface

1. The General Assembly, in its resolution 58/269 entitled “Strengthening of the United Nations: an agenda for further change”, requested the Secretary-General to prepare, on a trial basis, for submission to the General Assembly at its fifty-ninth session, a strategic framework to replace the four-year medium-term plan, which would comprise in one document:

   (a) Part one: a plan outline, reflecting the longer-term objectives of the Organization;

   (b) Part two: a biennial programme plan, to cover two years.

2. The General Assembly also affirmed in that resolution that the strategic framework should constitute the principal policy directive of the United Nations and should serve as the basis for programme planning, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation, in accordance with the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation. Pursuant to that resolution, the proposed strategic framework for the period 2006-2007 was submitted to the Assembly at its fifty-ninth session, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-fourth session, in 2004. No decision could be reached on part one: plan outline. The Committee did not recommend approval of part one and the Assembly, in its resolution 59/275, decided to adopt only the biennial programme plan, which was issued with a short introduction listing the priorities approved by the Assembly.1

3. The General Assembly, in its resolution 58/269, requested the Secretary-General to submit a report, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination, reviewing the experiences gained with the changes made in the planning and budgeting process, in order to review, with a view to taking a final decision at its sixty-second session, the format, content and duration of the strategic framework, including the necessity of maintaining part one. By its resolution 62/224, the Assembly endorsed the conclusions and recommendations of the Committee for Programme and Coordination on programme planning as contained in its report,2 and decided, inter alia:

   • To maintain the strategic framework as the principal policy directive of the United Nations, which serves as the basis for programme planning, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation, with effect from the biennium 2010-2011;

   • To continue to include part one: plan outline in the strategic framework;

   • To request the Secretary-General to improve the format of part one and the reflection of the longer-term objectives therein by, inter alia, elaborating on the priorities of the United Nations agreed to by the Member States, in accordance with resolutions 59/275 and 61/235.

4. The Secretary-General submitted to the General Assembly at its sixty-sixth session, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its fiftieth session,3 the proposed plan outline and biennial programme plan of the strategic framework for the period 2012-2013. For its deliberations the Committee also had before it a conference room paper prepared by the Secretariat on the review of part two: biennial programme plan by the relevant sectoral, functional and regional bodies.

5. The General Assembly, in its resolution 65/244 entitled “Programme planning”, having considered the report of the Committee for Programme and Coordination on the work of its fiftieth session and the proposed strategic framework for the period 2012-2013: part one: plan outline and part two: biennial programme plan, endorsed the conclusions and recommendations of the Committee for Programme and Coordination on the strategic framework for the period 2012-2013.

4 A/65/6 (Part one).
Part one: plan outline

I. Background

1. The strategic framework for the period 2012-2013 has been prepared pursuant to General Assembly resolutions 58/269, 59/275, 61/235, 62/224, 63/247 and 64/229 and the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation (ST/SGB/2000/8).

2. The General Assembly, in its resolution 58/269, requested the Secretary-General to prepare, on a trial basis, for submission to the Assembly, a biennial strategic framework to replace the four-year medium-term plan, which would comprise in one document: (a) part one: a plan outline, reflecting the longer-term objectives of the Organization; and (b) part two: a biennial programme plan to cover two years. The Assembly affirmed that the strategic framework should constitute the principal policy directive of the United Nations and should serve as the basis for programme planning, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation, in accordance with the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation. Pursuant to that resolution, the proposed strategic framework for the period 2006-2007 was submitted to the Assembly at its fifty-ninth session, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-fourth session, in 2004. No decision could be reached on the plan outline. The Committee did not recommend approval of part one and the Assembly, in its resolution 59/275, decided to adopt only the biennial programme plan, which was issued with a short introduction listing the priorities approved by the Assembly.¹

3. The proposed strategic framework for the period 2008-2009, comprising part one: plan outline and part two: biennial programme plan,² was submitted to the Assembly at its sixty-first session, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-sixth session, in 2006. The Committee did not recommend approval of part one. The view was expressed that the plan outline focused on format and did not provide an idea of the challenges facing the Organization, of lessons learned, of positive experiences of the past period or of strategies to reform the Organization.

4. In its resolution 61/235, the General Assembly, having considered the report of the Committee for Programme and Coordination,³ endorsed the conclusions and recommendations contained therein with respect to the biennial programme plan for the period 2008-2009, subject to the provisions of that resolution, and decided not to take a decision on the content of the plan outline. The Assembly therefore adopted only the biennial programme plan, which was issued with a short introduction listing the priorities approved by the Assembly.⁴

5. The proposed strategic framework for the period 2010-2011, comprising part one: plan outline and part two: biennial programme plan, was submitted to the General Assembly at its sixty-third session, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-eighth session, in 2008. In paragraph 58 of its report, the Committee recommended that the Assembly approve the priorities for the period 2010-2011 contained in paragraph 45 of the plan outline. In addition, while recognizing the improvement in the logistical framework, the Committee recommended that the Assembly continue to request the Secretary-General to present future plan outlines of the proposed frameworks taking fully into account the guidelines provided by the Assembly in its resolutions 59/275, 61/235 and 62/224, as well as subsequent resolutions, so as to ensure that they more accurately capture the longer-term objectives of the Organization, based on all mandates that had been approved by the Assembly.

6. In its resolution 63/247, the General Assembly, having considered the report of the Committee for Programme and Coordination, endorsed the conclusions and recommendations contained therein with respect to the biennial programme plan for the period 2010-2011, contained in chapter II, section B, and stressed that setting the priorities of the United Nations was the prerogative of Member States, as reflected in legislative mandates.

7. The General Assembly, in its resolution 58/269, requested the Secretary-General to submit a report, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination, reviewing the experiences gained with the changes made in the planning and budgeting process, in order to review, with a view to taking a final decision at its sixty-second session, the format, content and duration of the strategic framework, including the necessity of maintaining part one. By its resolution 62/224, the Assembly endorsed the conclusions and recommendations of the Committee on programme planning as contained in its report, and decided, inter alia:

- To maintain the strategic framework as the principal policy directive of the United Nations, which serves as the basis for programme planning, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation, with effect from the biennium 2010-2011
- To continue to include part one: plan outline in the strategic framework
- To request the Secretary-General to improve the format of part one and the reflection of the longer-term objectives therein by, inter alia, elaborating on the priorities of the United Nations agreed to by the Member States, in accordance with resolutions 59/275 and 61/235

8. As requested by the Committee for Programme and Coordination in paragraph 50 of its report on its forty-sixth session, a table with information for each programme, setting out the entities responsible for each subprogramme, is provided herein (see annex).

II. Longer-term objectives of the Organization

9. A principal criterion established by Member States for the preparation of the strategic framework is the setting of longer-term objectives consistent with all the relevant legislative mandates in all areas of the activities of the United Nations. While it is not practical to list all the relevant mandates, the mandates collectively form the basis for the preparation of proposals for the period 2012-2013. Consequently, the strategic framework for the period 2012-2013 is a translation of legislative mandates into programmes and subprogrammes. A summary of key legislative mandates is included at the end of each programme in the biennial programme plan.

10. Consistent with past practice, the objectives stated in the biennial programme plan are not limited to a two-year period and consequently contribute to the overall longer-term objectives of the Organization. In accordance with resolution 59/275, the strategic framework for 2012-2013 has been prepared taking due account of the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration (resolution 55/2) and the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992, including the 2005 World Summit Outcome (resolution 60/1). Priorities for the period 2012-2013 are detailed in section III below, and further information on the format and structure of the strategic framework and the incorporation of legislative mandates therein is provided in section IV.

11. As the United Nations enters the second decade of the new millennium, it faces important new opportunities and unprecedented challenges. Increased globalization is continuing to link the fate of Governments and their peoples in unprecedented ways. On the positive side, globalization is strengthening a sense of global community through the expansion of global communications and through convergence on a universal normative framework. On the negative side, it is increasing the complexity and accelerating the spread of global threats. The past half decade has seen serious food and fuel shortages, financial instability followed by global economic crisis, persistent environmental degradation and the visible negative impact of climate change. Violence within societies and across borders continues to make peace and stability elusive in many parts of the world, and certain regions are plagued by the symbiotic relationship that has developed between organized crime and intra- and inter-State conflict.

12. Over the next 5 to 10 years, a number of key issues are likely to dominate the international agenda and will therefore require focused attention by the United Nations. Some of those issues are directly related to the core work of the United Nations of past years, while others are relatively new and are a function of a changing world.

Promotion of sustained economic growth and sustainable development

13. The recent world financial and economic crisis has led to a marked increase in extreme poverty. In some cases the crisis catalysed a reversal and in others a halt in progress towards reaching the Millennium Development Goals. The crisis has left many communities, households and individuals more vulnerable than at the beginning of the decade.
14. A number of ecological trends, including climate change, biodiversity loss, ocean acidification and water stress, are further threatening sustainable economic development and poverty eradication.

15. To respond, the Organization will need to strengthen its efforts to help Member States develop policies and programmes that will assist them in delivering on the internationally agreed development goals, and specifically the commitments made in the Millennium Declaration, the International Conference on Financing for Development, held in 2002 in Monterrey, Mexico, the World Summit on Sustainable Development, held in 2002 in Johannesburg, South Africa, the 2005 World Summit, held in New York and the High-level Plenary Meeting on the Millennium Development Goals, to be held in New York in September 2010.

16. Across the board, efforts will need to be made to help Member States scale up their strategies for achieving all of the Millennium Development Goals. The outcome of the High-level Plenary Meeting, which will be attended by Heads of State or Government, will provide a road map for strengthening United Nations engagement. The Organization will have to pay particular attention in 2012-2013 to the Millennium Development Goals that are proving the most difficult to attain, including in the areas of global health, women’s empowerment, environmental sustainability and hunger. The Secretary-General will continue to bring together all the relevant actors within and outside the United Nations system to address those issues, with the support of the membership.

17. Making the new gender entity fully functional by ensuring that it has the financial and human resources necessary to enable it to carry out its agreed functions will continue to be a challenge for the Organization. Actions to address sexual violence in both conflict and non-conflict situations will need to be strengthened. An important first step has been taken in this direction by the Secretary-General in his appointment in 2010 of a Special Representative on Sexual Violence in Conflict. Similarly, the Organization will need to work with Member States to further promote women in leadership positions across sectors in local, national and international arenas. Much has already been done under the leadership of the Secretary-General, who intends to do far more to address those issues within the United Nations, especially in peacekeeping and among the Professional staff.

18. In the short time left before 2015, there is a particular urgency in addressing the needs of the most vulnerable populations, who have found their coping capacity seriously undermined by an accumulation of other crises caused by climate change, food and fuel shortages and the global financial and economic downturn. Work already under way to address those challenges, including United Nations assistance to Governments in designing and implementing programmes that enhance food security, promote trade, strengthen social protection, encourage job creation and foster social stability, will need to intensify in 2012-2013. The Organization will need to work closely with Member State groupings to ensure that the voice of the poor is not left unheard.

19. The threat that climate change poses to the world cannot be underestimated: it is the defining challenge of our generation. Scientists predict that rising temperatures will lead to sea level rise, land loss in low-lying areas, changing disease patterns, changing agricultural growing patterns and wide-ranging displacements of populations. It will ultimately affect the global economy, paths of development and international security. Yet, securing commitments to make adequate emission cuts, reduce reliance on high-emission growth and adopt mitigation measures has proved to be extremely difficult.

20. It is expected that Member States will reach an agreement that will guide climate change action beyond 2012, when the first commitment period of the Kyoto Protocol ends. The Organization will continue to work with the membership, providing a forum for dialogue and the support systems necessary for monitoring and supporting compliance with the 2008-2012 Kyoto Protocol commitments, implementation measures for adaptation, technology, finance and mitigation, including the Collaborative Programme on Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation in Developing Countries, as well as measurement, reporting and verification for emission reductions and financial support.

21. Food security is a main driver for achieving economic growth and enabling sustainable development. In accordance with the agreed Rome Principles, in 2012 and 2013 the United Nations system will continue to support countries as they address the full range of food security dimensions, such as immediate food assistance, nutrition, social protection and safety nets, support to smallholder farmer food production, trade and market access and sustainable management of natural resources. The Organization will strengthen emphasis on access to food and nutrition through important system-wide efforts to improve global food and nutrition security and achieve Millennium Development Goal 1, eradicating extreme poverty and hunger, under the leadership of the Secretary-General.

22. In approaching economic sustainability and development challenges, the United Nations will need to increasingly take into account population growth and demographic shifts, which promise to be dramatic over the next two decades. By 2012, demographers anticipate that the world’s population will exceed 7 billion, while by 2025 it is likely to reach 8 billion. Nearly all of the projected population explosion will be in developing regions, specifically in Africa and Asia. Population growth will give rise to tremendous strains on resources and institutions. Several regions are likely to experience a youth bulge. Without access to gainful employment, there are some concerns that young people may seek to address the social and economic challenges confronting them by resorting to violence and exacerbating local and regional instabilities.

23. Another dimension of demographic dynamics is population ageing in developed countries, and increasingly in some developing countries, which will put mounting pressures on pension and health-care systems. The United Nations system will work in close coordination with Member States and other relevant stakeholders to identify action priorities that require immediate attention and that will be carried forward in the biennium 2012-2013.

24. Finally, migration into cities and emigration to more developed resource-rich regions is likely to further challenge development efforts, strain resources and give rise to tensions. In 2012-2013, the United Nations will need to intensify its research on the implications of large demographic shifts and work with Member States to adapt existing development programmes. The second high-level dialogue of the General Assembly on migration and development, scheduled for 2013, will offer an important platform from which to advance discussion and action.

25. These social, economic and environmental challenges will be addressed in a comprehensive, integrated and balanced way by the membership at the United Nations conference on sustainable development, to be held at the highest possible level, including Heads of State and Government, in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in 2012. The Organization will provide coordinated, coherent and effective support for the conference, under the leadership of the Secretary-General, by assisting Member States in adopting a forward-looking, focused strategy leading to long-term global sustainability.

Maintenance of international peace and security

26. The promotion of international peace and security will remain at the core of the work of the United Nations in 2012-2013. The persistence of conflicts, frozen as well as active, including those in the Middle East, Iraq, the Sudan, Afghanistan and the Great Lakes region of Africa, as well as the emergence of new sources of insecurity in regions, including the Horn of Africa, pose challenges to which the United Nations cannot afford to remain indifferent. The absence of peace and the persistence and exacerbation of armed conflicts have devastating effects on civilian populations, drastically undermining countries’ development efforts and seriously straining the scarce financial and human resources of the United Nations.

27. The need for the Organization to provide peacekeeping support to many areas of the world continues to be critical. In addition to the continued implementation of peacekeeping reform measures adopted in previous bienniums, the United Nations will need to augment its capacities through better outreach to contributing countries and by leveraging partnerships with regional organizations that can provide peacekeeping support. Without the full political, financial and logistical backing of Member States at all stages, peacekeeping operations are liable to fail, and the credibility of the United Nations will be severely damaged.

28. The prevention of conflict is the most cost-effective way of maintaining peace and security. Ensuring that the Organization has an effective platform for preventive diplomacy and is able to quickly and easily deploy its good offices in the prevention and resolution of disputes between and within nations is critical. Continued investment and attention to developing this dimension of the Organization’s work will be necessary in 2012-2013.

29. While conflict prevention and peacekeeping are critical, it is equally important to ensure that societies emerging from conflict do not fall back. In 2012-2013, the Organization must work to support the Peacebuilding Commission in its efforts to sustain peace in conflict-affected countries by garnering international support for nationally owned and led peacebuilding efforts and by implementing the recommendations emanating from the review of the peacebuilding architecture and civilian capacities conducted in the previous biennium.

30. The security environment for United Nations personnel has continued to deteriorate in many locations. From Baghdad to Algiers and from Somalia to Pakistan and Afghanistan, United Nations employees have been exposed to increased threats as well as overt targeted terrorist attacks. Less spectacular attacks, such as the kidnapping or murder of individual staff members, remain a potent weapon against the Organization, diverting attention and leading to a drastic reduction in regular activities in ongoing crises. In the face of increasing demands on the United Nations in 2012-2013, the Organization must be given the tools to ensure the necessary staff security and safety to conduct peacekeeping, humanitarian and development operations.
31. In the past decade, Africa achieved impressive rates of economic growth, averaging above 5 per cent. The adoption by many Governments of internal reforms in conjunction with a favourable external environment led to this progress. Then the global financial and economic crisis eroded previous gains and reduced average output growth to about 1.6 per cent in 2009, below the rate of population growth. Growth rates are predicted to improve, but may stay below their potential for years to come.

32. In this context, the United Nations will need to work with the New Partnership for Africa’s Development and the Millennium Development Goals Africa Steering Group to continue to strengthen international support for the African development agenda.

33. Peace and security are key to creating an environment in which economic recovery can flourish. In order to forward Africa’s core development goals, the United Nations will need to enhance its support to the African security agenda through close support to and partnership with the African Union and by establishing close collaborative relations with regional and subregional organizations.

Promotion of human rights, justice and international law

34. While there has been important growing convergence globally regarding respect for human rights and support for justice and international law, the United Nations will need to engage with Member States in 2012-2013 to build capacity, strengthen existing institutions and, when and where necessary, develop new legal instruments.

35. The United Nations will need to work with Member States to facilitate the achievement by the Human Rights Council of its mandate and to promote progress towards universal ratification of the Rome Treaty. The Organization will also continue to work with Member States to operationalize the responsibility to protect through appropriate diplomatic, humanitarian and other peaceful means, as mandated by the General Assembly.

Effective coordination of humanitarian assistance efforts

36. The demand for humanitarian assistance is unlikely to decrease in 2012-2013. On the conflict side, while the 1990s saw a period of steady decline in the number of armed conflicts in the world, this downward trend has stopped. The trend threatens to reverse as the risk of conflict sparked by global trends, such as resource scarcity, increases. The conflicts are predominantly intra-State. On the disaster front, natural catastrophes are taking a hard toll on many nations, affecting particularly the most vulnerable groups. Demand for United Nations support is likely to continue to increase as the incidence of certain types of natural disasters (e.g., hurricanes, floods and drought) rises, catalysed by new weather patterns associated with climate change. The Organization will thus need to strengthen its efforts to promote effective disaster risk reduction strategies that will limit the exposure and vulnerability of communities and build the resilience of nations and communities to natural hazards.

37. In 2012-2013, the United Nations will also have to find ways to address a range of relatively new challenges that are undermining its efforts to provide effective assistance to populations requiring humanitarian support. These include increasing accessibility problems, unsafe operating environments and decreasing respect for United Nations immunity in the field. It will also need to develop its policies for dealing with constant, prolonged and protracted crises where populations require longer-term support. The multiplier effect of one global crisis after another on populations, coupled with a growing range of national, regional and international actors who are eager to provide assistance to populations in need, suggests the importance for the United Nations of drawing upon regional and national capacities to prepare for and respond to crises requiring humanitarian support. It also suggests an even greater role for the United Nations system in coordinating multiple external actors.

Disarmament

38. As in the past biennium, sustained attention must be dedicated to disarmament and the non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. The danger that nuclear armaments pose to humanity remains a matter of major concern, in particular the risk associated with their potential use by terrorist groups. Against that background, the United Nations should continue to advocate for concrete steps, aiming to undertake multilateral negotiations on nuclear disarmament and the strengthening of the international non-proliferation regime. It should also step up its efforts to halt the proliferation of small arms and light weapons, which undermines the security of individuals, countries and regions that can least afford it.

39. There are two new non-traditional areas of threat where the United Nations may need to begin to focus its attention in 2012-2013. They are unique in that they are sources of tremendous opportunity and growth for many countries, while at the same time posing risks that need to be managed. First, the United Nations needs to begin to address how best to manage emerging technologies in both the life sciences and the physical sciences. The challenge will be how best to follow up on the decision of world leaders in 2005 to promote biotechnology benefits while mitigating the risks of misuse.

40. Second, the cyber-realm requires some concerted attention, as threats to basic critical infrastructures at the national and international levels are likely to rise over the next few decades with the expansion of e-commerce and use of information technologies to drive economic efficiencies, economic development and global knowledge-sharing. The United Nations will need to build its own internal capacity in order to effectively address these emerging issue areas.

Drug control, crime prevention and combating international terrorism in all its forms and manifestations

41. In 2012-2013, the United Nations will need to further strengthen and increase its engagement on two growing threats: international crime and terrorism.

42. Actions against the world drug problem, global criminal activity and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations are a common and shared responsibility that must be addressed in a multilateral setting and require an integrated and balanced approach. As such, the United Nations is uniquely placed to counter terrorism. The counter-terrorism strategy adopted by the General Assembly in 2006 represents an important step in the right direction, and its full implementation by all stakeholders must remain a shared objective of the global community.
43. Unfortunately, the threat to international peace and security posed by acts of terror is increasing in salience, and the need for an international comprehensive convention on terrorism is becoming ever more important. In 2012-2013, the Organization will need to bolster its efforts to help the membership finally conclude its long-standing negotiations on a convention.

44. The Organization must make the world safer from drugs and crime, which interact profoundly with development, peace and security and the rule of law. That is why the United Nations will continue to work closely with all the relevant stakeholders, through the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime in particular, to fight these scourges.

Effective functioning of the Organization

45. Effective action by the United Nations across this broad range of areas will be essential if the Organization is to achieve its long-term objectives of promoting economic growth and sustainable development, responding to unprecedented challenges to international peace and security and enhancing respect for human rights around the world. The Organization, guided by its strategic framework, must make an explicit effort to concentrate resources where it can have the largest impact and ensure that it takes action to modernize its processes, introduce cost-effective measures and reward excellence and achievement.

46. Significant progress was made in realigning the United Nations with new global realities. But more has to be done. Change management initiatives must continue, and the Organization has to commit to continuously improving the way in which it does business, such as through the current enterprise resource planning and International Public Sector Accounting Standards projects. It must continue to build a flexible and mobile workforce for the twenty-first century. The Organization’s increasingly complex mandates require a multi-skilled and versatile workforce that is able to function across disciplines with a variety of partners. Efforts have to continue to improve internal control mechanisms to create a more accountable Organization in line with General Assembly resolution 64/259.

III. Priorities for the period 2012-2013

47. It is recalled that for the periods 1998-2001, 2002-2005, 2006-2007, 2008-2009 and 2010-2011, the General Assembly identified eight priority areas, which covered the bulk of the substantive activities of the Organization. As the conditions that led to those priorities persist, the Assembly may wish to consider reaffirming or amending, as appropriate, the following priorities for the period 2012-2013, namely:

(a) Promotion of sustained economic growth and sustainable development in accordance with the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly and recent United Nations conferences;
(b) Maintenance of international peace and security;
(c) Development of Africa;
(d) Promotion of human rights;
(e) Effective coordination of humanitarian assistance efforts;
(f) Promotion of justice and international law;
(g) Disarmament;
(h) Drug control, crime prevention and combating international terrorism in all its forms and manifestations.

IV. Structure and format

48. In accordance with General Assembly resolutions 58/269, 62/224 and 63/247, the strategic framework comprises part one: plan outline and part two: biennial programme plan. The plan covers 27 programmes, each of which corresponds to the work carried out by an organizational entity, usually at the departmental level (congruent with the relevant section of the programme budget) and is subdivided into a number of subprogrammes. Those in turn correspond to an organizational entity, generally at the level of a division.

49. The presentation of each programme of the biennial plan in part two includes: (a) the overall orientation, reflecting the raison d’être of the programme as a whole, changes as a result of the programme’s intervention and the anticipated benefits for its end-users; (b) the subprogrammes; and (c) a list of legislative mandates. Each subprogramme follows results-based-budgeting concepts with respect to the use of the logical framework, reflecting the following elements: (a) the objective of the Organization; (b) the expected accomplishments of the Secretariat; and (c) the indicators of achievement, all of which will form the basis of the forthcoming proposed programme budget. Each subprogramme includes the strategy to be employed for attaining the expected accomplishments.

50. In line with the recommendation of the Committee for Programme and Coordination in paragraph 57 of its report on its forty-eighth session, in developing the logical framework, programme managers took into account the obstacles, challenges, lessons learned and unmet goals encountered in the previous biennium, as reflected in the programme performance report.

51. Through the use of the logical framework, which provides clearer articulation of objectives (the raison d’être of the subprogramme), expected accomplishments (benefits to end-users as a consequence of outputs in order to meet the objective) and indicators of achievement (to measure whether or not accomplishments were attained), programme managers are given the basic tools for determining the relevance, usefulness, efficiency and effectiveness of the work of the Organization. The refinements made to the logical framework and practice of results-based management in the implementation of the mandated programmes and activities is intended to improve the performance of the Secretariat, to improve accountability in line with General Assembly resolution 64/259, wherein the General Assembly decided that accountability included achieving objectives and high-quality results in a timely and cost-effective manner and fully implementing and delivering on all mandates to the Secretariat as approved by United Nations intergovernmental bodies and other subsidiary organs established by them in compliance with all resolutions, regulations, rules and ethical standards, and to ensure a fully results-oriented Organization.
A. Objective of the Organization

52. The objective is expressed at the level of the Organization as a whole (Member States and Secretariat), rather than at the level of either intergovernmental or Secretariat action only. In other words, the objective reflects what the subprogramme intends to achieve, not what needs to be done by the entity responsible for implementing it. For example, an objective might be “to maintain international peace and security through prevention, control and resolution of conflicts through peaceful means”, an objective of the Organization as a whole, but not “to monitor and analyse situations of potential conflict”, an activity that is carried out by the Department of Political Affairs. The objective, in terms of the logical framework for programme design, is at the highest level.

53. Efforts have been made to be more precise and succinct in formulation of the objectives, capturing the essence of the subprogramme, by providing a clearer picture of the difference each subprogramme is intended to make for its beneficiaries and reflecting language that has been adopted by Member States. The objectives stated in the biennial programme plan are not limited to a two-year period.

B. Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat

54. Expected accomplishments (also known as “expected results”) are intended to reflect the consequence of the products and services to be delivered by the Secretariat within a two-year period. Expected accomplishments show benefits to end-users, and it is therefore incumbent upon programme managers to pay particular attention to the many categories of targeted beneficiaries. Expected accomplishments, when they occur, lead to the fulfilment of the objective. In other words, in terms of the hierarchy of programme design, expected accomplishments appear at a lower level than the objective.

55. While some of the expected accomplishments of the Secretariat cannot be attributable entirely to the Secretariat owing to the many stakeholders concerned, it is nevertheless feasible to acknowledge that a plausible claim can be made that the activities undertaken and the outputs and services delivered by the Secretariat — when properly designed and effectively implemented — contribute to those results. That claim can be further justified by the fact that programme managers, at the budget preparation stage, are required to determine the nature and scope of activities and outputs and select those that would ensure achievement of the expected accomplishments that are reflected in the biennial programme plan.

56. In accordance with General Assembly resolution 63/247 and the recommendations made by the Committee for Programme and Coordination in paragraph 55 of its report, coordinated efforts were made to better formulate suitable expected accomplishments in such a way that, at the budget preparation stage, all activities and outputs mandated by Member States would be effectively and efficiently included. Refinements of the logical framework are intended to facilitate the collection of meaningful data to provide more useful evidence to demonstrate the extent to which results have or have not occurred. Such data would be useful not only for reporting more effectively on programme performance to Member States, but also for planning future activities. While internal management tasks, including assessments of the quality and efficiency of the work of the Secretariat, continue to be undertaken on a regular basis, the focus of the strategic framework is on the expected results occurring external to each subprogramme and the impact on beneficiaries.

57. While a subprogramme might have many individual expected accomplishments, a determination is made to highlight and include in the biennial programme plan only those that are key and most representative of the subprogramme.

C. Indicators of achievement

58. In accordance with General Assembly resolution 63/247 and the recommendations made by the Committee for Programme and Coordination in paragraph 56 of its report,6 in which the Committee recognized the improvement in the logical framework and recommended that the Assembly continue to encourage programme managers to further improve the qualitative aspects of indicators of achievement in order to enable better evaluation of results, bearing in mind the importance of defining the indicators in a way that ensured their clear measurability, efforts continue to be made to focus on selecting key indicators of achievement that are clearly linked to the expected accomplishments, are useful for determining the difference made by the subprogramme and are measurable. The indicators, for the most part, have been formulated to show exactly the data that will be collected for the measurement of the expected accomplishments. A major challenge continues to be the selection, at the stage of planning, of key or strategic indicators that would be meaningful and helpful for determining whether or not results were obtained. At the implementation level, however, more indicators could be used to measure other aspects of the subprogramme’s work. It is stressed that the indicators would measure only the contribution made by the entity implementing the subprogramme and not that made by other stakeholders.

59. Progress has been made in improving the qualitative aspects of indicators of achievement to enable better evaluation of qualitative changes in services provided, and efforts continue to be made in the area of performance measurement, although the selection of key indicators continues to be a difficult exercise, not unlike what has been experienced at the national level and by other entities of the United Nations system. Improvements have been made since the introduction of results-based-budgeting concepts, and there is now clear evidence of many more indicators that are measurable and articulated in a way that would show exactly the data that will be collected. The performance measures, namely, the baselines and targets, do not appear in the biennial programme plan, but will be included in the programme budget. Experience gained in the analysis of trends on the basis of data collected for measuring results continues to be an essential tool in refining indicators of achievement and ensuring greater measurability, validity, reliability, usefulness in determining the effectiveness and relevance of the programme/subprogramme’s activities and accountability.
D. Strategy

60. The strategy (“how are we getting there?”) highlights the focus of efforts to be made within a two-year period to meet the needs of intended beneficiaries. It reflects the approach to be taken to ensure that the expected accomplishments occur, not the particular activities to be undertaken or the individual outputs to be delivered. For example, a strategy could be “ensuring that development issues are adequately addressed in intergovernmental debate”, not “conducting a meeting” or “preparing a report”, which are activities.

61. Efforts have been made to avoid referring to specific activities and outputs in the biennial programme plan and to continue to reinforce the linkage between the strategies employed and the expected accomplishments so as to ensure that expected accomplishments will genuinely contribute to the attainment of long-term objectives.

E. Legislative mandates

62. Legislative mandates, which are listed at the end of each programme, are addressed to Governments, intergovernmental bodies, United Nations organizations and other entities, as well as to the Secretary-General. Programmes and subprogrammes are established to ensure the successful implementation of those mandates. Responsibility for the success of the programme is therefore not the exclusive preserve of Member States (acting individually or in intergovernmental bodies) or of the Secretariat. It is a collective responsibility, and success in achieving the objectives and expected accomplishments is a measure of the degree of success of the international community, working in a harmonious partnership between Member States and the Secretariat.

63. Based on that principle of collective responsibility, the objectives, expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement are formulated to address not only the work of the Secretariat but also the achievement of the subprogramme as a whole in terms of benefits or positive changes for its intended beneficiaries. Member States address to the Secretary-General their requests for assistance or collaboration in, inter alia, peace operations, electoral processes, application of international norms and standards, compliance with obligations under international instruments, and economic and social development. Sometimes the work of the Secretariat involves collaboration and cooperation with other United Nations entities, civil society and the private sector in pursuit of the objectives. The positive changes sought are the consequence of the concerted efforts of many stakeholders.

64. There are general mandates that provide the overall orientation of programmes and subprogrammes, and there are specific mandates that require the Secretary-General to undertake a particular activity or to deliver a specific output. The distinction is an important one for the preparation of a plan, since the planning stage focuses on a strategy to translate general legislative mandates into expected accomplishments, while the budget preparation stage takes fully into account the specific requests for individual outputs. The list of outputs therefore does not appear in the strategic framework; it will appear only in the programme budget.

65. The preparation of the biennial programme plan involves not only the participation of all departments, but also the review by relevant specialized intergovernmental bodies of those programmes falling within their sphere of competence. Recommendations by those bodies for modifications to the proposed biennial programme plan are incorporated when available. In cases where it has not been possible to incorporate changes owing to the scheduling of meetings, the recommendations of those intergovernmental bodies are made available to the Committee for Programme and Coordination at the time of its review.

Programme 1
General Assembly and Economic and Social Council affairs and conference management

Overall orientation

1.1 The overall objectives of the programme are (a) to facilitate, through the provision of technical secretariat support and authoritative advice, the orderly and effective conduct of the deliberations and follow-up actions of the General Assembly, its General and First Committees, its Special Political and Decolonization (Fourth) Committee and various subsidiary organs, and its Second and Third Committees, the Economic and Social Council and most of the Council’s subsidiary and ad hoc bodies, and the special United Nations conferences and meetings dealing with disarmament, international security and economic, social and related matters; and to assist in the revitalization efforts of the Assembly and other United Nations bodies; (b) to provide substantive and technical secretariat servicing to the Committee on Conferences; (c) to ensure, through integrated global management, the provision of high-quality conference-servicing support to all intergovernmental and expert bodies meeting at Headquarters and at the United Nations Offices at Geneva, Vienna and Nairobi, and other conferences and meetings held under the auspices of the United Nations, taking into account the principle of equal treatment to be given to all established official languages in each organ of the Organization; (d) to provide protocol, liaison and representational functions for the Secretary-General, host Governments and the Member States; and (e) to ensure the uninterrupted delivery of services during the implementation of the capital master plan at Headquarters.

1.2 The basic mandates for the programme are contained in the rules of procedure of the principal organs of the United Nations. Additional mandates are stipulated by resolutions of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council, in particular resolutions on the reform and revitalization of the Assembly and on the pattern of conferences. Overall intergovernmental direction concerning the organization and servicing of meetings is given by the Assembly on the advice of the Committee on Conferences, in accordance with Assembly resolution 43/222 B, in which the terms of reference of the Committee were established. The Under-Secretary-General for General Assembly and Conference Management will continue to be responsible for all the activities of the Department and for guiding integrated global conference management involving Headquarters and the United Nations Offices at Geneva, Vienna and Nairobi, which includes the establishment of conference management policies, practices, standards and procedures and the allocation of resources under the relevant budget section, in accordance with Assembly resolution 57/283 B and the Secretary-General’s bulletin on the Organization of the Department for General Assembly and Conference Management (ST/SGB/2005/9).

1.3 The Department for General Assembly and Conference Management at Headquarters and the conference-servicing organizational entities at the United Nations Offices at Geneva, Vienna and Nairobi are responsible for the implementation of the programme and the achievement of its objectives. Guided by Assembly resolutions 57/300 and 64/230, as well as the provisions relevant to conference services of the Assembly’s resolutions on multilingualism, the strategic framework under the programme seeks to make further progress in integrated global management and to provide high-quality documents in a timely manner in all official languages, as well as high-quality conference services to Member States at all duty stations, and to achieve those aims as efficiently and cost-effectively as possible. During the biennium, the Department will continue to provide, in a proactive manner, the intergovernmental and expert bodies it services with technical secretariat, protocol and liaison and conference-servicing support so as to achieve synergies and full-system benefits across the four conference-servicing duty stations.

1.4 The Department will continue to focus on advance planning for effective management of conference services, optimize workflow, align capacity with expected output and pay special attention to the end results and overall performance. The concept of global management continues to evolve, and is progressively evident in the standardizing of administrative policies, practices and procedures across all conference-servicing duty stations. The global information technology initiative, which is being implemented in its various phases at all duty stations, establishes a standardized approach and application of efficient and effective resource utilization and expands the use of electronic tools and processes in conference-servicing operations (virtualization). Continued focus on training of existing staff and directed outreach to organizations that will provide future generations of language staff will hasten the transition to the use of available new technologies and efficiency tools. These efforts, subject to related provisions of the above-mentioned General Assembly resolutions, will result in enhanced quality, productivity, timeliness and cost-effectiveness of the operations under the programme. Regular client surveys will be used as an important measurement of performance. Through systematic analysis, the Department will evaluate the risk landscape and implement risk management and mitigation strategies so as to reduce the impact of operational crises through more proactive and effective monitoring. Centrally coordinated risk management and assessment and evaluation will facilitate informed managerial decision-making and monitoring. More systematic use of high-quality, reliable and transparent data on conference services will enhance global operational efficiencies.

Programme 2

Political affairs

Overall orientation

2.1 The overall objective of the programme is to maintain international peace and security by assisting Member States and other international and regional organizations to resolve potentially violent disputes or conflict peacefully, in accordance with the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and the resolutions emanating from the General Assembly and the Security Council. Wherever possible, this objective is achieved by preventing violent conflicts from arising through preventive diplomacy and peacemaking, through expansion of the United Nations range of partnerships with other international, regional and subregional organizations. The direction of the programme is provided in the pertinent resolutions of the Assembly and the mandates of the Council, which has the primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security. Within the Secretariat, substantive responsibility for the programme is vested in the Department of Political Affairs.

2.2 The strategy in meeting the programme’s objectives is designed around nine subprogrammes, which include the Counter-Terrorism Implementation Task Force, the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, the Peacebuilding Support Office and the United Nations Register of Damage Caused by the Construction of the Wall in the Occupied Palestinian Territory.

2.3 The activities to be implemented relate to early warning; preventive diplomacy; peacemaking, capacity-building and post-conflict peacebuilding; electoral assistance; the provision of substantive support to policymaking organs, such as the Security Council and its subsidiary bodies, the Special Committee on the Situation with regard to the Implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples, and the Committee on the Exercise of the Inalienable Rights of the Palestinian People; and the role of the Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process. Those activities constitute the core functions of the Department of Political Affairs and together represent interdependent and complementary components of a comprehensive conflict-prevention, conflict-management and peacebuilding approach.

2.4 The Department of Political Affairs will continue to strive to reinforce the capacity of Member States, the international community and other relevant organizations for preventive diplomacy, good offices and non-military measures to prevent potentially violent disputes from escalating into conflicts, as well as to resolve violent conflicts that have erupted, while fully respecting the sovereignty, territorial integrity and political independence of Member States and the principle of non-intervention in matters that are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any State, as well as respecting the principle of consent, which is an essential element for the success of such efforts. The Department will also endeavour to enhance its capacity with regard to the political aspects of peacebuilding, as approved by the relevant intergovernmental bodies.

2.5 The Department of Political Affairs will continue to work with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime and with other relevant departments within the Secretariat in the implementation of Security Council resolution 1373 (2001) on the subject of terrorism.

2.6 Special attention will also be given to incorporating a gender perspective into the work of the programme, in accordance with relevant resolutions of the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly.

2.7 The Peacebuilding Support Office will remain active in advancing the work of the United Nations peacebuilding architecture by supporting the work of the Peacebuilding Commission in all its substantive aspects, overseeing the operations of the Peacebuilding Fund and fostering collaboration with relevant entities of the United Nations system. The Office will support the work of the Commission by: (a) preparing analytical backgrounds that facilitate the development of integrated peacebuilding strategies; (b) contributing to the drafting of reports on the biannual reviews of the strategic frameworks for peacebuilding for countries on the agenda of the Commission; and (c) planning for and preparing reports on the field visits undertaken by members of the Commission. The Office will also promote collaboration among relevant entities of the United Nations system to promote a coherent response to the peacebuilding efforts at the country level and to advance the implementation of the recommendations contained in the Secretary-General’s report on peacebuilding in the immediate aftermath of conflict. The Peacebuilding Fund will contribute to consolidating peace by funding projects designed to respond to imminent threats to the peace process, build or strengthen national capacities to promote peaceful resolution of conflict, stimulate economic revitalization and re-establish essential administrative services.

2.8 The United Nations Register of Damage Caused by the Construction of the Wall in the Occupied Palestinian Territory has been established by the General Assembly to serve as a record, in documentary form, of the damage caused to all natural and legal persons concerned as a result of the construction of the wall by Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including in and around East Jerusalem. In accordance with the provisions of General Assembly resolution ES-10/17, an Office for the Register of Damage has been set up at the United Nations Office at Vienna as a subsidiary organ of the Assembly operating under the administrative authority of the Secretary-General and responsible for the establishment and comprehensive maintenance of the Register of Damage.

To this end, the Office will, through locally recruited and United Nations Register of Damage-trained claim intakers, provide technical assistance to the claimants in filing the claim forms for registration of damage, as well as collecting and sending them, together with its supporting documents, to the Office for processing and review in accordance with objective criteria defined in the United Nations Register of Damage rules and regulations. Programme 3 3.1 General and complete disarmament under strict and effective international control remains the ultimate goal of all efforts exerted in the field of disarmament. The main responsibilities for disarmament lie with Member States. The United Nations, in accordance with its Charter, has a central role and primary responsibility in supporting Member States in this area.

Overall orientation

3.2 The mandate for the programme derives from the priorities established in relevant General Assembly resolutions and decisions in the field of disarmament, including the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly, the first special session devoted to disarmament (resolution S-10/2). The programme is also guided by the United Nations Millennium Declaration (resolution 55/2) and takes into account other relevant resolutions of the United Nations. Weapons of mass destruction, in particular nuclear weapons, continue to be of primary concern to the Organization due to their destructive power and threat to humanity. Conventional disarmament, especially with regard to major weapons systems, small arms, light weapons, landmines and cluster munitions, has received increased attention from the international community in view of the havoc that such weapons are inflicting on peoples’ daily lives, in particular in conflict-ridden regions.

3.3 Within the Secretariat, substantive responsibility for the programme is vested in the Office for Disarmament Affairs. The Office’s strategy in meeting the programme’s objectives is designed around five subprogrammes and is based on its role in and responsibility for facilitating and encouraging, as appropriate, disarmament and non-proliferation measures at all levels. The Office will continue to assist Member States in promoting, strengthening and consolidating multilaterally negotiated principles and norms in all areas of disarmament and non-proliferation in all its aspects. It will support efforts of Member States in the areas of disarmament and non-proliferation in all its aspects in order to help promote international peace and security and contribute to global efforts against terrorism. In order to do so effectively, the Office will enhance its capacity for more in-depth analysis, keeping track of developments in those areas, and will provide Member States with timely and practical advice, on request. It will continue to assist Member States in their efforts aimed at preventing the destabilizing and excessive accumulation and illicit manufacture of and trafficking in small arms and light weapons in all their aspects. Moreover, the Office will facilitate and promote efforts for further implementation of the Programme of Action adopted at the United Nations Conference on the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects, as well as practical disarmament measures. It will promote transparency, based on the principle of undiminished security for all, and confidence-building measures in the field of disarmament. Through its regional centres for peace and disarmament, the Office will assist Member States in promoting regional approaches to disarmament, non-proliferation in all its aspects and regional and international peace and security. It will also continue to contribute to efforts to enhance disarmament expertise in Member States, in particular in developing countries.
3.4 The Office will seek to achieve the objectives of the programme by facilitating the process of multilateral deliberation and negotiation. This will include providing substantive organizational support to the First Committee, the Disarmament Commission and other subsidiary bodies of the General Assembly, the Conference on Disarmament and its subsidiary bodies, review conferences and other meetings of parties to multilateral disarmament agreements, as well as to expert groups mandated by the General Assembly. This will also include monitoring and assessing current and future trends in the field of disarmament, non-proliferation in all its aspects and international security.

3.5 The Office will continue to be a source of impartial and factual information on disarmament and security-related matters for Member States, organizations of the United Nations system, intergovernmental and regional organizations and non-governmental organizations, and will expand its educational outreach programmes. Training and advisory services will continue to be provided, through the United Nations disarmament fellowship, training and advisory services programme and the United Nations Institute for Disarmament Research, to Member States, in particular developing countries, to enable them to enhance their expertise in disarmament, so that they may participate more effectively in international deliberating and negotiating forums. The Office will also assist Member States in increasing understanding of the relationship between disarmament and development.

3.6 Gender mainstreaming will continue to be an integral part of the activities of the programme through the continued implementation of a plan of action aimed at raising awareness and increasing commitment to and capacity for gender mainstreaming in disarmament affairs.

Security Council resolutions

1540 (2004) Non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction
1887 (2009) Adopted by the Security Council at its 6191st meeting, on 24 September 2009 (high-level summit on nuclear disarmament and nuclear non-proliferation)
Programme 4
Peacekeeping operations

Overall orientation

4.1 The purpose of the programme is to support the maintenance of peace and security through the deployment of peacekeeping operations in accordance with and by authority derived from the principles and purposes of the Charter of the United Nations. The mandates of the programme are provided in resolutions of the Security Council and the General Assembly.

4.2 The programme comprises the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support (established by the General Assembly in 2007). The Department of Peacekeeping Operations closely coordinates four interdependent and complementary subprogrammes (operations, military, rule of law and security institutions, and policy, evaluation and training) and integrates cross-cutting responsibilities in support of peacekeeping operations and special political missions under its direction. Within the Department of Field Support, two subprogrammes have been created to align with the structures established in the field for the provision of administrative and logistics support services (field administrative support and integrated support services).

4.3 The Department of Peacekeeping Operations serves as the lead department in the implementation of integrated mandates, including multisectoral assistance operations, and works in an integrated way with the Department of Field Support, which provides logistical and administrative support. Regional approaches to peacekeeping and political strategies for multiple operations will be pursued when appropriate.

4.4 The Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support will inform Member States on all phases of peacekeeping operations, paying particular attention to the requirements of troop- and police-contributing countries needing to make informed decisions about their engagement in United Nations peacekeeping. The programme will also give emphasis to keeping Member States and other stakeholders informed of support issues in relation to all phases of peacekeeping operations. Working in an integrated manner, special attention will be given to the safety and security of peacekeepers in the field, and careful consideration will be given to gender and geographical balance in the staffing of peacekeeping operations.

4.5 Programme strategies and plans are undertaken to establish, manage and direct peacekeeping operations and develop the capacities required to address a wide variety of conflict and post-conflict situations. A rapid and effective response to Security Council and General Assembly mandates is crucial for supporting the implementation of peace agreements between the parties to a conflict. Peacekeeping mandates may include the monitoring of ceasefires and buffer zones; disarming, demobilizing and reintegrating ex-combatants; reforming military establishments; training, advising and monitoring police forces; creating security conditions conducive to the return of refugees and internally displaced populations; promoting electoral and judicial reform and assisting civil administrations; facilitating political processes to consolidate peace and legitimate government authority; coordinating economic rehabilitation and mine-clearance programmes; and facilitating the delivery of humanitarian assistance. Missions may also be mandated to maintain law and order and assume responsibility for a transitional administration or executive law enforcement, including criminal justice functions. Meeting the complex and evolving challenges of modern peacekeeping requires an integrated approach and greater coordination and, as appropriate and mandated, support within the United Nations system and with external peacekeeping partners, including international financial institutions and regional organizations, to enhance the ability of the international community to maintain peace and security. Sustainable progress on security, national reconciliation and development needs to occur in parallel, given the interconnected nature of those challenges in countries emerging from conflict. In that context, the Department of Peacekeeping Operations, the Department of Field Support and other relevant departments and organizations will plan and conduct United Nations peacekeeping activities in such a manner as to facilitate post-conflict peacebuilding and the long-term prevention of recurrence of armed conflict. To increase the programme’s effectiveness, policy development and evaluation for the application of peacekeeping best practices and lessons learned will continue, as will emphasis on greater unity of effort and tailored training for all peacekeeping personnel.

4.6 The Department of Field Support is the provider of administrative and logistics services to the operations managed by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the field-based activities of the Department of Political Affairs, as well as other operations, as mandated. The programme will provide support to United Nations peacekeeping activities as well as to special political missions supported by the Department of Field Support in the areas of human resources, finance, logistics, information and communications technology and general administration.

4.7 Fundamental to the provision of mission support are recruiting and retaining high-quality personnel and ensuring that field missions have the appropriate logistic resources, including materiel, direction, guidance and oversight to enable them to meet their mandated tasks. In addition, the Department of Field Support provides financial support services that ensure appropriate funding, responsible stewardship of funds and the financial expertise to formulate resource requirements and to manage those funds and resources.

4.8 The programme will provide substantive and technical support to the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations, including follow-up on decisions related to peacekeeping operations taken by the Security Council and the General Assembly. The Department of Peacekeeping Operations will implement the recommendations of the Special Committee, as endorsed by the Assembly.

Strategy

4.9 The Office of Operations will continue to perform its core functions of providing timely advice and analysis to the Security Council, the General Assembly, intergovernmental bodies and troop-contributing and other contributing countries on peacekeeping issues and on the integrated planning, effective direction of and support for peacekeeping operations through the provision of policy, political and operational guidance.

4.10 The Office of Operations will serve as the locus of integration for planning and political and operational support to field operations. It will employ the integrated mission planning process policy with internal and external partners to both establish and adjust operations, to ensure a fully integrated approach to the spectrum of peacekeeping, peacemaking and peacebuilding support activities, ensuring the stabilization of States in post-conflict situations. The central vehicle at United Nations Headquarters for the integrated planning and conduct of United Nations peacekeeping operations and special political missions, supported by the Department of Field Support, will be the integrated operational teams. The Office of Operations will be responsible for establishing and managing the teams, bringing together expertise from the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support and other subject matter experts to provide integrated policy guidance for senior management on cross-cutting issues. The integrated operational teams will also provide a principal point of entry for troop- and police-contributing countries and partners on mission-specific issues, to engage in the planning and conduct of integrated peacekeeping operations. Building on initial context-specific cooperation with regional organizations, the Office of Operations will, in collaboration with the Policy, Evaluation and Training Division, operationalize relationships with an expanding pool of relevant regional organizations to maximize crisis prevention and response. In particular, and in the light of capacity needs in conflict-prone areas, the Office will enhance and institutionalize support for and cooperation with African regional organizations. Best practices will be incorporated into the design, planning and implementation of new and existing missions, including by refining of cross-cutting issues. Integrated mission information and operations units will be standardized in accordance with policy developments and will provide systematic and reliable mission risk assessments and longer-term analysis.

Subprogramme 2

(b) Increased efficiency and effectiveness of the military components of peacekeeping operations | (b) Implementation of all recommendations endorsed by Headquarters, in the end-of-assignment reports of Heads of Military Components

Strategy

4.11 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Office of Military Affairs. The Office will continue to provide its best military advice to assist the Security Council, the General Assembly, other intergovernmental bodies and troop- and police-contributing countries on issues related to peacekeeping. The Office will also endeavour to ensure that all troop- and police-contributing countries are informed about current peacekeeping issues and have their troops trained accordingly. The activities of the subprogramme will include the preparation of operational plans for military components of peacekeeping operations, such as contingency plans for potential, ongoing or closing operations; the generation of military forces, observers and Headquarters staff for deployment, including predeployment assessments, coordination of deployments and rotations of the military components of missions; daily monitoring of and support for the military components of peacekeeping operations; and the contribution to peacekeeping training activities of the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and Member States deploying uniformed personnel, including the institutionalization of high standards of conduct and discipline.

4.12 The subprogramme will give special emphasis to supporting African regional peacekeeping military needs; strive for formalized arrangements with peacekeeping partners; encourage and increase the participation of female peacekeepers; assist regional organizations in their efforts to set up peacekeeping forces; formulate and issue cohesive military-related peacekeeping policies; introduce modern management practices; increase synergy and cooperation between military and police components; continue to review the United Nations Standby Arrangements System and encourage Member States to participate in it; and enhance the rapidly deployable capability of the military component during the start-up of a peacekeeping mission or during a crisis in existing peacekeeping missions.

Military representatives on the teams will draw upon the full capability and expertise of the Office of Military Affairs across the entire spectrum of military issues. Military representatives on the teams have the responsibility to represent the official position of the Office. The Office will coordinate weekly meetings with the military officers attached to the integrated operational teams.

The re-establishment of the rule of law and the strengthening of national internal security services and institutions in post-conflict societies are paramount for the creation of an environment for lasting peace. The core function of the Office is thus to develop and maintain the important strategic and operational frameworks, including in the areas of guidance development, operational support, training and partnerships, to facilitate synergy, efficiency and effectiveness when working to strengthen security and the rule of law in the context of peacekeeping and peacebuilding. In that regard, the components each develop comprehensive plans and programmes for the reform and development of their respective sectors that take into consideration the relationships between the criminal justice institutions, legislation and justice system procedures and relevant gender dimensions affecting law and order. The components of the Office will also strive to support enhanced rule of law and the security-related activities of the Organization as a whole, by acting as the lead United Nations entity or focal point in the areas of police and law enforcement, corrections and mine action, as well as the chair or co-chair of the respective United Nations inter-agency bodies established in the areas of security sector reform, disarmament, demobilization and reintegration and mine action. The Office will actively engage regional and subregional organizations and donors on all aspects of rule of law and security issues and will develop and disseminate lessons learned and best practices. It will also strengthen its engagement with Member States and regional and national peacekeeping training centres on current training practices, security institution standards, and training guidelines and materials for police, corrections and other officers. In addition, the components of the Office will continue to develop value-added partnerships with other United Nations and relevant international actors.

The Division will provide services to the Department of Peacekeeping Operations, the Department of Field Support, field missions and Member States, thus ensuring the integration of substantive and support functions in guidance development, training and evaluation and providing a common platform for policy, guidance material, training and evaluation at Headquarters and in the field.

4.16 The aim of the above-mentioned capacity is to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of peacekeeping field operations and support from Headquarters through the institutional strengthening of peacekeeping. The Division will develop and disseminate peacekeeping doctrine (policies, practices and standard operating procedures), support the doctrine development process within the subprogrammes of both Departments and support the continued development of the Intranet as the principal means for sharing knowledge and providing guidance material to staff in the field. Working in close cooperation with Member States and regional organizations, the Division will provide training standards and support for training programmes intended to prepare peacekeepers to perform their functions in field missions and at Headquarters. The Division will support the development of peacekeeping training capacity in Member States, particularly in current and emerging troop- and police-contributing countries. The Division will identify potential peacekeeping partners and develop frameworks to enable existing United Nations and non-United Nations partners, in accordance with the established procedures, to cooperate in peacekeeping operations in a complementary manner. The Division will evaluate peacekeeping performance, with the results of the evaluations being used to guide follow-on remedial measures, including policy revision and development and training in both Departments and in field missions.

Strategy

4.17 Within the Department of Field Support, responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Field Personnel Division and Field Budget and Finance Division, whose activities include support for peacekeeping and other field operations in the areas of personnel, budget and finance. The subprogramme is also responsible for training, monitoring, reviewing and advising on conduct and discipline matters relating to all categories of personnel.

4.18 The Field Personnel Division’s mission is to enable peacekeeping operations to fulfil their mandates by designing, recruiting, developing and maintaining a high-quality civilian workforce through policy implementation guidance, organizational design and classification, self-monitoring, information management, outreach, roster maintenance and succession management. The Division also provides direct support in the functional areas of travel and administration (including on-boarding) to all field operations for those areas in which they do not have fully delegated human resources management authority. The priorities of the Field Personnel Division for the 2012-2013 biennium are to improve the capacity of field missions to administer themselves, to strengthen the Department’s capability to rapidly deploy high-quality personnel, to improve the representation of troop- and police-contributing countries and gender at all levels, and to implement staff development and performance assessment practices that produce confident and competent managers of financial, human and physical resources, thus assuring high-quality support to field operations.

4.19 The Field Budget and Finance Division will support missions in preparing budget proposals and performance reports to enable the effective and efficient fulfilment of their mandates and to respond to changing circumstances on the ground or changes in mandates, including liquidation. The support provided will include Abacus team visits to field operations to improve the quality of information and timeliness of budget preparation, including improved results-based budgeting, staffing and cost estimates. The Division will ensure the timely processing of troop- and police-contributing countries’ claims for contingent-owned equipment.

4.20 The subprogramme will support field operations in the implementation of enterprise resource planning and International Public Sector Accounting Standards, in the areas related to personnel, budget and finance. The subprogramme will also work towards ensuring operational readiness and will prioritize the timely deployment of financial and personnel resources, as well as enhance its capacity to rapidly deploy a fully effective mission to areas of operation.

4.21 The subprogramme is also responsible for training, monitoring, reviewing and advising on conduct and discipline matters relating to all categories of personnel. The subprogramme will place continued emphasis on the prevention of misconduct, in particular by providing training materials to Member States and peacekeeping operations, for training in United Nations standards of conduct, including mandatory training for all categories of personnel on sexual exploitation and abuse. The subprogramme will continue to monitor, review and provide policy guidance and oversight on United Nations standards of conduct, to advise on conduct and discipline matters relating to all categories of personnel and to assist with appropriate follow-up to allegations of misconduct. The subprogramme will provide assistance and support to the inter-agency efforts on protection from sexual exploitation and abuse and on assistance to victims.

The activities of those offices include the provision of equipment and services to missions, enabling the effective, timely and efficient fulfilment of their mandates. The subprogramme will provide integrated support services to missions as required and develop responsive mechanisms to address changing circumstances on the ground or changes in mandate. The subprogramme will work towards ensuring pre-emptive operational readiness and will strive to be more effectively placed to prioritize the timely deployment of material resources, as well as optimizing United Nations acquisition management and its material resource utilization. The subprogramme will continue to monitor and provide policy guidance and oversight on the delivery of integrated support to the field missions.

Strategy

4.23 The United Nations Truce Supervision Organization (UNTSO) will continue to implement its current core functions of observer deployment, and of maintaining liaison with the regional authorities under its regional mandate. UNTSO will continue to provide trained military observers under the operational control of the United Nations Disengagement Observer Force (UNDOF) and the United Nations
Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL), assisting with the implementation of their respective mandates. It will maintain its observer presence in Egypt through a liaison office, as well as conduct a minimum acceptable level of patrols.

4.24 The mission will continue to provide timely and accurate observation reports and analysis of political developments mission-wide, including the safety and security situation. It will also continue to exercise command, administrative, logistical and security support to all outstations and liaison offices, and at its headquarters in Jerusalem. In addition, it will continue to use the good offices of the head of mission to strengthen and impose the relationships between Israel and its neighbouring countries. UNTSO will also continue to maintain and improve effective liaison with the ambassadorial and consular representatives of troop- and police-contributing nations, and with regional United Nations organizations. Furthermore, it will continue to develop contingency planning to address changes in the military and/or political situation in the UNTSO area of operation.

2. United Nations Military Observer Group in India and Pakistan

Peaceful uses of outer space

Overall orientation

5.1 The overall purpose of the programme is the promotion of international cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space for economic, social and scientific development, in particular for the benefit of developing countries. The legislative authority and direction of the programme is drawn from relevant General Assembly resolutions and the decisions of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, which was established in 1959 by the Assembly in its resolution 1472 A (XIV).

5.2 Recommendations of particular relevance to the work to be undertaken under this programme are contained in General Assembly resolutions 54/68, 59/2, 59/115, 61/110, 61/111, 62/101, 62/217 and 64/86.

5.3 The Committee’s Plan of Action to further implement the recommendations of the Third United Nations Conference on the Exploration and Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (UNISPACE III), contained in the resolution entitled “The Space Millennium: Vienna Declaration on Space and Human Development” and endorsed by the General Assembly in its resolution 54/68, is contained in its related report (A/59/174). The Plan of Action, which was endorsed by the Assembly in its resolution 59/2, constitutes a long-term strategy for enhancing mechanisms at the national, regional and global levels for developing and strengthening the use of space science and technology and their applications. In implementing that strategy, the Committee will provide a bridge between users and potential providers of space-based development and services and will take advantage of partnerships established between its secretariat, Member States, intergovernmental organizations and international non-governmental organizations.

5.4 In its resolution 61/110, the General Assembly established the United Nations Platform for Space-based Information for Disaster Management and Emergency Response (UN-SPIDER) to provide universal access to all types of space-based information and services relevant to disaster management to support the full disaster management cycle. UN-SPIDER serves as a gateway to space-based information for disaster management support, a bridge to connect the disaster management and space communities and a facilitator of capacity-building and institutional strengthening, in particular for developing countries.

5.5 The General Assembly, in its resolution 61/111, noted with appreciation the establishment of the International Committee on Global Navigation Satellite Systems. The International Committee promotes cooperation, as appropriate, on matters of mutual interest related to civil satellite-based positioning, navigation, timing and value-added services. By its resolution 64/86, the General Assembly welcomed the progress made by the International Committee and endorsed the recommendation of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space that the Office for Outer Space Affairs of the Secretariat should continue to serve as the executive secretariat of the International Committee and its Providers’ Forum.

5.6 The actions of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space aimed at strengthening the international legal regime governing outer space resulted in the adoption by the General Assembly of resolutions 59/115 and 62/101. Those resolutions, which aim at facilitating adherence to and the application of the provisions of the United Nations treaties on outer space, in particular the Convention on International Liability for Damage Caused by Space Objects and the Convention on Registration of Objects Launched into Outer Space, contain recommendations on the application of the concept of the “launching State” and on enhancing the practice of States and intergovernmental organizations in registering space objects. The programme will further support the Committee’s efforts by taking action to assist States in building or enhancing their capacity in space law.

5.7 In its resolution 62/217, the General Assembly endorsed the Space Debris Mitigation Guidelines of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (A/62/20, paras. 117 and 118 and annex). The Guidelines, to be implemented on a voluntary basis, reflect the existing practices of a number of national and international organizations. By its resolution 64/86, the General Assembly welcomed the Safety Framework for Nuclear Power Source Applications inOuter Space (A/AC.105/934), adopted by the Scientific and Technical Subcommittee and endorsed by the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space. The Safety Framework, developed in cooperation with the International Atomic Energy Agency, promotes the safe use of nuclear power sources in outer space.

5.8 The implementation of the programme will continue to strengthen efforts at the national, regional and global levels, including among entities of the United Nations system and international space-related entities, to maximize the benefits of the use of space science and technology and their applications.

Objective of the Organization: To further strengthen international cooperation among Member States and international entities in the conduct of space activities for peaceful purposes and the use of space science and technology and their applications towards achieving internationally agreed sustainable development goals

6.1 The overall purpose of the programme is to support the accomplishment of the objectives of the United Nations by providing advice to the principal and subsidiary organs of the United Nations and by promoting among Member States a better understanding of and respect for the principles and norms of international law.

6.2 The mandate for the programme derives from the principal decision-making organs of the United Nations in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations and the Statute of the International Court of Justice.

6.3 Within the Secretariat, substantive responsibility for the programme is vested in the Office of Legal Affairs. It provides a unified central legal service for the Secretariat and the principal and other organs of the United Nations; supports the development of international justice; contributes to the progressive development and codification of international public and trade law and the strengthening and development of the international legal order for the seas and oceans; registers and publishes treaties; and performs the depositary functions of the Secretary-General.

6.4 The Office will provide legal advice and services, on request, to the decision-making organs of the United Nations and its Member States. It will aim to strengthen respect within the United Nations for the rule of law in international relations, in particular, observance of the Charter and the resolutions, decisions, regulations, rules and treaties emanating from the Organization. Particular attention will be given to incorporating a gender perspective into the work of the programme, in particular to the advice provided by the Office and in its activities, as appropriate.

6.5 The Office will carry out its activities in cooperation with other departments and offices of the Secretariat, entities of the United Nations system and entities external to the United Nations, including treaty organizations, intergovernmental, interregional, regional and national organizations, non-governmental organizations and academic communities. Such collaboration and cooperation include the following:

(a) Coordination of interdepartmental activities, liaison with United Nations organs dealing with legal matters, offices away from Headquarters and legal advisers or liaison officers assigned to field missions or other Secretariat units;

(b) Representation at and convening of meetings with legal advisers of the United Nations system and coordination of institutional arrangements for the specialized agencies and related organizations on matters of common concern;

(c) Representation of the Secretary-General and the Legal Counsel at meetings and conferences convened by the United Nations or sponsored by Governments, intergovernmental organizations and other international institutions.

6.6 The Office will face changing demands in a number of areas of its work. It will also aim to carry out its functions in the most efficient and modern way possible through enhanced use of the latest information and communications technology.
Subprogramme 1
Provision of legal services to the United Nations system as a whole

6.7 The subprogramme is implemented by the Office of the Legal Counsel. The Office will assist the principal and subsidiary organs of the United Nations through the qualitative and timely provision of legal advice at their request, the preparation of reports and analyses, and its participation in meetings. This covers questions relating to international peace and security, and includes advice on the interpretation of the Charter, resolutions, rules and regulations of the United Nations, treaties, and questions involving the use of force, sanctions, investigations, commissions of inquiry, expert groups, privileges and immunities, relations with host countries and third-party liability. Legal advice will also be provided to treaty bodies institutionally linked to the United Nations, at their request. Advice will be provided on constitutional, credentials and membership issues, as well as on the interpretation and application of the rules of procedure of principal and subsidiary organs. The Office will also assist the Secretary-General in complying with his statutory responsibilities with regard to the International Court of Justice. As required, the Office will represent the Secretary-General at meetings and conferences. Through continued ongoing contacts with legal offices throughout the United Nations system, the Office will seek to ensure that legal advice within the system is provided in a coordinated manner. The Office will work closely with the principal and subsidiary organs of the United Nations to ensure that the advice is clear, accurate and effective, and will engage in necessary follow-up to support the implementation of any resulting policy decisions, if requested.

6.8 Legal advice and services will be provided for the Organization’s peacekeeping operations, through the preparation of agreements governing the status and the privileges, immunities, facilities and exemptions of those operations, including status-of-forces and status-of-mission agreements. Assistance and advice will also be provided in the preparation of instruments required for the proper and lawful functioning of those operations, including rules of engagement, standard operating procedures and directives. In the case of operations with legislative and executive mandates, assistance and advice will, in addition, be provided in the preparation of legislative instruments. Assistance for peacemaking efforts will include advice to support negotiations and the preparation of legal instruments.

6.9 A further objective of the subprogramme is to support the development of international justice and contribute to efforts to eradicate impunity through help to existing international and internationally assisted tribunals. To that end, the Office will work to ensure that, as subsidiary organs of the Security Council, the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia and the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda or their residual mechanism operate, in their administrative activities, in accordance with the Charter, regulations, rules and policies of the United Nations and, as judicial organs, act within their statutes. Within the framework of the subprogramme, the Office will advise the principal and subsidiary organs of the Organization on legal aspects of the activities of the above-mentioned Tribunals and on matters arising in their relations with those Tribunals. It will also advise the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia and the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda or their residual mechanism regarding their relationships with States and host countries. In addition, the Office will provide advice, and ongoing support to the Special Court for Sierra Leone, the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia and the Special Tribunal for Lebanon. The Office will also advise the principal and subsidiary organs regarding the Relationship Agreement between the International Criminal Court and the United Nations. The Office will assist in the establishment of other tribunals, as mandated, and help to develop transitional justice mechanisms, if mandated.

6.10 The Office will continue to carry out secretariat and representational functions for organs and bodies falling within its competence, including the Credentials Committee of the General Assembly, the Committee on Relations with the Host Country and, as appropriate, ad hoc working groups of the Security Council and the Sixth Committee.

(c) Increased number of joint activities that incorporate reference to UNCITRAL trade law standards

(d) Facilitation of the work of UNCITRAL

(d) Increased number of Member States indicating satisfaction with the services provided

---

Strategy

6.25 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the International Trade Law Division.

6.26 The United Nations Commission on International Trade Law, codification conferences and related intergovernmental working groups will be provided with substantive support. The services provided to UNCITRAL in the conduct of its law-making activity will include research on international trade law, the preparation of studies and policy papers, legal advice and assistance in the conduct of intergovernmental negotiations and in the drafting of decisions, amendments and proposals. The International Trade Law Division will assist the Commission in drafting for Governments modern and universally acceptable legislative and non-legislative texts (treaties, model laws, legislative guides and recommendations) in areas where the Commission determines that the modernization or harmonization of commercial law is desirable and feasible. To that effect, a specialized library will be maintained.

6.27 In view of the growing need for commercial law reform in the various areas in which the Commission has prepared harmonized standards and the related increased demand for legislative technical assistance, in particular in developing countries and countries in transition, the Division will pay considerable attention to developing and carrying out programmes for a more active promotion of UNCITRAL texts, as well as legislative technical assistance and training. Such assistance will be based on requests from regional organizations and individual countries, and will be provided in the form of briefings to officials, training and direct assistance in the drafting of instruments enacting uniform law texts, supported by commentaries, guides to enactment and information notes prepared by the Division. Professional associations and academic institutions, in particular in developing countries and countries with economies in transition, will be assisted in promoting modern business practices and the teaching of international trade law. Carrying out the relevant activities in an effective and sustainable manner is expected to require their integration into strengthened and coordinated rule of law activities of the United Nations, additional resources and increased partnerships with State and non-State actors, including the private sector.
6.28 Cooperation will be undertaken with regional organizations to foster regional harmonization on the basis of universal texts of the Commission. The Division will provide models for use by intergovernmental organizations when they prepare legislative texts or assist their member States in modernizing trade legislation. Furthermore, the Division will draft models for use by international and national organizations when they prepare standard texts for use by their members. Attention will generally be given to issues arising from the increasing importance of electronic commerce in international trade. The UNCITRAL website will be maintained and expanded in all six official languages of the United Nations.

6.29 Bearing in mind the fact that an increasing number of regional economic integration organizations and those for particular industrial sectors are formulating rules and standards for international trade, the Division will be required to monitor and analyse their work so as to assist the Commission, as the core legal body within the United Nations system in the field of international trade law, to carry out its mandate to coordinate legal activities in the area of international trade, in particular to avoid duplication of efforts and to promote efficiency, consistency and coherence in the modernization and harmonization of international trade law.

6.30 Users of legal texts originating from the Commission will be provided with information on the judicial and arbitral application and interpretation of those texts. Such information will be made available in all the official languages of the United Nations in the form of abstracts of court decisions and arbitral awards. In addition, the Division will facilitate the use of uniform law by preparing and continuously updating digests of case law interpreting UNCITRAL texts, such as the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods and the UNCITRAL Model Law on International Commercial Arbitration. The Division will also disseminate information on the implementation of the Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards and promote its uniform interpretation. The Division will pay particular attention to the growing need for uniform interpretation of international legal standards, which results from the use of such standards in a continuously increasing number of jurisdictions. The Division will explore means of responding to that demand through a realistic effort in support of harmonization of international trade law, not only in its enactment but also in its everyday use by courts and tribunals.

Economic and social affairs

Overall orientation

7.1 The overall objective of the programme is to promote and support international cooperation in the pursuit of sustained economic growth, the eradication of poverty and hunger, and sustainable development for all. While focused on tackling interlinked challenges in the social and economic fields, the programme also seeks to contribute to a mutually reinforcing relationship among the three pillars of the United Nations work: peace and security, development and human rights.

7.2 The programme is under the responsibility of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs. Its key programmatic thrusts are: (a) to provide substantive support to the bodies established under the Charter of the United Nations dealing with development issues, namely, the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and its related functional commissions, and expert bodies; (b) to monitor and analyse development trends, prospects and policy issues globally; and (c) to provide support for capacity development in policy formulation and implementation, in particular in relation to the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, through, inter alia, implementation of the regular programme of technical cooperation and Development Account projects.

7.3 The programme has put development issues at the centre of global deliberations and helped Member States to forge a shared vision of development based on the internationally agreed development goals and commitments, with the Millennium Development Goals at the core, as identified in the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and summits, including the 2005 World Summit. Those commitments are collectively referred to as the United Nations development agenda.

7.4 In the biennium 2012-2013, the programme will continue to mobilize and provide practical support to help translate the development commitments into action. It will focus on the delivery of four main functions: (a) monitoring, research and analysis of development issues and emerging challenges, including through support to the global statistical system; (b) normative and policy support to United Nations intergovernmental processes; (c) assistance in capacity development and active promotion of capacity-building activities in order to support implementation of global conference outcomes at the country level; and (d) fostering collaboration and partnerships within the United Nations system and with civil society and the private sector.

7.5 Fulfilling those functions requires strengthened analytical and monitoring capacity, in particular to identify and address emerging issues and cross-cutting policy challenges and to support both national development strategies and accountability and monitoring mechanisms at the intergovernmental level. Strategic integration is also essential, to promote a coherent and coordinated implementation process for the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals. This includes enhancing horizontal linkages across the subprogrammes of programme 7 to enable more effective and flexible support to Member States in pursuing the development agenda, in cooperation with entities of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs, to which the programme provides strategic support and ensures its stronger linkages with the United Nations Development Group, other executive committees and various other partners.

7.6 The programme will continue to emphasize the mainstreaming of gender perspectives into its subprogrammes. Consultations have taken place among concerned entities of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs at the thematic cluster level. Those consultations are expected to continue enhancing coordination and collaborative work among programmes in major common work areas of the United Nations Secretariat in the social and economic sectors.

Programme 8

Least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States

Overall orientation

8.1 The legislative authority for the programme derives from General Assembly resolutions 55/279, by which the Assembly endorsed the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010, adopted at the Third United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries, held in Brussels in May 2001, and 56/227, whereby the Assembly decided to establish the Office of the High Representative for the Least Developed Countries, Landlocked Developing Countries and Small Island Developing States in accordance with the recommendations of the Secretary-General contained in his report of 23 November 2001 (A/56/645 and Add.1 and Add.1/Corr.1 and 2).

8.2 The mandate of the programme covers four main elements:

(a) Mobilization and coordination of international support and resources for the effective implementation of: (i) the new programme of action for the least developed countries, to be adopted at the forthcoming Fourth United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries, to be held in 2011 in Turkey; (ii) the Almaty Programme of Action: Addressing the Special Needs of Landlocked Developing Countries within a New Global Framework for Transit Transport Cooperation for Landlocked and Transit Developing Countries; and (iii) the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States;

(b) Enhanced monitoring and follow-up to the three programmes of action;

(c) Awareness-raising and advocacy with respect to the three groups of countries (least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States) and the related programmes of action;

(d) Reporting on the implementation of the new programme of action for the least developed countries and the Almaty Programme of Action as effective tools for reaching the international development goals of the countries concerned.

8.3 The programme will also contribute to achieving the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and in the outcomes of major United Nations conferences and international agreements. It will mobilize international support in favour of its three groups of constituencies in the areas of capacity-building and increased technical and financial resources in promoting sustained growth and sustainable development. Gender is an important dimension in the implementation of the three programmes of action.

8.4 The overall programme of work of the Office of the High Representative is designed around three interdependent and complementary subprogrammes, namely, subprogramme 1, Least developed countries, subprogramme 2, Landlocked developing countries, and subprogramme 3, Small island developing States.
8.5 With a view to addressing the objectives in each of the three main areas of endeavour, the Office of the High Representative will use a combination of the following approaches and strategies:

(a) Raising awareness and advocating that the concerns of the least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States be placed high on the global development cooperation agenda, to maintain the focus on their special needs and ensure that global economic governance, coherence and solidarity are brought to bear on the problems and challenges relating to these three groups of vulnerable countries;

(b) Mobilizing international support and resources in favour of the three groups of countries to help them overcome their vulnerabilities, build resilience and set themselves on a path of economically, socially and environmentally sustained and sustainable development;

(c) Monitoring and follow-up to foster supportive policies in groups of countries in special situations and their development partners in accordance with their respective programmes of action and other internationally agreed development goals;

(d) Working with the United Nations system and other international organizations, including regional organizations, the donor community and civil society, to ensure the mainstreaming of priorities identified in each of the three programmes of action;

(e) Supporting the effective participation of the least developed countries in intergovernmental processes, including through the articulation of their needs, concerns and interests, and continuing to make the case that these three groups of countries deserve special consideration and treatment in order to overcome their vulnerabilities;

(f) Building partnerships towards the implementation of the Almaty Programme of Action by establishing coordinating mechanisms for its implementation at the national, subregional and global levels;

(g) Monitoring and coordinating implementation of specific actions and initiatives with the aim of establishing efficient transit transport systems in landlocked and transit developing countries;

(h) Promoting South-South cooperation in various areas for the benefit of the countries of the three groups;

(i) Reaching out to all stakeholders, including partnerships with civil society and the private sector, to enhance support for the three groups of countries;

(j) Maximizing synergies among the three subprogrammes, given the commonalities of problems and challenges, including their structural weaknesses, their vulnerability to external shocks, the smallness of their economies, their marginal position in the world economy and their geographical disadvantages.

Programme 9
United Nations support for the New Partnership for Africa’s Development

Overall orientation

9.1 The programme was established following the final review and appraisal of the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s in 2002. As a result of that review, the General Assembly, by its resolution 57/7, brought to a close the New Agenda and endorsed the New Partnership for Africa’s Development (NEPAD) as the framework for the international community’s support to African development. In its resolution 57/7, the Assembly also outlined the substantive areas and modalities for providing such support, inter alia, underscoring the need for a structure in the Secretariat in New York to review and report on the support provided by the United Nations system and the international community for the New Partnership, and on the coordinated implementation of outcomes of summits and conferences as they relate to Africa, as well as to coordinate global advocacy in support of the New Partnership. In addition, the Assembly welcomed the actions being taken at the regional level by the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA) to organize the activities of the United Nations system around thematic clusters covering the priority areas of the New Partnership and, in that regard, urged the strengthening of this process as a means of enhancing the effective response of the United Nations system in support of the New Partnership. Finally, it called upon the United Nations system to intensify its advocacy role and public information activities in support of Africa’s development. Subsequently, in its resolution 57/300, the Assembly endorsed the creation of the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa and entrusted to that Office the role of coordinating both reports and advocacy in support of NEPAD. The role of the Office in supporting NEPAD has been reaffirmed by the Assembly in a series of subsequent resolutions.

9.2 At the World Summit, held at the United Nations in September 2005 (see General Assembly resolution 60/1), world leaders reaffirmed their commitment to addressing the special needs of Africa, the only continent not on track to meet any of the goals of the United Nations Millennium Declaration (see Assembly resolution 55/2) by 2015. Subsequently, world leaders reaffirmed the special needs of Africa in the political declaration adopted by the Assembly at its high-level meeting on Africa’s development needs, on 22 September 2008 (see Assembly resolution 63/1). The New Partnership includes a commitment to achieving the Millennium Development Goals, which represents an important linkage with the Millennium Declaration. NEPAD thus substantially reflects the priorities in terms of meeting the special needs of Africa as set out in the Millennium Declaration, namely, supporting the political and institutional structures of emerging democracies in Africa; further building peacekeeping capacity in cooperation with regional organizations; taking special measures to address the challenges of poverty reduction and sustainable development by cancelling debt, increasing official development assistance, enhancing private capital flows and building capacities for trade; and helping Africa to build its capacity to tackle the spread of HIV/AIDS and other infectious diseases. Consequently, through its support for NEPAD, the programme will also contribute substantively to the implementation of the Millennium Development Goals in Africa.

11 NEPAD was formally adopted by the Heads of State and Government of the Organization of African Unity, at its thirty-seventh ordinary session, held in Lusaka in July 2001.
9.3 A major barrier to Africa’s development has been the persistence of conflicts in some of the countries of the region. The need to develop a comprehensive response to promoting peace and security and development has long been recognized and was articulated in the report of the Secretary-General on the causes of conflict and the promotion of durable peace and sustainable development in Africa (A/52/871-S/1998/318). Since the issuance of that report, in 1998, a number of United Nations initiatives in Africa have been in line with the recommendations contained therein, although a great deal still needs to be done. In recognition of this, the General Assembly, by its resolution 60/223, called upon the Secretary-General to continue to monitor progress in the implementation of the recommendations. A comprehensive review of the implementation of the original 1998 recommendations is being undertaken by the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa.

9.4 In accordance with the mandate provided in the resolutions of the General Assembly, the programme aims to (a) mobilize support and galvanize the efforts of the international community for peace and development in Africa, (b) ensure that the development of Africa remains one of the main priorities of the international community, (c) promote a supportive international framework for African development efforts, (d) encourage a coordinated and effective response by the United Nations system at the policy and operational levels in support of African development and (e) strengthen and enhance South-South cooperation in support of Africa’s advancement.

9.5 Regional and international efforts have focused on the implementation of NEPAD and on assisting Africa’s efforts to develop a robust peace and security architecture. The programme will support those efforts through a mix of analytical work, advocacy and outreach, and by improving coordination of the work of the United Nations system in support of Africa’s development.

9.6 The Office of the Special Adviser on Africa provides overall coordination and leadership of the programme, which will be the joint responsibility of the Office, ECA and the Department of Public Information.

Subprogramme 1
Coordination of global advocacy of and support for the New Partnership for Africa’s Development

Objective of the Organization: To strengthen international cooperation in support of the New Partnership for Africa’s Development and the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals in Africa

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat | Indicators of achievement
---|---
(a) Increased international community support for Africa’s development, in general, and for NEPAD, in particular | (a) (i) An increase in the number of United Nations system activities in support of Africa’s development
(ii) Increased number of international forums addressing South-South cooperation in support of Africa
(b) Improved United Nations coordination in providing support to Africa’s development

(b) Increased number of joint initiatives in support of Africa’s development undertaken by United Nations system agencies

(c) Increased international awareness of Africa’s development issues

(c) Increased number of visits to the websites of the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa

Strategy

9.7 Responsibility for subprogramme 1 is vested in the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa, which will be proactive in working closely with Member States, the African Union, the NEPAD secretariat and the entire United Nations system (including the Bretton Woods institutions) in the performance of its functions. It will encourage the building of an international infrastructure consortium, with the New Partnership for Africa’s Development as the main framework, to facilitate public and private infrastructure investment in Africa and will encourage and support the initiatives of the African Union and subregional organizations aimed at preventing, mediating and resolving conflicts with the assistance of the United Nations. The Office will also continue to conduct studies and organize expert group meetings on the role of the private sector in the implementation of NEPAD, establish and maintain contacts with civil society organizations and the private sector, and encourage their participation in the implementation of NEPAD.

9.8 The subprogramme will ensure that African development issues are effectively addressed in intergovernmental debates and adequately incorporated into the resolutions emanating from that process. It will seek to raise international awareness of African development issues through advocacy and catalytic activities, participation at key forums, encouragement of United Nations system coordination, promotion of South-South cooperation and engagement with civil society and the private sector. In view of the interlinkages between peace and sustainable development in Africa, the subprogramme will continue to analyse and draw attention to the root causes of conflict in African countries, monitor early warning signals and make recommendations on steps that need to be taken to tackle violent conflicts in African countries.

9.9 The Office will continue to monitor the follow-up to international commitments made to Africa in the context of the 2005 World Summit Outcome and international forums held since 2005. It will monitor the support (including financial and technical support) given to Africa by other development partners. The Office will also advocate and further raise international awareness of the importance of an effective partnership between African countries and other development partners. Furthermore, the Office will promote South-South cooperation through, inter alia, the Africa-Asia and Africa-South America cooperation processes, respectively, and provide support to other South-South forums. Through its interactions with Member States from the South, the Office will continue to encourage the convening of forums that will result in practical measures to promote South-South cooperation, with a view to enabling African countries to benefit from the sharing of experiences and potentially from technical assistance and cooperation on the part of other developing and emerging countries.
9.10 In light of the strong commitment of the African countries to improve governance through the establishment of the African Peer Review Mechanism, the Office will promote institutional capacity-building and good governance in Africa with the aim of supporting the implementation of NEPAD projects and programmes.

Strategy

9.11 Substantive responsibility for subprogramme 2 is vested in ECA. The activities under the subprogramme will be undertaken by the Economic Development and NEPAD Division. In implementing the subprogramme, ECA will work closely with other United Nations bodies at the global, regional and subregional levels, in particular with the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa and the Department of Public Information, within the context of the Regional Coordination Mechanism and its thematic clusters.

9.12 Support by United Nations agencies has increased over the years. Nevertheless, for that support to have a tangible impact, coordination and emphasis on joint activities need to be strengthened and enhanced. The strategic focus of subprogramme 2 will therefore be on strengthening inter-agency collaboration and coordination in the implementation of technical cooperation activities by the various thematic clusters in support of the priorities identified in the African Union’s NEPAD action plans. The subprogramme will also focus on improving collaboration and coordination with the African Union, the NEPAD secretariat, the regional economic communities, the African Development Bank and other regional organizations, with a view to ensuring the provision of effective support in the implementation of the African Union’s NEPAD programme in the context of the framework of the 10-year capacity-building programme for the African Union. Strategy

9.13 Substantive responsibility for subprogramme 3 lies with the Department of Public Information. The overall strategy involves the development of global communications plans on priority issues affecting Africa, including generating support for the implementation of NEPAD in Africa and in the donor countries, and for the achievement of all international development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and decisions and outcomes of major international conferences. Those plans will be implemented by the Department in coordination with the United Nations Communications Group and the United Nations system as a whole, in particular with the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa and ECA. Activities will include publication of Africa Renewal magazine, together with a range of additional outputs, including Web-only news and analysis, background notes, press releases and briefing papers for use by non-United Nations media, both African and international. Dissemination to the general public and to target groups will be enhanced through direct contact (briefings, panel discussions, seminars) with individuals and groups, such as parliamentarians, policymakers in both Government and non-governmental organizations, trade unions, civil society and academic institutions, as well as through systematic outreach to the media in Africa and to the international mass media. Key players will be kept informed of major national and international initiatives and events that affect sustainable development in Africa.

Trade and development

Overall orientation

10.1 The main objective of the programme implemented by the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) and the International Trade Centre UNCTAD/WTO (ITC) is to assist developing countries, especially least developed countries, and countries with economies in transition in integrating beneficially into the global economy. In all aspects of its work, UNCTAD will help to implement the global development agenda and will assist developing countries in meeting their development goals, including poverty eradication, so as to improve the well-being of their citizens and to address the opportunities and challenges created by globalization. In particular, in line with the priorities of the Organization, UNCTAD will further enhance its efforts to support the development of Africa across all its sectoral areas of expertise.

10.2 In order to attain the foregoing objectives, UNCTAD, within its mandate, will: (a) conduct pragmatic research and analysis on both long-standing and emerging development issues; (b) build consensus around efforts to promote national and international policies and strategies conducive to development; and (c) support countries in implementing their development strategies aimed at their integration into the global economy and the achievement of sustainable levels of growth and development. In the context of the deepening interdependence among all countries, UNCTAD will maintain its unique orientation and its commitment to development through those three pillars, while remaining responsive and accountable to all Member States.

10.3 The programme is guided by the sessions of the Conference, the Trade and Development Board and its subsidiary bodies, and the Commission on Science and Technology for Development. The decisions adopted at the twelfth session of the Conference, held in Accra in April 2008, formed the basis for the present programme of work. For the period 2012-2013, the programme will further integrate the outcomes of the thirteenth session of the Conference, scheduled to be held in 2012. UNCTAD is responsible for subprogrammes 1 to 5 within the programme, while subprogramme 6 is under the responsibility of the International Trade Centre UNCTAD/WTO.

10.4 UNCTAD will pursue five subprogrammes to support its objective of helping developing countries to integrate beneficially into the international trading system. The principal task of subprogramme 1 arising from the outcomes of the twelfth session of UNCTAD will be the examination of development strategies in a globalizing world economy and related issues. Subprogrammes 2 and 4 will aim to contribute to the building of productive capacities and international competitiveness, while subprogramme 3 and the trade logistics component of subprogramme 4 will aim to contribute to the maximization of gains resulting from globalization for development in international trade and trade negotiations in goods and services. The development strategies of African economies, the least developed countries and countries in special situations, including small island developing States, landlocked developing countries and other structurally weak, vulnerable and small economies, will be covered under subprogramme 5, while sectoral concerns of those countries will also be addressed by other subprogrammes, in coordination and cooperation with subprogramme 5.

10.5 Within the framework of subprogramme 3, the Special Unit on Commodities carries out its work as an autonomous unit on commodities, in accordance with paragraph 183 of the Accra Accord. With the guidance and leadership of the Secretary-General of UNCTAD, the Unit will contribute more effectively to the efforts of developing countries to formulate strategies and policies to respond to the challenges and opportunities of commodity markets.

10.6 Throughout its work programme, UNCTAD will make efforts to mainstream cross-cutting issues related to gender equality and the empowerment of women, the promotion of sustainable development, and full and productive employment. The Conference will also strengthen its cross-divisional coordination, in particular with respect to training and capacity-building programmes.

10.7 UNCTAD will make contributions, within its mandates, to the implementation of the outcomes of relevant global conferences. Notably, it will contribute to the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals set out in the Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome, in particular those chapters of the Outcome related to the global partnership for development, financing for development, domestic resource mobilization, investment, debt, trade, commodities, systemic issues and global economic decision-making, economic cooperation among developing countries, sustainable development and science and technology for development.

10.8 UNCTAD will also contribute to the implementation of specific actions requested in the Monterrey Consensus of the International Conference on Financing for Development; the Doha Declaration on Financing for Development and its follow-up; the outcomes of the Fourth United Nations Conference on Least Developed Countries, to be held in 2011; the outcomes and the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation agreed at the World Summit on Sustainable Development; the outcomes and the Declaration of Principles and the Plan of Action of the World Summits on the Information Society; the Almaty Programme of Action: Addressing the Special Needs of Landlocked Developing Countries within a New Global Framework for Transit Transport Cooperation for Landlocked and Transit Developing Countries; and the outcomes of the midterm review of the Almaty Programme of Action in 2008 and the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States. In addition, it will assist in furthering the implementation of the internationally agreed goals set out in the Doha Ministerial Declaration of the Fourth Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organization (WTO) and other relevant decisions.

10.9 As a lead agency of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination with regard to the inter-agency thematic cluster on trade and productive sectors, UNCTAD will enhance the role of trade and development and related issues in United Nations development assistance plans, such as United Nations development assistance frameworks and national development strategies; undertake joint operations at the country level as appropriate; and enhance inter-agency cooperation in system-wide initiatives in those areas.

Strategy

10.16 The subprogramme is under the responsibility of the Division for Africa, Least Developed Countries and Special Programmes. In order to attain the objective, the subprogramme will focus on identifying and promoting understanding of the economic development problems specific to the countries concerned, through policy analysis and research, and will play an advocacy role in promoting consensus in the international development community regarding the policy measures that best address those development problems. This will involve the identification of new issues and approaches, as well as greater interaction with research institutes in the least developed countries and with development partners. The subprogramme will also contribute to the implementation of and follow-up to the outcomes of relevant global conferences and to the achievement of internationally agreed development goals, including those set out in the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2011-2020. The special programme under the subprogramme is aimed at helping landlocked developing countries to mitigate the adverse economic consequences of their geographical disadvantage through: (a) support for policymaking with a view to enhanced productive capacities and sound economic specialization; (b) helping small island developing States to enhance their resilience to external shocks and making steady socio-economic progress possible for most of them; and (c) instilling throughout UNCTAD a practice of devoting systematic attention to the problems of other structurally weak, vulnerable and small economies, as referred to in paragraph 10 of the Accra Accord.

10.17 A major aim is to add value to current policy debates through practical policy recommendations and innovative thinking on current issues. Research outputs will be linked closely to the provision of advisory services, training, workshops and lectures, with a view to improving human and institutional capabilities and sensitizing development partners to the specific needs of developing countries and ways to meet those needs. In order to identify policy options at the national and international levels regarding the use of trade as a more effective tool for poverty eradication, the subprogramme will undertake research activities concerning the interlinkages between trade and poverty, as well as training and capacity-building programmes for local institutions. The subprogramme will continue to support countries in their efforts to benefit from their respective United Nations statuses and to integrate beneficially into the global economy and reduce poverty. This will involve support aimed at enhancing productive capacities and building resilience to adverse external influences. Technical cooperation outputs of the subprogramme will be focused on building capacities for national policymaking ownership and will include the linking of policy analysis and research work to policy ownership capacity-building support activities. Furthermore, they will be aimed at effective participation in and delivery of trade-related technical assistance in the context of, inter alia, the Enhanced Integrated Framework and the Aid for Trade Initiative.

10.18 In addition, the subprogramme will contribute to the implementation of the outcome of the Fourth United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries, for the decade 2011-2020; the Almaty Programme of Action: Addressing the Special Needs of Landlocked Developing Countries within a New Global Framework for Transit Transport Cooperation for Landlocked and Transit Developing Countries; and the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island
Developing States, including the outcomes of their reviews. In order to ensure coherence and consistency, the subprogramme will coordinate and cooperate with other subprogrammes on the sectoral work relating to the groups of countries concerned. Moreover, the subprogramme will promote throughout UNCTAD efforts to gain analytical insights into the problems faced by “other structurally weak, vulnerable and small economies”, as referred to in paragraph 10 of the Accra Accord through the systematic coverage of such countries in relevant UNCTAD research and technical assistance.

Strategy

10.19 The International Trade Centre bears substantive responsibility for the implementation of the subprogramme. Its strategic thrust is in line with the mandate entrusted to it by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 1819 (LV), by which the Council recognizes the Centre as the focal point for technical assistance and cooperation activities in the export promotion field within the United Nations system of assistance to developing countries. The subprogramme will focus on the implementation of international development goals, including those set out in the Millennium Declaration, and on the follow-up to the 2005 World Summit Outcome. It will also contribute to the implementation of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010, the Monterrey Consensus, the Johannesburg Declaration on Sustainable Development and the Declaration of Principles and the Plan of Action of the Geneva Phase of the World Summit on the Information Society. The subprogramme will play an important role in furthering the implementation of the Doha and Hong Kong, China, ministerial declarations of the WTO, in particular by involving the business community in trade negotiations and explaining to it the implications of the multilateral trading system for the business sector.

10.20 The strategic objective of the subprogramme is to help developing countries and countries with economies in transition to enhance their international competitiveness, increase exports and improve import operations, with a corresponding impact on employment and poverty reduction. In pursuing its objective, the subprogramme will build on results achieved and lessons learned during the biennium 2010-2011. In its continued efforts to address the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogramme will scale up its innovative approaches to link poor producers to global value chains and international markets to ensure the sustainability of poverty reduction initiatives. Focus will be placed on work with small and medium-sized enterprises in sectors with opportunities for strong backward linkages with the informal sector. Priority will be given to the development of innovative forms of cooperation and alliances with new partners, including the corporate sector, academia, non-governmental organizations and other development actors to address sustainable trade development for the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, through, in particular, enhanced partnerships in the areas of poverty reduction and women’s empowerment. The subprogramme will continue to involve its country programme partners in monitoring progress towards the Millennium Development Goals, targets and indicators, and in measuring results and the contributions of ITC to the achievement of the Goals.

10.21 In order to achieve its expected accomplishments, ITC will pursue its mission by enabling small business export success in developing countries by providing, with partners, sustainable and inclusive trade development solutions to the private sector, trade support institutions and policymakers. The Centre will focus its activities on the following five main strategies: (a) export strategy, to further enable decision makers to set priorities and to design and implement coherent export development plans that reflect the dynamic requirements of the market; (b) business in trade policy, to reinforce the Centre’s efforts to enable policymakers to integrate the business dimension into trade policies, as well as regional and multilateral negotiations, resulting in capacities created to design and implement trade policies that reflect business needs; (c) the strengthening of trade support institutions, to enable them to deliver enhanced services to small and medium-sized enterprises and Governments, resulting in the greater export impact of such enterprises and the ability of trade support institutions to provide sustainable trade capacity-building; (d) trade intelligence, to continue to build the capacity of clients in the production of trade information and customized trade analysis, using ITC products and tools, enabling policymakers, trade support institutions and small and medium-sized enterprises to make better-informed decisions, and trade support institutions to produce and disseminate trade intelligence services effectively; and (e) exporter competitiveness, to enable existing and potential small and medium-sized exporting enterprises to strengthen their export performance and increase their market share, resulting in enterprises that understand market constraints and are able to design products and implement successful international marketing approaches.

10.22 Additional partnerships and key strategic alliances will continue to be sought to complement the fields of expertise of ITC and to allow for increased delivery in sectors and regions where demand has surpassed the ability of the Centre to deliver. In order to achieve greater impact, the Centre will continue to develop larger integrated programmes with a critical mass and based on countries’ needs. Partnerships, which are critical to success, will be strengthened with existing and new donors and with other international organizations such as UNCTAD and WTO, to which the Centre is organically linked, as well as the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the World Bank, the regional development banks, the African Union, the United Nations regional commissions and the United Nations country programmes.

Overall orientation

11.1 The principal responsibility for the environment within the United Nations system is vested with the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP). The mandate for UNEP derives from General Assembly resolution 2997 (XXVII), by which the Assembly established the Governing Council of UNEP, the Environment secretariat and the Environment Fund. The Governing Council, in its decision 19/1, clarified the role and mandate of UNEP in the Nairobi Declaration on the Role and Mandate of the United Nations Environment Programme, which the Assembly subsequently endorsed in the annex to its resolution S/19-2. The Assembly elaborated further on the role of UNEP in its resolution 53/242.

11.2 The Governing Council, in its decision SS.VII/1 on international environmental governance, reiterated the need for a strengthened UNEP with a stronger science base and, among other things, called for increased capacity-building and technology support by UNEP to developing countries and countries with economies in transition, improved coordination among multilateral environmental agreements and enhanced United Nations system-wide coordination and cooperation. The Assembly, most recently in its resolution 64/204, reaffirmed the role of UNEP as the principal body within the United Nations system in the field of the environment, and underlined the need to further advance and fully implement the Bali Strategic Plan for Technology Support and Capacity-building with a view to achieving its objectives in the areas of capacity-building and technology support for developing countries and countries with economies in transition, and in that regard, welcomed the decision to mainstream the Bali Strategic Plan as an integral part of UNEP’s medium-term strategy for the period 2010-2013.

11.3 In its decision 24/9, the Governing Council requested the preparation of a medium-term strategy for 2010-2013 with clearly defined vision, objectives, priorities and impact measures and a robust mechanism for review by Governments. Guided by the scientific evidence, including findings in the Global Environment Outlook and priorities emerging from global and regional forums, six cross-cutting thematic priorities were identified in formulating the UNEP medium-term strategy for 2010-2013, in order to provide greater results orientation and strategic direction to the work of UNEP in the future. Following an extensive consultative process with the UNEP Committee of Permanent Representatives, the UNEP Governing Council/Global Ministerial Environment Forum, at its tenth special session, in February 2008, adopted decision SS.X/3, in which it welcomed the medium-term strategy for 2010-2013 and authorized the Executive Director to use it in formulating the UNEP biennial programme plan. In its decision 25/13, the Governing Council approved the biennial programme plan for 2010-2011, ensuring consistency with the UNEP medium-term strategy for 2010-2013. The strategic framework for the period 2012-2013 takes into account UNEP’s overarching medium-term strategy for 2010-2013 and provides a continuum of work from the 2010-2011 biennium, therefore maintaining the same six subprogrammes, and to the extent possible the expected accomplishments for achieving the objectives in the medium-term strategy.
11.4 Lessons learned in implementing the 2010-2011 programme plan will be critical in improving the delivery of the UNEP medium-term strategy. The programme will continue to be implemented during the biennium 2012-2013 through the existing UNEP divisions, which will provide cohesion and mutual support to cross-cutting professional practices, such as those in the areas of science, law, economics and communication. The institutional reforms that UNEP has undertaken will be maintained in the 2012-2013 biennium. These reforms include a matrix approach to implementing the programme of work, in which divisions and regional offices identify and deliver common organization-wide objectives in each of six thematic areas and in line with regional and national priorities. The organization will make use of an accountability framework to ensure clarity in roles, responsibilities and deliverables. A monitoring policy and an evaluation policy will form the basis of the plans to be implemented in the biennium. The concept and goals of sustainable development will continue to provide an overarching framework that offers strategic coherence across the six thematic priorities. In addition, UNEP will continue to contribute to the ongoing intergovernmental discussion on the concept of a green economy and to strengthen its partnerships with key partners, such as the Global Environment Facility (GEF), the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the World Bank, regional development banks, science-based networks and major groups. These institutional strategies and policies and the approaches embodied within them will strengthen results-based management in UNEP and increase management accountability for programme delivery and resource utilization, while at the same time ensuring that relevant sector expertise benefits all subprogrammes.

11.5 The broader international policy environment and the United Nations reform processes are of significant relevance to the work of UNEP. In that regard, the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation, other outcomes of the World Summit on Sustainable Development and the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States, provide a clear direction. The Millennium Development Goals, the outcomes of the nineteenth session of the Commission on Sustainable Development, in 2011, and the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development to be held in 2012, among others, are expected to be of particular relevance to UNEP's activities and possibly have an impact on its work programme.

11.6 The world faces unprecedented environmental change, which presents both challenges and opportunities. Mounting scientific evidence shows that ecosystems are under unprecedented pressure and that prospects for sustainable development are consequently under serious threat. UNEP, through the Global Environment Outlook process, will continue to conduct comprehensive, integrated and scientifically credible global environmental assessments. To secure the environmental conditions for prosperity, stability and equity, responses that are timely and proportionate to the scale of the environmental challenges will be required. In creating such responses, Governments, the international community, the private sector, civil society and the general public all have an important role to play. UNEP will strive to fulfil its role in articulating, facilitating and supporting appropriate responses to those environmental challenges and opportunities, mindful of the roles of other organizations involved in sustainable development and the specific situations of countries.
11.7 Within the framework of its medium-term strategy for 2010-2013, UNEP will continue to focus its efforts during the biennium 2012-2013 on the six cross-cutting thematic priorities, namely climate change, disasters and conflicts, ecosystem management, environmental governance, harmful substances and hazardous waste, and resource efficiency and sustainable consumption and production, as defined below in paragraphs 11.9 to 11.14.

11.8 Consistent with its mandate and taking into account its comparative advantage, UNEP will exercise its distinctive role in environmental leadership within the cross-cutting thematic priority areas by catalysing and promoting international cooperation and action; providing early warning and policy advice based on sound science; facilitating the development, implementation and evolution of norms and standards; supporting the development of international and national policy and law; developing coherent interlinkages among international environmental conventions; and delivering technology support and capacity-building services in line with country priorities. Of paramount importance will be UNEP’s work with the secretariats of the multilateral environmental agreements to help them support countries to implement the related objectives and commitments. Paragraphs 11.15 to 11.17 below further elaborate key elements of the UNEP strategy in implementing the programme.

11.9 Climate change. Within the framework of the United Nations approach to addressing climate change, UNEP will help to strengthen the ability of countries, specifically the most vulnerable, to build climate resilience and to support countries in the development of low-carbon societies by building partnerships and engaging the private sector to improve energy efficiency. UNEP will conduct scientific assessments, provide policy and legislative advice and undertake pilot interventions with a focus on three priority areas: (a) an ecosystem-based adaptation approach: building climate resilience through ecosystem-based measures; (b) reducing emissions from deforestation and forest degradation (REDD) as well as addressing the role of forest conservation, sustainable forest management and forest stocks: helping countries to factor in co-benefits of REDD (and other terrestrial carbon sequestration) to enhance the overall sustainability of REDD and to reduce risks to its sustainability; and (c) clean technology readiness: supporting the development of country readiness for clean technology uptake. UNEP will emphasize the synergies between development and climate policies and the co-benefits of climate change actions and their contribution to environmental sustainability.

11.10 Disasters and conflicts. UNEP will build national capacities to minimize threats to human well-being from the environmental causes and consequences of existing and potential natural and man-made disasters and raise awareness of conflict-related risks in the context of General Assembly resolution 58/209, by adopting an integrated approach spanning three key operational pillars, namely: vulnerabilities and risk reduction; emergency response and recovery; and mainstreaming the environment. Within those pillars, UNEP will emphasize the importance of addressing environmental risks and vulnerabilities as a prerequisite of sustainable development. UNEP will seek to integrate environmental management needs within recovery plans of the relevant United Nations actors.

11.11 Ecosystem management. UNEP will facilitate a cross-sectoral, integrated approach to ecosystem management to reverse the decline in ecosystem services and improve ecosystem resilience with respect to such external impacts as habitat degradation, invasive species, climate change, pollution and overexploitation. UNEP will continue to catalyse integrated approaches for the assessment and management of freshwater, terrestrial, coastal and marine systems. In facilitating a more integrated approach, UNEP will draw upon its knowledge base and on integrated environmental assessments for more effective management of natural systems on multiple scales and across sectors through technical and institutional capacity-building. UNEP will promote adaptive management, participatory decision-making and sustainable financing through payments for or investments in ecosystem services in order to address the drivers of ecosystem change that reverse degradation and increase ecosystem resilience.

11.12 Environmental governance. The work of UNEP in this area will be particularly guided by Governing Council decision SS.VII/1 on international environmental governance. At the global level, the UNEP secretariat will support the Governing Council/Global Ministerial Environment Forum in exercising its central role in international decision-making processes for environmental governance and in setting the global environmental agenda. UNEP will:
(a) prioritize its efforts to develop coherence and coordination in the field of environment in the United Nations system, including through the work of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination and other inter-agency forums and through the full use of the Environmental Management Group;
(b) cooperate with multilateral environmental agreements and support collaboration among them to facilitate their effective implementation, and partner with the governing bodies and secretariats of other intergovernmental processes to enhance mutually supportive regimes between the environment and other related fields;
(c) continue to promote international cooperation and action based on sound science, support science-based policymaking and catalyse international efforts to pursue the implementation of internationally agreed objectives; (d) strengthen support for the engagement of non-governmental stakeholders and civil society as complementary participation in environmental governance at all levels; and (e) support Governments in establishing, implementing and strengthening institutions and laws to enhance environmental governance for achieving sustainable development, particularly through mainstreaming the environment into other sectoral policies and making full use of the United Nations Development Group platform.

11.13 Harmful substances and hazardous waste. As a part of wider United Nations efforts to lessen the environmental and health impacts of harmful substances and hazardous waste, UNEP will: (a) prioritize the establishment of strategic alliances with all stakeholders; (b) promote chemical safety within a coherent life cycle approach and in accordance with the objectives of the Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management adopted in Dubai in February 2006; (c) support the development and evolution of internationally agreed chemical management regimes, in respect of which the establishment of a regime on mercury will be a distinct area of UNEP’s work in the biennium; (d) service the Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management process and implement its environmental component, and assist countries in increasing their capacities for sound management of chemicals and hazardous waste; (e) support initiatives related to the management of specific chemicals of global concern, such as mercury, persistent organic pollutants and other substances covered by multilateral environmental agreements; and (f) address emerging issues related to chemicals and hazardous waste and continue to participate in initiatives such as the Partnership for Clean Fuels and Vehicles.

11.14 Resource efficiency and sustainable consumption and production. UNEP will promote reforms in Government policies, changes in private sector management practices and decisions and increased consumer awareness as means to reduce the impact of economic growth and development on resource depletion and environmental degradation. The framework of sustainable development is integral to the work of the subprogramme. Activities under the subprogramme will also contribute to informed intergovernmental discussions on the concept of a green economy in the context of sustainable development. UNEP will: (a) strengthen the scientific base for public and private decision-making; (b) advise Governments and the private sector on policies and actions to increase resource efficiency and reduce pollution, including through a life cycle analysis approach as well as other relevant approaches; (c) promote the application of environmental management approaches, environmentally sound technologies, integrated waste management and public-private partnerships to create more sustainable product life cycles and supply chains; (d) increase consumer awareness of sustainable consumption and production to influence their choices of goods and services; (e) prioritize its support to the 10-year framework of programmes on sustainable production and consumption under the Marrakech Process; and (f) work with its network of partners to monitor progress and implement collaborative initiatives on resource efficiency and sustainable production and consumption.

11.15 The strategy to be followed in implementing the programme will be consistent with the UNEP mandate and comparative advantage. Scientifically credible environmental monitoring and assessments will continue to provide the foundation upon which UNEP will deliver on the cross-cutting thematic priorities. That approach will promote the role of science in priority setting and informed decision-making. UNEP will inspire and promote environmental action and innovation between Governments, United Nations partner entities, the private sector and civil society, including scientific communities and marginalized groups. It will facilitate international cooperation and the provision of broad policy guidance in the field of the environment, including through the Governing Council/Global Ministerial Environment Forum process at the global level and by supporting the regional and subregional ministerial and other intergovernmental processes.

11.16 Furthermore, UNEP will continue to strengthen the role of national environmental authorities in development and economic planning processes and will facilitate the integration of environmental considerations in national sectoral policies, planning processes and development programmes. It will catalyse multi-stakeholder processes to bring Governments, business and civil society together to develop and improve the implementation of legislative and voluntary measures and economic incentives relevant to the environment and corporate practices. UNEP will work to enhance access by developing countries and countries with economies in transition to equitable and sustainable financing for environmental action from both public and private sources, including market-based mechanisms.

11.17 The biennium 2012-2013 will see a continued impetus to deliver on the Bali Strategic Plan, building on the results achieved in the 2010-2011 biennium. Capacity-building and technology support will run through the implementation of all cross-cutting thematic priority areas and will thus constitute an integral part of all subprogrammes. The delivery of the Bali Strategic Plan at the national and regional levels will be coordinated through UNEP regional offices, and UNEP will build strategic alliances with partners from within the United Nations family and increasingly from civil society and the private sector to extend its reach at national and regional levels and to catalyse action. Furthermore, UNEP will strongly promote and facilitate North-South and South-South cooperation as one of the key mechanisms for implementing the Bali Strategic Plan for Technology Support and Capacity-building.

11.18 The programme will be implemented through the UNEP institutional structure, consisting of the six existing divisions and a network of six regional offices, by drawing on their areas of specialization, strategic presence and capacity to deliver at the regional level. It is likely that elements of this approach, and UNEP’s institutional structure, may change as lessons are learned during the implementation of the 2010-2011 programme plan. These changes will be factored into the discussion of lessons learned and in due course the strategic framework for 2012-2013 may need to be amended. The Division of Technology, Industry and Economics leads subprogramme 1, subprogramme 5 and subprogramme 6. The Division of Environmental Policy Implementation leads subprogrammes 2 and 3. The Division of Environmental Law and Conventions leads subprogramme 4. The Division of Early Warning and Assessment is responsible for the provision of a sound science base across all subprogrammes and supports the Chief Scientist function. The Division of Regional Cooperation, through the regional offices and associated country offices, is responsible for identifying regional and national priorities, ensuring that they inform the development and implementation of the programme of work, and providing strategic guidance, coordination and cohesion of delivery of UNEP work at the regional, subregional and country levels. The Division of Communications and Public Information is responsible for outreach and the production of publications for all subprogrammes.

11.19 UNEP will pursue the enhanced delivery of the programme through a number of processes and partnerships. In the context of United Nations system-wide coordination, UNEP will engage with the United Nations Development Group to strengthen the systematic integration of environmental sustainability in United Nations country programming. UNEP will also work with a full range of stakeholders and partners, including civil society, the private sector and bilateral aid agencies, building on their respective resources, expertise and comparative advantages. It will seek closer cooperation between its substantive programme and the work of the United Nations Scientific Committee on the Effects of Atomic Radiation, for which it provides support to its secretariat.

11.20 UNEP will continue to integrate gender equality and equity into all its policies, programmes and projects with special attention given to the role of women in environmental policymaking, environmental management and early warning and disaster management. The UNEP commitment to mainstream gender equality and equity in its programmes will continue to be extended to its work with agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system and its relevant partners.

11.21 As an implementing agency of the Global Environment Facility, UNEP will continue to provide assistance to eligible countries to develop and implement projects in the six focal areas of the Facility, in accordance with the guidance from the governing bodies of the multilateral environmental agreements for which the Global Environment Facility serves as a funding mechanism. UNEP will primarily focus on the areas of its mandate, and special attention will be given to the needs of African countries, least developed countries and small island developing States. UNEP will continue to provide scientific and technical advice to the Facility on its policies and programmes and will continue to host the Scientific and Technical Advisory Panel of the Facility.

Strategy

11.22 Responsibility for the coordination of the subprogramme on climate change rests with the Division of Technology, Industry and Economics. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the subprogramme, the Division will play a coordinating role, ensuring that the work programme is executed in close collaboration with other UNEP divisions. The strategy, which is complementary to the processes and work of other institutions, including the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and its Kyoto Protocol and partnerships such as with UNDP, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), the Global Environment Facility, the World Bank, FAO, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change secretariat, the new International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA), the PetroCaribe Alternative Energy Source Financing Fund, the Mesoamerican integration and development project, the Caribbean Renewable Energy Development Programme, the energy initiative of the New Partnership for Africa’s Development, the Mediterranean Solar Plan, the Africa-European Union Energy Partnership, the Baltic Sea Region Energy Cooperation, the Asia-Pacific Partnership on Clean Development and Climate and other partners, will be as follows:

(a) To help countries, in particular developing countries, to reduce vulnerability and build resilience to the impacts of climate change by building and strengthening national institutional capacities for vulnerability assessment and knowledge management and adaptation planning and by supporting national efforts to incorporate adaptation measures, including an ecosystem-based approach, into country development planning and policymaking, consistent with country priorities and ownership;

(b) To facilitate the transition by countries, in particular developing countries, to low-carbon societies by building partnerships and engaging the private sector to improve energy efficiency, with emphasis on supporting their readiness for clean technology uptake, taking into consideration the work of IRENA and UNIDO. This will be achieved by building strategic partnerships and engaging the private sector to improve energy efficiency, accelerating the development of markets for renewable energy technologies and promoting access to cleaner energy. In addition,
UNEP will provide support to United Nations entities with a view to making the United Nations system climate neutral;

(c) To facilitate access by countries, in particular developing countries, to climate change financing for clean technologies and to support both public and private financing mechanisms;

(d) To support national processes for implementing sustainable forest management plans, including REDD, and contribute to the development and implementation of national REDD strategies, including the provision of technical advice on ways to address deforestation and forest degradation and methods and tools for measuring and monitoring greenhouse gas emissions and forest carbon flows; to help countries to factor in co-benefits of REDD (and other terrestrial carbon sequestration); to enhance the overall sustainability of REDD and reduce the risks to it; to promote REDD financing and help countries to access financial and technical support; to promote and facilitate broad-ranging consultations among stakeholders, including indigenous peoples and other forest-dependent communities; and to help establish linkages with existing national programmes in the areas of governance, development, poverty reduction, food security and natural resource management;

(e) To improve the understanding of climate change science and its use in sound policymaking by actively conveying the results of Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change assessments and special reports and other scientific information targeted to specific audiences, improving the understanding of greenhouse gas emissions from deforestation and forest degradation, and providing scientific, legal and institutional support to developing country institutions and officials who participate in climate change negotiations;

(f) To improve the general understanding of climate change by communicating key messages regarding climate change in clear and understandable ways to different target audiences such as national level policymakers, negotiators, civil society and the private sector, including those aimed at influencing consumer choices.

11.23 Responsibility for the implementation of the subprogramme on disasters and conflicts rests with the Division of Environmental Policy Implementation. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the subprogramme, the Division will play a coordinating role, ensuring that the work programme is executed in close collaboration with other UNEP divisions. The strategy, which will also be implemented in partnership with the specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system, Secretariat departments, relevant inter-agency planning processes and other regional partners, inter alia, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, UNDP, the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction, the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, FAO, the World Health Organization (WHO), the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the United Nations Development Group, the Peacebuilding Commission, the World Bank and the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, will be as follows:

(a) Within the existing mandates of UNEP, to assist vulnerable or crisis-affected countries and communities by providing environmental expertise, with particular attention paid to vulnerable groups (such as women and children) and highly vulnerable ecosystems such as drylands and lands contaminated by radiation, in vulnerabilities and risk reduction services, as well as emergency response and recovery operations at the subregional, national and subnational levels, including through the following:

(i) Policy guidance and assistance in developing and implementing legislative and institutional frameworks for improved environmental management at the national and subregional levels, contributing to risk reduction;

(ii) Addressing acute environmental risks in disaster or post-conflict response operations and providing early warning to minimize the adverse effects on human life and the environment, and integrating environmental considerations into recovery programmes to minimize the negative impact on the degraded environment;

(b) Upon request by Member States, to provide early warning on environmental risks, data and expertise on sustainable management of transboundary and shared natural resources related to relevant initiatives led by the United Nations;

(c) To contribute to global policy development by mainstreaming environmental lessons learned and best practice into the relevant conflict and disaster policy and planning processes at the global level.

Strategy

11.24 Responsibility for the implementation of the subprogramme on ecosystem management rests with the Division of Environmental Policy Implementation. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the subprogramme, the Division will play a coordinating role ensuring that the work programme is executed in close collaboration with other UNEP divisions and external partners. The strategy responds to the Convention on Biological Diversity ecosystem approach, which calls for the conservation of ecosystem structures and functioning in order to maintain ecosystem services. It also responds to the call for a follow-up to the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment, recognizing that ownership by countries of the approach, its methodology and its recommendations must be improved. The strategy, in partnership with relevant United Nations entities, other international organizations, the scientific community and data providers, the private sector, civil society and other stakeholders, such as UNDP, FAO, the Global Environment Facility, the World Bank and other Millennium Ecosystem Assessment partners, will be as follows:

(a) To influence planning and assistance frameworks at the regional and national levels so that they incorporate a cross-sectoral, integrated approach focusing on ecosystem services. The subprogramme will promote awareness of the interlinkages between humans and their impacts on ecosystems, as well as the benefits people derive from ecosystems and their services. It will facilitate institutional, policy, economic and governance changes necessary to enable cross-sectoral and, when relevant, transboundary cooperation for the management of ecosystems;

(b) The poor rely directly on ecosystem goods and services for their livelihood. Particular attention will therefore be given to equity issues (including, but not limited to, access and benefit sharing) and how vulnerable and disadvantaged communities could be compensated or rewarded for their ecosystem stewardship;

(c) To build the capacities of regional, subregional, national and local entities to assess degradation, in order to slow down or reverse this trend while managing ecosystems for resilience. This implies that particular attention will be given to ecosystem functioning and the role of biodiversity. Priority will also be given to improving mechanisms for strengthening the science policy interface in the biodiversity-related multilateral environmental agreements. The subprogramme will develop, adapt and test a number of ecosystem management tools such as integrated water resources management, ecosystem restoration, decision-making tools (including scenarios and trade-off analysis) and adaptive management tools. It will demonstrate how to measure the economic value of ecosystem services and how to apply these values to decision-making and to the design of economic instruments such as incentives and sustainable financing mechanisms. Integrated assessments will be conducted in the framework of the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment follow-up initiative and further economic valuation will be conducted as a follow-up to the Economics of Ecosystem Services and Biodiversity project. The capacity of countries to assess biodiversity that is critical to ecosystem functioning will be strengthened. Catalysing large-scale action to protect ecosystem resilience and functioning will be a priority. Special attention will be given to the restoration of highly degraded terrestrial ecosystems and to the development of ecological corridors that will increase the ability of ecosystems and biodiversity to adapt to climate change;

(d) This work will be accomplished through building upon successful existing UNEP ecosystem programmes, such as the Global Programme of Action for the Protection of the Marine Environment from Land-based Activities and the freshwater programme based on integrated water resources management. Delivery will also be assisted by cooperation with other initiatives, including support to the Convention on Biological Diversity, the global environmental outlook process, the Poverty and Environment Initiative (which also features in other subprogrammes), the Economics of Ecosystem Services and Biodiversity project and the follow-up strategy for the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment.

Strategy

11.25 Responsibility for the implementation of the subprogramme on environmental governance rests with the Division of Environmental Law and Conventions. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the subprogramme, the Division will play a coordinating role, ensuring that the work programme is executed in close collaboration with other UNEP divisions. The strategy, which is guided by Governing Council decision SS.VII/1 on international environmental governance, to be implemented with partners such as UNDP, FAO, the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR), the United Nations University, the World Bank, regional development banks and secretariats of global and regional multilateral environmental agreements, will be as follows:

(a) To support coherent international decision-making processes for environmental governance, the subprogramme will assist the Governing Council/Global Ministerial Environment Forum to promote international cooperation in the field of the environment and set the global environmental agenda. It will keep the state of the environment under review on a regular basis through authoritative assessment processes and identify emerging issues. The objective is to support sound science-based decision-making at the national and international levels, including processes such as the process leading to the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development in 2012 (Rio+20). Cooperation will be carried out with multilateral environmental agreements, and support provided for collaboration among them for their effective implementation, respecting the mandate of each entity. Partnerships with the governing bodies and secretariats of other intergovernmental processes will be pursued to enhance mutually supportive regimes between the environment and other related fields. At the inter-agency level, the subprogramme will provide support and policy inputs on environmental governance in the Chief Executives Board for Coordination and other inter-agency forums and will make use of the Environmental Management Group to promote joint action by all organizations and multilateral environmental agreement secretariats;

(b) To catalyse international efforts to pursue the implementation of internationally agreed objectives, the subprogramme will support the efforts for further development and implementation of international environmental law, norms and standards, in particular those addressing the goals, targets and commitments identified in the outcomes of United Nations summits and conferences, especially through the implementation of the Programme for the Development and Periodic Review of Environmental Law (Montevideo Programme);

(c) To support regional, subregional and national environmental governance processes and institutions, the subprogramme will support regional ministerial and other intergovernmental forums related to the environment and assist in the implementation of their programmes of action. It will support the efforts of Governments to further develop and strengthen their national, subregional and regional policies, laws and institutions underpinning environmental governance and their infrastructures for environmental management. It will also support the efforts of Governments to develop and strengthen their capacity for environmental data and knowledge management and assessment at the national, subregional and regional levels in order to provide a sound basis for environmental governance. Furthermore, the subprogramme will strengthen its support for the engagement of non governmental stakeholders and civil society in environmental governance at all levels;

(d) To promote and support the environmental basis for sustainable development at the national level, the subprogramme will support Governments in mainstreaming the environment in their development planning processes, including through the UNEP-UNDP Poverty and Environment Initiative. It will also assist Governments and United Nations country teams to ensure their environmental considerations are incorporated into common country assessments, United Nations Development Assistance Frameworks and their associated implementation programmes, including by making full use of the United Nations Development Group platform. The UNDP-UNEP memorandum of understanding will be a key framework for providing such country-level support. It will improve UNEP’s strategic presence in regions to support Governments and United Nations country teams in addressing environmental governance and will strengthen its engagement with other specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system, as well as departments and regional partners.

Strategy

11.26 Responsibility for the implementation of the subprogramme on harmful substances and hazardous waste rests with the Division of Technology, Industry and Economics. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the subprogramme, the Division will play a coordinating role, ensuring that the work programme is executed in close collaboration with other UNEP divisions. The strategy, within the wider United Nations efforts to lessen the environmental and health impacts of chemicals and hazardous waste, and to be implemented with organizations participating in the Inter-Organization Programme for the Sound Management of Chemicals (UNIDO, UNITAR, FAO, International Labour Organization, WHO and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development), the Global Environment Facility and others, will be as follows:

(a) To help countries to increase their capacities for sound management of chemicals and hazardous waste within a life cycle approach. Subprogramme support will cover data collection, the assessment and management of chemicals, the implementation of scientifically designed hazardous waste management systems and the strengthening of chemical and hazardous waste legislation and regulatory frameworks. In collaboration with UNDP and other United Nations entities through relevant inter-agency processes, the subprogramme will promote the mainstreaming of chemical safety in development agendas and the active involvement of all relevant sectors to achieve coherent and effective regulatory, voluntary and market-based policies at the national level and, when relevant, at the subregional level. It will also promote and facilitate public access to information and knowledge on chemicals and hazardous waste, including impacts on human health and the environment;

(b) To advance the international agenda on chemicals through the implementation of the environmental component of the Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management, the subprogramme will support the development of policy- and science-based advice and guidelines to Governments and other stakeholders on risk assessment and management; raise awareness of potential adverse effects of chemicals, including hazardous waste; and address emerging issues. It will also contribute to the development of methodologies and tools for monitoring and evaluating progress in sound management of chemicals and hazardous waste;

(c) To support the development of internationally agreed chemical management regimes, particularly for mercury but also for other metals if requested by Governments, and to support the evolution of existing internationally agreed multilateral environmental agreements in the chemicals and waste cluster, the subprogramme will assist countries, multilateral environmental agreement secretariats and other stakeholders in their efforts to address highly hazardous substances. This will include assisting countries in the implementation and enforcement of chemical and hazardous waste-related multilateral environmental agreements and other international initiatives (for example, the Global Programme of Action for the Protection of the Marine Environment from Land-based Activities) related to chemicals of global concern, such as mercury, persistent organic pollutants and ozone-depleting substances, and in addressing emerging issues related to chemicals and hazardous waste. In line with decision SS.X/1 of the Governing Council/Global Ministerial Environment Forum, the strengthening of cooperation and coordination between the Basel Convention on the Control of Transboundary Movements of Hazardous Wastes and Their Disposal, the Rotterdam Convention on the Prior Informed Consent Procedure for Certain Hazardous Chemicals and Pesticides in International Trade and the Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants could contribute positively to the implementation of the principles defended by those Conventions for the management of harmful substances and hazardous waste, building on the agreement reached in Bali at the simultaneous extraordinary meetings of the Conferences of the Parties to those Conventions.

Subprogramme 6

| (a) | Enhanced understanding by Governments and other stakeholders of scientific assessment of resource flows and related environmental impacts along global value chains, as well as of potential for decoupling |
| (b) | Improved capacity of Governments and public institutions to identify, regulate and manage key resource challenges, mainstream environmentally sustainable aspects in their development planning and implementation and adopt policies and tools for resource efficiency |

Indicators of achievement

| (a) | Increased number of UNEP-associated scientific assessments, analytical reports and scarcity alerts used and referenced by a specified number of target Governments and public and private sector organizations |
| (b) | Increased number of Governments and other public institutions implementing policies, economic instruments and initiatives for resource-efficiency improvements and introducing environmentally sustainable aspects into their economies |
(c) Increased investment in efficient, clean and safe industrial production methods through voluntary action by the private sector

(d) Demand-side decisions and consumption choices favour more resource efficient and environmentally friendly products, driven by standardized and internationally recognized tools and communications and by an enabling social infrastructure

(c) Increased number of businesses adopting and investing in resource-efficient management practices and technologies and cleaner and safer production methods

(ii) Increased number of Governments, companies and consumer groups with access to and making use of recognized tools and communications made available through UNEP-supported initiatives when making purchasing decisions with respect to more resource efficient and environmentally friendly products, goods and services

Strategy

11.27 The responsibility for the implementation of the subprogramme on resource efficiency and sustainable consumption and production rests with the Division of Technology, Industry and Economics. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the subprogramme, the Division will play a coordinating role, ensuring that the work programme is executed in close collaboration with other UNEP divisions. The framework of sustainable development is integral to the work of the subprogramme. Activities under the subprogramme will also contribute to informing the discussions on how green economy initiatives can contribute to sustainable development. The strategy, which will build upon the 10-year framework on sustainable consumption and production and be implemented in partnership with Governments, other United Nations and development cooperation entities, the private sector, research bodies, civil society, scientific institutions such as the University of Oxford and United Nations organizations such as UNDP, UNIDO, the World Tourism Organization, FAO and the regional commissions, will be as follows:

(a) To build capacities to promote the production of more environmentally sustainable products, the subprogramme will help Governments and other public institutions from the regional to the local level to improve their capacities to design and implement policies, laws and management actions that promote the production of resource-efficient, non-hazardous and sustainable goods and services. In doing so, the subprogramme will emphasize a life cycle analysis approach as well as other relevant approaches and promote public-private partnerships and market-based instruments to create more sustainable supply chains. The subprogramme will support the design of enabling policy frameworks and economic instruments that promote resource efficiency and sustainable production and consumption. This will be done in the context of national development policies, with the aim to promote the implementation of multilateral environmental agreements. This will seek, inter alia, to advance integrated waste management, the prevention of environmental risks and recovery from industrial accidents;
(b) To promote public and private investment in environmentally sound technologies and sustainable products, the subprogramme will advise and support Governments and businesses in the selection and application of environmental management systems and safe and efficient production technologies, in integrated waste management and in the purchase of more resource-efficient and sustainable products and practices. The subprogramme will disseminate research findings and implement demonstration projects to illustrate the benefits of efficient, clean and safe industrial production methods, in environmental, economic and social terms, to stimulate public and private policies and investment choices for wider application of those methods;

(c) To promote sustainable consumption patterns, the subprogramme will disseminate, in accordance with national priorities, public communications materials and conduct educational and public awareness campaigns on the benefits of resource efficiency and sustainable consumption and production in order to influence the choices of consumers and better inform other market players. It will also provide guidelines and different kinds of tools, policy advice and support to domestic public authorities, in accordance with national priorities, to promote resource-efficient management and the purchase of sustainable products. The relevant activities will seek to promote sustainable consumption choices, inter alia by supporting appropriate social planning and infrastructure.

Programme 12
Human settlements

Overall orientation

12.1 Responsibility for the human settlements programme within the United Nations system is vested in the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat), which serves as the focal point for its implementation. The mandate of UN-Habitat derives from the twin goals of the Habitat Agenda, comprising “adequate shelter for all” and “sustainable human settlements development in an urbanizing world”, which is an outcome of the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II). The mandate of the programme also derives from resolution 3327 (XXIX), in which the General Assembly established the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation; and resolution 32/162, in which the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat) was established by the General Assembly. By resolution 56/206, the General Assembly elevated the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat) to the United Nations Human Settlements Programme. UN-Habitat also derives its programme of work from other internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, in particular target 11 on achieving a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum-dwellers by the year 2020, and target 10 on water and sanitation of the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation. These two targets were subsequently reaffirmed by the General Assembly in the 2005 World Summit Outcome, which highlighted slum prevention as a priority issue in human settlements. Additional mandates come from relevant legislative bodies and resolutions of the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme. UN-Habitat is guided by its Governing Council, which reports every two years to the General Assembly through the Economic and Social Council and by the Committee of Permanent Representatives of UN-Habitat, which serves as a formal intersessional body.

12.2 The Governing Council of UN-Habitat, through its resolution 21/2, approved a six-year medium-term strategic and institutional plan for 2008-2013, and, in paragraph 3, endorsed the six focus areas and the enhanced normative and operational framework of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan, and requested the Executive Director, in consultation with the Committee of Permanent Representatives, to elaborate a process for improvement of the plan, including the agreement of specific “SMART” indicators, targets and priorities in order further to refine each of the focus areas and for reflection in the United Nations Human Settlements Programme’s strategic framework and work programme and budget.

12.3 In line with the above-mentioned Governing Council decision, UN-Habitat undertook refinement of the plan by developing a comprehensive results framework which includes a SMART goal, strategic result, expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement as well as a strategy paper for each of the six focus areas of the plan. This process, which was supported by a results-based management expert, took eight months and was completed in April 2009.

12.4 By paragraph 6 of Governing Council resolution 22/7, the Council requested the Executive Director to ensure timely and close consultation with the Committee of Permanent Representatives during the preparation of a prioritized, results-based strategic framework and the work programme and budget for the biennium 2012-2013, both aligned with the approved six-year medium-term strategic and institutional plan. The elements of the strategic framework for 2012-2013 are therefore derived from the refined results framework of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan.

12.5 An emphasis on results-based management will continue to shape the programme planning, performance management, learning and accountability of UN-Habitat. A midterm evaluation of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan will be undertaken in 2010, and depending on its outcome, this strategic framework may need to be revised to align it with the new realities and decisions. In that event, the provisions of General Assembly resolution 58/269 are expected to prevail. Strategic choices made in this biennium programme plan have been largely informed by lessons learned and best practices from the UN-Habitat programme performance report for the previous biennium, monitoring and evaluation reports, and inputs from strategic partners.

12.6 As indicated in the UN-Habitat flagship reports, cities are the habitat of half of humanity and, by 2050, 70 per cent of the world’s population will reside in urban areas. Urban growth averages 5 million new urban residents per month in developing regions where many new mega-cities of 10 million and hypercities of 20 million will emerge. In developing countries, the result of this is the rapid growth of slums and informal settlements, whose population currently stands close to 1 billion, or 32 per cent of the world’s urban population. Emerging data trends repeatedly indicate that the urban poor face inequitable and life-threatening conditions, poverty, environmental disasters and social crises. A key problem is that most of this rapid and uncontrolled urban growth is taking place in countries whose Governments are least able to cope with the provision of adequate housing, urban infrastructure and basic services. The main social effects of unplanned urbanization include inadequate housing, chaotic peri-urbanization, lack of basic services, especially safe drinking water and sanitation, lack of secure tenure, vulnerability to natural and human-made disasters and crime, uncertain employment, as well as social exclusion of the poor, vulnerable and other disadvantaged groups, including the disabled, youth and the elderly. The recent economic crisis has exacerbated urban poverty, accelerated unemployment and rapid expansion of the urban informal sector with its low-profit activities and a disproportionate concentration of women. The World Urban Forum noted the particular vulnerability of indigenous peoples to the effects of chaotic and unplanned urbanization. In spite of these challenges, it is increasingly accepted that urbanization is a positive phenomenon and a precondition for improving access to services, economic and social opportunities, and a better quality of life.

12.7 Climate change, one of the environmental challenges, most negatively affects the world’s estimated 1 billion vulnerable slum-dwellers who are neither adequately protected by construction and land use planning regulations, nor do they possess sufficient resources to improve their own lives. The nexus between rapid urbanization and climate change has multiple impacts on highly vulnerable groups, in particular women, young people, the elderly and the extremely poor. Climate change has negative impacts on health, threatens access to water and food security and increases the urban poor’s vulnerability to flooding and landslides. In many developing countries, changes in agricultural productivity as a result of climate change-related weather patterns, as well as conflict over scarce resources, are pushing many rural residents into urban areas. Experience shows that most cities of developing countries lack the capacity to formulate and implement climate change mitigation and adaptation measures, and to build the resilience necessary for effectively responding to climate change-related disasters.

12.8 In addressing these challenges, UN-Habitat works in close consultation and collaboration with Governments and many Habitat Agenda partners. Tackling urban poverty and social and physical exclusion by promoting and upholding the rights of all, especially women, youth, the disabled and other vulnerable and disadvantaged groups, to an adequate standard of living, including water and sanitation. Lessons from the fourth session of the World Urban Forum, held in 2008, stressed the need to put people at the centre of development and for balanced territorial development as important aspects of sustainable and harmonious urbanization, and that the provision of affordable housing is a strategic means to attaining the Millennium Declaration targets. In addressing the challenges posed by climate change, UN-Habitat has a comparative advantage, through its close and strong relationship with local authorities, to help cities to achieve more compact urban expansion; take stock of their renewable energy and green infrastructure potentials; identify and promote the use of appropriate green technology innovations, especially in the energy, construction and transport sectors; and integrate use of these innovations into planning and building regulations. These interventions, which facilitate mitigation and adaptation to climate change, will also stimulate a green economy that can create dynamic new industries, quality jobs and income growth. Urban planning, land use management, housing policy and basic infrastructure can significantly influence how cities mitigate and adapt to climate change.

12.9 Against this backdrop, the UN-Habitat six-year medium-term strategic and institutional plan lays the necessary conditions for concerted international and national efforts to stabilize the growth of slums and for the subsequent reduction in and reversal of the number of slum-dwellers. The plan outlines the five substantive focus areas, namely: (1) effective advocacy, monitoring and partnerships; (2) participatory urban planning, management and governance; (3) pro-poor land and housing; (4) environmentally sound basic infrastructure and affordable services; and (5) strengthened human settlements finance systems. The plan will continue to be implemented at the global and national levels, in line with the approved United Nations reforms, including support for enhanced harmonization, coherence and alignment of international development assistance. Excellence in management, the sixth focus area of the plan, creates an enabling environment for the effective implementation of the five substantive focus areas. In particular, UN-Habitat is strengthening and mainstreaming the results-based management approach in order to enhance the organization’s accountability, efficiency and effectiveness.

12.10 The activities of UN-Habitat for the period 2012-2013 constitute the final phase of the plan, as clearly articulated in the road map for the period 2010-2013. The period 2008-2009 constituted the kick-start phase, while the period 2010-2011 was the roll-out phase. The implementation process will be closely monitored and reported through biannual progress reports for the consideration of Member States. UN-Habitat will strive to achieve regional balance in the implementation of all programme and project activities and also facilitate the exchange of information and good/best practices, especially on a South-South basis.
12.11 The UN-Habitat programme of work will be implemented through four interlinked subprogrammes, namely: subprogramme 1, Shelter and sustainable human settlements development; subprogramme 2, Monitoring the Habitat Agenda; subprogramme 3, Regional and technical cooperation; and subprogramme 4, Human settlements financing. The subprogrammes work in close cooperation and collaboration through an integrative and synergetic approach that has subprogrammes leading in the implementation of some focus areas but contributing to all of them. This promotes internal cohesion, alignment and coherence, particularly through the enhanced normative and operational framework as reflected in the Habitat country programme documents, to which all subprogrammes contribute to the benefit of Member States. A strengthened programme review mechanism will mainstream results-based management, and reinforce internal cohesion and information sharing among different units in UN-Habitat.

12.12 With regard to gender integration, the organization’s effort in promoting women’s access to shelter will continue to be strengthened, in line with the 2005 World Summit Outcome (see resolution 60/1, para. 58) that guarantees women’s free and equal right to own and inherit property and ensures security of tenure of property and housing. To address the disparities between men and women in decision-making at all levels and differences in access to land and housing, as well as benefits from programmes implemented, UN-Habitat will assess the gender implications of all planned normative and operational programmes, in line with the UN-Habitat Gender Equality Action Plan. In-house, the Gender Mainstreaming Unit will work with all units, including through the programme review mechanism, to ensure that all interventions adopt a gender perspective.

12.13 The work of UN-Habitat is concentrated in developing countries, countries with economies in transition and countries in need of specialized international assistance for post-conflict and post-disaster recovery and reconstruction. As the focal point for the implementation of the human settlements programme within the United Nations system, UN-Habitat will collaborate and cooperate with other United Nations organizations to deliver its planned global results. UN-Habitat will also cooperate with Governments, local authorities, international financial institutions, regional development banks, the public-private partnership, Habitat National Committees, academic and research institutions, and many other Habitat Agenda partners. Mechanisms for global advocacy on human settlements issues and cooperation with Governments and Habitat Agenda partners are the World Urban Forum, which is held every two years to address pressing human settlements issues, and the World Urban Campaign on sustainable urbanization, which was launched in late 2008. The sixth session of the World Urban Forum will take place in 2012.

Strategy

12.14 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Shelter and Sustainable Human Settlements Development Division. Based on its comparative advantage and in line with the plan, the subprogramme will take the lead on the implementation of focus area 2, promotion of participatory urban planning, management and governance, and focus area 3, promotion of pro-poor land and housing, and will also contribute to the other three focus areas, since they are all cross-cutting. This strategy, which is heavily informed by evidence-based best practices and lessons learned from experience, will make a substantive and progressive contribution towards the achievement of the Millennium Declaration and Johannesburg Plan of Implementation targets on slums and water and sanitation. The strategy for implementing the programme of work is as follows:

(a) With respect to the objective of improving inclusive urban planning, management and governance at the national and local levels, during the biennium, UN-Habitat will use three programmatic entry points (thematic challenges) to contribute towards the expected systemic results. These are: developing local capacities to mitigate and adapt to climate change; enhancing urban safety and the reduction of vulnerability to crime and natural and human-made hazards; and, promoting economic development. All the entry points will be operationalized within the framework of decentralization as broadly provided for by the Guidelines on Decentralization and the Strengthening of Local Authorities and other key UN-Habitat documents;

(b) For achieving the objective relating to improved access to land and housing, the subprogramme will initiate systematic reforms to promote access to land and housing for all. The organization’s approach to realizing access to land and housing for all will rely on three cross-cutting strategies, namely, knowledge management and advocacy; capacity-building at the global and regional levels; and, supporting implementation at the country or local level. Throughout this approach, issues of gender, as well as youth and other vulnerable and disadvantaged groups, will be mainstreamed. These strategies will be implemented in parallel and not in a linear approach. Knowledge and lessons learned, for example, will be reaped from existing successes and could thus be used in advocacy campaigns and capacity-building through the enhanced normative and operational framework. On the other hand, where tools do not exist, they will be developed, tested at the country level and then advocated for, translated into policy and used in capacity-building;

(c) Capacity-building will be undertaken at the global, national and local levels to promote sustainable urban development and to undertake effective planning, management and delivery of shelter, land, infrastructure and services. These will be supported by dedicated strategies and programmes, including human resources, tool development, resource development, organizational development and institutional strengthening components;

(d) Engaging with crisis-affected countries (both conflict-related and natural disasters) is an important component of the human settlements programme. This work includes building the resilience of countries; assisting countries and cities to mitigate and adapt to crises, as well as work with settlements to recover from crisis. The engagement of UN-Habitat in crisis work is derived from the agency’s Strategic Policy on Human Settlements in Crisis and Sustainable Relief and Reconstruction Framework, which articulates pertinent aspects of the Habitat Agenda and the medium-term strategic and institutional plan in both crisis prevention and recovery;

(e) UN-Habitat will assume a catalytic role in implementing focus areas 2 and 3 by reinforcing existing partnerships, and establishing new strategic ones with United Nations system agencies, non-governmental organizations, educational establishments, scientific institutions and financial bodies that have the collective resources, infrastructure, expertise and the financial power to work with it;

(f) All interventions in the subprogramme will be implemented in line with the Gender Equality Action Plan and also taking into account the needs and involvement of youths. To enhance gender-sensitive interventions and policies, the programme will, as appropriate, conduct gender analysis on all projects in order to identify gender gaps and determine policies, as well as strategies for addressing them. Further, to enhance gender balance in programme participation and equitable access to programme benefits, as much as possible, all programme data will be disaggregated by gender. The programme will make efforts to create conditions that support women, and to ensure that programme interventions promote activities that increase women’s empowerment and participation.

Strategy

12.15 The responsibility for subprogramme 2 is vested in the Monitoring and Research Division. The Division is responsible for monitoring progress towards the attainment of the goals of the Habitat Agenda, and the targets of the Millennium Declaration and the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation on slums, safe drinking water and sanitation. The Division leads in the implementation of focus area 1 of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan, namely effective advocacy, monitoring and partnerships, but also contributes to all the other focus areas. The strategy to achieve the overall objective and expected accomplishments of the subprogramme includes: collection and analysis of evidence-based information, gender- and age-sensitive knowledge and statistics; policy dialogue; strategic partnerships; gender and youth empowerment, as well as communication and exchange of best practices, experience and tools. These strategy components are both normative and operational and are implemented at the global, regional, national and local levels, in line with the medium-term strategic and institutional plan’s enhanced normative and operational framework. Working in close collaboration with Habitat Agenda partners, the Division will engage in a coordinated and systematic effort in:

(a) Collecting, collating, analysing, documenting and disseminating global and national data and evidence-based information on human settlements conditions and trends, including indicators, best practices, good policies, tools, experiences and enabling legislation, for assessing progress towards achieving the goals of UN-Habitat, especially on slums, security of tenure, safe drinking water and sanitation; and use of such data and information for policy formulation;

(b) Identifying, developing, testing, disseminating, promoting and mainstreaming innovative policies, strategies and tools on monitoring of urban conditions, local economic development and finance, urban-rural development linkages, urban poverty reduction, gender equality, women and youth empowerment, and strategic partnerships;

(c) Raising awareness on the role and capacity of public-private partnerships for upscaling pro-poor and inclusive shelter and related infrastructure;

(d) Promoting the transfer and exchange of lessons, experiences and tools learned from best practices and field pilot projects on a North-South and South-South basis;

(e) Disseminating results of monitoring and assessment through various publications, both hard copy and electronic, including the two flagship reports, the Global Report on Human Settlements and the State of the World’s Cities, and publications on human settlements finance systems and tools as well publications as in the global urban economic dialogue series;

(f) Through the “Opportunities Fund for Urban Youth-Led Development”, UN-Habitat will utilize the small grant mechanism to catalyse its work with youth partners to go to scale. The strategy is to build upon the strengths and compensate for the weaknesses of youth organizations, whose strong connections lie in local knowledge of their communities, to support innovative projects with a strong entrepreneurial focus that impact on their lives and their communities;

(g) Providing leadership on matters related to UN-Habitat partners, as well as support partner engagement throughout the agency and particularly in four key areas: civil society organizations, youth organizations, parliamentarians and the private sector;

(h) Enhancing gender sensitivity in interventions and policies by supporting gender mainstreaming and women’s empowerment, and ensuring that all of the UN-Habitat data-collection tools and evidence-based information on human settlements conditions and trends disseminated is, as much as possible, disaggregated by gender and age.

(d) Level of access to environmentally sound urban infrastructures and services, especially in post-crises countries supported by UN-Habitat, as evidenced by the number of unserved and underserved people with access to environmentally sound urban infrastructures and services

Strategy

12.16 Responsibility for the subprogramme rests with the Regional and Technical Cooperation Division. The Division will not lead in the implementation of any one focus area, but will participate in the implementation of all five substantive focus areas of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan, at the country and regional levels through the enhanced normative and operational framework. To achieve the subprogramme’s objective and the expected accomplishments, UN-Habitat will effectively combine normative and operational functions in line with the enhanced normative and operational framework. The normative functions include setting standards, proposing norms and principles and providing examples of best practices and good policies built on experience gained at the country level. The operational activities, consisting of the provision of technical assistance in policy formulation, capacity-building programmes and demonstration project that support the normative work of UN-Habitat in developing countries and countries with economies in transition, will be implemented in line with the identified national priorities and approved United Nations reforms. The strategies to achieve the objective and expected accomplishments include:

(a) Strengthening the formulation and implementation of urban planning, management and governance and housing policies, strategies and programmes;

(b) Developing commensurate capacities at the regional, national and local levels in environmentally sound basic urban infrastructure services for the urban poor;

(c) Setting of standards, proposing of norms and principles and providing examples of good and best practices;

(d) National Habitat Programme Managers will support normative and operational activities at the country level, as well as coordinate the formulation of UN-Habitat country programme documents that inform engagement with Governments, United Nations country teams, United Nations development assistance frameworks, poverty reduction strategy processes and resource mobilization at the country level. Habitat Programme Managers will contribute to the visibility of human settlements issues and promote their mainstreaming in the United Nations development assistance frameworks, and other national development policy documents;
(e) Strengthened regional offices will coordinate activities carried out at the regional and country levels and contribute to knowledge management activities in close collaboration with all subprogrammes, including partnering with regional forums. They will also backstop operational activities at the country level and build capacity in disaster prevention and management, and ensure a rapid and effective response to post-conflict crises and disasters, as required;

(f) Disseminating results of monitoring and assessment through various publications, both hard copy and electronic, including the flagship report series, the Regional State of the Cities Reports;

(g) Conducting gender-specific analysis on all interventions and policies, as appropriate, to ensure gender equality. Further, to ensure expanded and equitable access to programme benefits, efforts will be made to create conditions that support women’s participation and ensure that programme interventions promote and support activities that increase women’s empowerment.

(iii) Level of growth in borrower financial literacy programmes in the Local Finance Facility and the experimental reimbursable seeding operations project, as evidenced by number of new financial literacy programmes in countries implementing the above-mentioned Facility and project

Strategy

12.17 Responsibility for subprogramme 4 rests with the Human Settlements Financing Division, which also serves as the institutional anchor for the activities of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation. The Foundation is dedicated to working with Member States and domestic and international financial institutions to mobilize resources for affordable housing, water and sanitation and related infrastructure initiatives. In the implementation of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan, the Human Settlements Financing Division takes the lead in focus area 4, environmentally sound basic urban infrastructure and services, and on focus area 5, strengthening human settlements finance systems, as the principal areas of work while collaborating with and contributing to all other focus areas of the plan.

12.18 Largely informed by our past experience, a key strategy of subprogramme 4 is to mobilize local and international public funds, community savings and private sector capital to enable at a far greater scale investments in the sector generally, and in pro-poor housing, basic infrastructure and services. The strategy of the subprogramme will make a substantive and progressive contribution towards the achievement of the targets of the Millennium Declaration and Johannesburg Plan of Implementation on slums and water and sanitation. The strategy for subprogramme 4 will comprise the following elements:

(a) Strengthening the catalytic role of UN-Habitat, as called for by the medium-term strategic and institutional plan, by working with a range of partners and new arrangements to invest and leverage external financing in affordable housing, social housing (including subsidized housing and subsidized rental schemes) and environmentally sound basic infrastructure and services in developing countries and in countries with economies in transition. Special focus will be placed on the needs of slum-dwellers and low-income groups;

(b) Expanding current revolving credit and local finance credit enhancement facilities providing start-up funds, catalytic credit enhancement and targeted technical assistance to communities, domestic banks, and microfinance institutions and municipalities for the purpose of building affordable and social housing finance and related infrastructure;

(c) Providing support to the Water for African Cities Programme, Water for Asian Cities Programme and Water for Latin America and Caribbean Cities Programme through the Water and Sanitation Trust Fund, together with support to the replicable model-setting initiatives in the Lake Victoria and Mekong regions. Focused on improving access for the urban poor to water supply and sanitation, these programmes and the replicable model-setting initiatives demonstrate innovative approaches on the ground in partnership with Governments, water and sanitation utilities and civil society, including community-based organizations. A key guiding principle for the programmes is pro-poor governance. The programmes also provide an operational link to normative work, such as that on the rights-based approach to water and sanitation, water demand management and Human Values-based Water Sanitation and Hygiene Education;

(d) Strengthening the Global Water Operators’ Partnerships Alliance and supporting water operators’ partnerships activities worldwide and regional water operators’ partnerships platforms in sub-Saharan Africa, Asia and the Pacific, the Arab region, and Latin America and the Caribbean region in partnership with regional development banks and other substantive and financial partners;

(e) Promoting strategic partnerships among municipalities, private sector utility operators, financial institutions, and central Governments; and collaboration in designing infrastructure and housing investments with stakeholder beneficiaries, key among them being community organizations, women, youth and other vulnerable groups;

(f) Promoting sustainable transport, especially non-motorized transport, such as bicycles, bus lanes and other forms of mass transit and sustainable transport

To enhance gender-sensitive interventions and policies, efforts will be made in all programmes to create conditions that support women, including capacity-building. Where appropriate, the subprogramme will conduct gender analysis on interventions, including policies.

Programme 13

International drug control, crime and terrorism prevention and criminal justice

Overall orientation

13.1 The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) works with Member States to enhance their responses to the intertwined problems of drug use, trafficking, global crime and terrorism by helping create and strengthen legislative, judicial and health systems to safeguard the most vulnerable persons in our society. The rule of law, security and justice go hand in hand with development and a fair, accessible, accountable, effective and credible criminal justice system promotes long-term socio-economic and human development. Global criminal activities are transforming the international system by posing an increasingly strategic threat to Governments, civil societies and economies. Global trafficking networks are likewise having a major impact on democracy and development and on business and finance.

13.2 The basis for countering such activities is the rule of law, which incorporates comprehensive legislation, a strong criminal justice approach and effective international cooperation in conformity with existing universal anti-terrorist instruments.

13.3 The policy directions of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime are grounded in: (a) the international drug control conventions, the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Protocols thereto, the United Nations Convention against Corruption and the universal legal instruments against terrorism in all its forms and manifestations; (b) the Millennium Declaration; (c) key resolutions of legislative organs, in particular General Assembly resolution 46/152, establishing the crime prevention and criminal justice programme, and resolutions 45/179 and 46/185 C on the drug control programme; (d) the twentieth special session of the General Assembly on countering the world drug problem; (e) the Vienna Declaration on Crime and Justice: Meeting the Challenges of the Twenty-first Century, adopted by the Tenth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders (General Assembly resolution 55/59, annex), the related plans of action (General Assembly resolution 56/261, annex) and the Bangkok Declaration on Synergies and Responses: Strategic Alliances in Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, adopted by the Eleventh United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (General Assembly resolution 60/177, annex); (f) the recommendations resulting from the 2005 World Summit Outcome (General Assembly resolution 60/1); (g) Economic and Social Council resolutions 2007/12 and 2007/19; and (h) the Political Declaration and Plan of Action on International Cooperation towards an Integrated and Balanced Strategy to Counter the World Drug Problem adopted at the high-level segment of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs in March 2009.

13.4 The Office’s work flows logically from these mandates and is reflected in its mission, which is “to contribute to the achievement of security and justice for all by making the world safer from drugs, crime and terrorism” (E/CN.7/2007/14-E/CN.15/2007/5).
13.5 Development is a key to reducing crime as well as the world’s supply of drugs. However, the rule of law, security and justice go hand in hand with development. A fair, accessible, accountable, effective and credible criminal justice system promotes long-term socio-economic and human development, and acts as a shield against the effects of crime, trafficking, corruption and instability. Development and the rule of law promote the licit use of resources rather than their criminal abuse: trafficking in human beings, drugs and firearms and the smuggling of migrants.

13.6 In implementing its strategy for the period 2008-2011 (E/CN.7/2007/14-E/CN.15/2007/5) over the biennium 2008-2009, the Office has responded to the growing demand for its services by establishing a strongly integrated mode of programme planning and implementation. In particular, by building on the normative and technical skills of its staff, the Office has realigned its work to ensure continuity between the normative and operational/technical assistance aspects. This new approach focuses on leveraging the Office’s scarce technical resources to provide greater volume and quality of services in the field. Notably, this approach deepens the engagement with a wide cross-section of stakeholders from Member States, including academic, technical, political and civil society actors. Also, it should be noted that this process of realignment is a dynamic and ongoing one, and as such any imbalances in terms of resources reflect an evolutionary stage in the development of the Office.

13.7 In summary, the aims of this new approach are: (a) full “ownership” by partner countries through alignment with regional and/or national policies and priorities; (b) an integrated framework linking the normative and operational aspects of the Office’s work providing know-how and expertise at the global, regional and national levels; (c) a move from a project-based approach to a “programme approach”; and (d) strengthened cooperation and planning with other United Nations entities and other multilateral donors.

13.8 Accordingly, in order to enhance the Office’s effectiveness, accountability and control, the structure of the programme for the biennium 2012-2013 is reorganized into six thematic subprogrammes and one subprogramme that provides support to policymaking organs.

13.9 Each subprogramme falls within the current three-division organizational structure, which allows for the leveraging of complementarities and synergies between divisions and field operations, as thematic experts of the Office will perform both normative and operational work.

13.10 In pursuing its objectives, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime will make every effort to integrate a gender perspective. Furthermore, the Office is updating its technical assistance planning documents to ensure the collection of gender-disaggregated data.

Programme 14

Economic and social development in Africa

Overall orientation

14.1 The overall objective of the programme is to assist African countries in formulating and implementing the policies and programmes that will lead to sustainable economic growth and social development, with particular emphasis on poverty reduction, as envisaged in the New Partnership for Africa’s Development (NEPAD), and in the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, and in the outcomes of other major United Nations conferences and international agreements.

14.2 The mandate for the programme derives from Economic and Social Council resolution 671 A (XXV), by which the Council established the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA). This mandate has been further elaborated in a number of resolutions of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council as well as in resolutions 718 (XXVI), 726 (XXVII), 779 (XXIX), 809 (XXXI) and 844 (XXXIX) of ECA. Further mandates and guidance have emanated from the African Union and the outcomes and decisions of global conferences, including the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

14.3 Poverty reduction remains the overriding development challenge in Africa. The majority of African countries continue to face deep and widespread poverty despite the significant economic and social progress made in recent years. The global financial crisis has hampered growth in the region, with dire consequences for African countries to reduce poverty. The financial crisis has also compounded the impact of the recent food and fuel crises, placing the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals at risk and jeopardizing Africa’s long-term economic and social development. At current rates of growth, Africa remains the only continent not on track to meet the Millennium Development Goal of halving poverty by 2015. This situation is made worse by conflicts, natural disasters resulting from climate change, and the HIV/AIDS pandemic — that continue to undermine economic growth in many African countries.

14.4 In order to address these and other emerging development challenges, African countries need to formulate and implement appropriate policies and programmes to achieve and sustain economic growth for poverty reduction and equitable development. In line with its mandate of promoting the economic and social development of Africa, ECA will respond to these challenges by scaling up efforts in support of achieving the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals and the priorities of NEPAD.

14.5 The overall strategy of the ECA programme will continue to be organized around two main pillars: (a) promoting regional integration in support of the African Union vision and priorities; and (b) meeting Africa’s special needs and emerging global challenges. ECA will conduct its work through 10 subprogrammes arranged to avoid duplication of functions, promote complementarities, eliminate inconsistencies and sharpen the focus in areas that have acquired new urgency. The subprogrammes are focused on the following themes: macroeconomic analysis, finance and economic development; food security and sustainable development; governance and public administration; information and science and technology for development; trade, economic cooperation and regional integration; gender and women in development; subregional activities for development; development planning and administration; statistics; and social development.

14.6 In order to facilitate further convergence of thematic issues and sectoral priorities in support of attainment of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals and the NEPAD objectives, the ECA repositioning (in line with lessons learned thus far) has been appropriately fine-tuned through clustering together of the related areas of work and developing enhanced synergies, coherence and complementarities between the respective units. Accordingly, focus has been increased on important sectors such as: climate change; intra-Africa and international trade and globalization; financing for development; and social development. Furthermore, the areas in which complementarities exist between current programme 9, United Nations support for the New Partnership for Africa’s Development and programme 14, Economic and social development in Africa have been clearly identified in order to enhance future programme performance reporting and budgeting. This resulting realignment is fully in line with the overall mandate of ECA of promoting the economic and social development of Africa and also responds well to other relevant mandates at the global and regional levels such as the Copenhagen Accord, the outcome of the Conference on the World Financial and Economic Crisis and Its Impact on Development, and the outcomes of 2009 ECA Conference of Ministers.

14.7 The modalities for implementation will include a combination of knowledge-generation, sharing and networking; advocacy and consensus-building; and advisory services and technical cooperation. ECA delivers these services through economic and social analyses and the preparation of reports to monitor and track Africa’s progress on global and regional commitments; the formulation of policy recommendations, guidelines and standards to support policy dialogue; the organization of policy dialogue to facilitate consensus-building and the adoption of common regional positions on key issues; and capacity-building (technical assistance, group training/ workshops/seminars, and field projects) to disseminate best practices. A gender perspective will also continue to be mainstreamed across all the subprogrammes as reflected in this programme plan.

14.8 In implementing the programme, ECA will leverage its comparative strengths to engage a wide range of partners from within and outside the United Nations system in order to maximize the impact of its work. To that end, the Commission will continue to be involved in the work of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs, as the main vehicle for ensuring policy and operational coherence in United Nations development activities, as well as enhancing collaboration with United Nations Development Group entities. ECA will also continue to build on its existing partnerships with the African Union, the African Development Bank (AfDB) and other regional organizations, as well as with African civil society and private sector organizations. Inter-agency coordination and collaboration among United Nations system agencies working in Africa will be strengthened through the regional consultation meetings of those agencies convened by ECA in support of the priorities of NEPAD.

14.9 The programme is under the responsibility of ECA and its five subregional offices, as well as the African Institute for Economic Development and Planning (IDEP). At the end of the plan period, it is expected that the programme will have contributed to strengthening capacity in member States individually and collectively for effective policy formulation and implementation to address the development challenges that they confront, with particular emphasis on poverty reduction.

Macroeconomic analysis, finance and economic development

Objective of the Organization: To promote policies, strategies and programmes for high-level and gender-sensitive sustainable growth, employment creation and poverty eradication within the context of the Millennium Development Goals, NEPAD and other internationally agreed development goals.

Indicators of achievement

| (a) Increased number of member States that apply macroeconomic and sectoral policies consistent with the priorities of NEPAD and the Millennium Development Goals in their design, implementation and monitoring of such policies |
| (b) Increased number of measures and initiatives taken by African countries to mobilize development financing |
| (c) Increased number of regional and national policymaking bodies that apply lessons learned in designing, implementing and monitoring social and economic policies |

Strategy

14.10 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Economic Development and NEPAD Division. The major challenge for policymakers in member States is to speed up the process of achieving the targets set out in the United Nations Millennium Declaration. An important element in that respect is the capacity of African countries to design appropriate national and regional strategies and programmes to achieve high-level sustained growth and create employment in order to accelerate the process of poverty reduction. The subprogramme will focus on applied research, knowledge-sharing and the provision of advisory services and policy recommendations to member States with a view to addressing the challenges of achieving increased economic growth for sustainable development. The issues to be dealt with will include macroeconomic, social and sectoral policy issues; accelerating the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, supporting African least developed countries; and the mobilization of resources to promote investment and industry for development, including South-South cooperation. In that context, the strategy will focus in particular on addressing the needs of least developed countries, small island States and landlocked developing countries in Africa in line with the goals and targets of the Brussels and Almaty Programmes of Action. The subprogramme will intensify its work on African Learning Group on the Poverty Reduction Strategy Papers and address other emerging initiatives as well as provide support to the implementation of NEPAD. In the context of the objective, collaboration with other partners, particularly in the implementation of NEPAD, the Millennium Development Goals, the Monterrey Consensus and the Brussels Programme of Action, will be enhanced. Collaboration with other leading African institutions, especially the African Union and its NEPAD Programme, AfDB, research institutions, universities, private sector, civil society and other United Nations organizations, will be enhanced. Cooperation with the regional economic communities will also be strengthened so as to enhance their capacity for better macroeconomic and sectoral policy coordination.

Food security and sustainable development

Objective of the Organization: To promote food security and sustainable development including addressing the challenge of climate change in Africa in accordance with the priorities of the African Union and its NEPAD programme, and the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation

--- | ---
(a) Enhanced capacity and engagement at the national, subregional and regional levels to develop and implement appropriate policies, strategies and programmes for achieving food security and sustainable development | (a) Increased number of subregional and regional partnership agreements and technical cooperation programmes to develop and implement policies, strategies and programmes that achieve food security and sustainable development
(b) Improved capacity of member States to mainstream climate change into development policies, strategies and programmes | (b) Increased number of member States assisted by the subprogramme that mainstream climate change into development frameworks and policies

14.11 The responsibility for the subprogramme lies with the Food Security and Sustainable Development Division. In response to the sustainable development challenges in Africa identified in the 2005 World Summit Outcome, the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation and the African Union/NEPAD strategic framework, the strategy of the subprogramme will continue to emphasize policies and strategies for structural agricultural transformation and food security within a perspective of regional cooperation and integration, with a particular focus on land, water, forests, urban-rural linkages, human settlements and climate change. It will also address other cross-cutting issues such as poverty and gender equity.

14.12 The strategy will also consist of policy analysis, advocacy and knowledge networking, advisory services and technical assistance. In this connection, the subprogramme will contribute to the monitoring and assessment of progress in the areas of food security and sustainable development in support of the implementation of the relevant outcomes of the World Summit on Sustainable Development. The subprogramme will seek to promote stronger collaboration with African regional and subregional organizations, in particular the African Union Commission, AfDB and the regional economic communities. Partnerships with Departments of the Secretariat such as the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and other United Nations entities, including the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Environment Programme, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, the International Fund for Agricultural Development, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the World Food Programme, the United Nations Forum on Forests, and secretariats of various multilateral environment agreements, as well as with the private sector and relevant civil society organizations, will be pursued with a view to harnessing maximum synergies in programme implementation and outreach.

Governance and public administration

Objective of the Organization: To strengthen compliance with good governance practices for all sectors of society, and development of the private sector in support of the African Peer Review Mechanism and NEPAD processes and in the context of internationally agreed development targets, including the Millennium Development Goals

<td>(c) Increased number of member States adopting appropriate mechanisms and regulatory frameworks for enhancing the participation of non-State actors</td>
</tbody>

Strategy

14.13 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Governance and Public Administration Division. Despite the progress made by many African countries towards good governance, the benefit remains fragile as a result of persistent poverty and conflicts. The challenge therefore is to ensure that Africa’s strides towards good governance are sustained through a focus on building a capable State — one that is endowed with transparent, participatory and accountable political and economic systems to consolidate the foundations for sustainable development. The strategy will focus on enhancing efficient and participatory public sector management, developing the private sector and promoting civil society participation. To that end, it will focus its intervention and efforts on the following areas: political governance practices and systems, including public sector reforms; providing support to build capacity through improving governance system and enhancing public administrations with particular focus on assisting post-conflict countries and fragile States; promoting measures for combating corruption and strengthening institutions of good governance; promoting popular participation by enhancing the capacity of civil society and the private sector; and strengthening private sector development through the promotion of investment opportunities and building capacity to support the development of small and medium-sized enterprises. As a strategic partner in the African Peer Review Mechanism process, the subprogramme will scale up its assistance to member States in the implementation of the Mechanism, particularly in the building and maintenance of a credible database of relevant information.

14.14 The strategy will include the following: analytical work, policy advisory services, training and technical assistance to member States and regional institutions. The strategy will also contribute to enhancing public financial management and accountability in order to attract more investment as well as enhance private growth and development, including small and medium-sized enterprises. The subprogramme’s technical cooperation includes field projects such as: monitoring and assessing progress towards good governance; and building the capacity of key governance public institutions and civil society organizations. The subprogramme will also strengthen its partnership with other offices of the Secretariat, organizations and institutions, including the African Union, AfDB, UNDP, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, the regional economic communities, academic institutions, business community organizations and civil society organizations.

Information and science and technology for development

</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>(ii) Increased utilization of information and knowledge resources and e-applications developed at the national, regional and global levels</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Strategy

14.15 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Information and Communications Technology and Science and Technology Division. Appropriate investment in and the use of ICT, and STI is essential for achieving socio-economic transformation in Africa, especially in the prevailing economic climate, where globalization has brought about a more competitive environment. This new competitive environment has fuelled the growth of knowledge-intensive production arising from increasing scientific and technological interactions and the need for innovation, especially during this period when countries are striving to recover from the global financial crisis.

14.16 Advocacy and consensus-building still remain vital to the achievement of subprogramme objectives. This will continue to be undertaken through the Committee on Development Information and Science and Technology. The subprogramme will also monitor the World Summit on the Information Society outcomes, including the Geneva Plan of Action and the deployment and contribution of ICTs to growth in member States.

14.17 In support of the aforementioned, the subprogramme will continue supporting gender-sensitive strategies for building and sustaining the African digital economy and creating an enabling environment for the knowledge economy through formulation, implementation and evaluation of national, subregional and regional ICT, geoinformation and science and technology policies and strategies. Research and development activities on selected emerging issues and topics of importance to member States will be reviewed, and advocated to member States and the regional economic communities. It will strengthen its support to collaborative research activities in key areas of importance to the African knowledge economy and promote research and scientific observatories for better policy analysis and evidence. Existing knowledge networks will be strengthened and new ones established to provide a forum for policy dialogue and sharing of national experiences and best practices on policies, strategies and the implementation of e-applications.

14.18 Specific activities aimed at harnessing science and innovation includes support to member States and the regional economic communities through the implementation of the African Innovation Framework, including capacity-building workshops and seminars.

14.19 Through its e-applications activities, the subprogramme will develop appropriate electronic, geotechnology and space technology applications in building the African digital economy, as well as provide the necessary input to enhance performance in various socio-economic sectors. As a result, the Information Technology Centre for Africa, and geographic information system applications will be developed to enhance Africa’s knowledge economy, supported by training materials, databases and other information resources and applications to demonstrate the use of innovations and technologies to practical scenarios. Activities in this area will include the continuation of ICT and STI literacy enhancement programmes for various levels of policymakers (parliamentarians, women’s groups, civil society organizations, etc); and fostering the development of national geoinformation policies, plans and applications.
14.20 The subprogramme will continue working in close collaboration with subregional offices, African regional centres of excellence (the Regional Centre for Mapping and Resources for Development, the Regional Centre for Training in Aerospace Surveys, the African Organization of Cartography and Remote-Sensing), and other organizations within and outside the United Nations system (the United Nations Geographic Information Working Group, the United Nations Office for Outer Space Affairs, GEO, the Global Monitoring for Environment and Security, etc.) as well as with other key stakeholders, including civil society, the private sector, women, youth organizations, media, academia/research institutions and other knowledge networks.

Trade, economic cooperation and regional integration

Objective of the Organization: To foster free-trade areas, common markets and monetary unions within the regional economic communities that accelerate subregional and regional economic and physical integration in line with the vision and priorities of the African Union and NEPAD

<td>(ii) Increased number of policies negotiated and proposed by African countries in multilateral, bilateral and regional trade negotiations</td>

14.21 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Regional Integration, Infrastructure and Trade Division. The African regional economic communities, which constitute the building blocks for the continent’s integration, are making progress in advancing the integration agenda within their respective subregions. In that connection, regional economic communities such as the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA), the East African Community (EAC) and the Southern African Development Community (SADC) have decided to establish a common free-trade area among them, while pursuing efforts to become monetary unions latest by 2018. In the same vein, ECOWAS, the Community of Sahelo-Saharan States (CEN-SAD) and the Arab Maghreb Union, which have considerable overlapping membership, would like to pursue a similar objective of creating a single free-trade area. There is therefore the need to strengthen the capacity of African countries to design appropriate national and regional trade strategies and programmes so as to help them to reap the benefits of globalization. To achieve these goals, there is also a need to strengthen infrastructure development and their related services on the continent through the continental Programme of Infrastructure Development in Africa.

14.22 To these ends, the subprogramme will focus on: promoting intra-African trade, monetary and financial cooperation within and between the regional economic communities as well as strengthening regional cooperation and integration. The subprogramme will support ongoing efforts of the African Union and the regional economic communities to consolidate free-trade areas and customs union towards achieving the African Economic Community. The subprogramme will therefore also focus on issues such as: sectoral and trade policies, including the adjustment costs of trade reforms, in particular those occasioned by bilateral (e.g., economic partnership agreements), regional and international trade agreements (e.g., the Doha Round of trade negotiations); addressing supply-side constraints and implementation of Aid for Trade; policies and mechanisms for harnessing benefits of South-South cooperation in trade. Gender will remain a cross-cutting issue in these activities. In addition, the subprogramme will build on its existing strong collaboration with other actors with respect to United Nations mandates (e.g., in the Millennium Declaration, the Brussels Programme of Action and the Monterrey Consensus). It will also increase its participation in South-South cooperation frameworks. The subprogramme will also continue to provide technical, analytical and advisory support to the regional economic communities through various means, including the multi-year programmes of assistance, in order to reach the desired expected accomplishments. The subprogramme will be engaged in activities that support the areas of infrastructure and natural resources development with particular emphasis on transport, energy and mining, taking into account the special needs of landlocked countries in the context of the Almaty Programme of Action as well as issues related to safety and security. In addition, the subprogramme will strengthen its collaboration with other partners and stakeholders in order to enhance resource mobilization for financing infrastructure development and other regional public goods. Collaboration with other ECA Divisions and subregional offices will be strengthened and focused on activities supporting the deepening of regional integration within the regional economic communities so as to accelerate the process of the African continental common market of goods and services.

Gender and women in development

Objective of the Organization: To promote gender equality and women’s advancement in accelerating the implementation of commitments under the 15-year reviews of the implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development and of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, the Millennium Summit and the NEPAD frameworks

Strategy

14.23 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the African Centre for Gender and Social Development, whose vision is a continent where every person irrespective of sex, race, ethnicity, age, disability, location and religion enjoys high quality of life and lives with dignity, freedom and equality and where the human rights of people are respected and are fully protected under the law.

14.24 Internally, the strategy would strive to strengthen synergy and linkages between subprogramme 6, Gender and women in development, and subprogramme 10, Social development, and establish more linkages with other ECA Divisions and subregional offices, as One-ECA in joint planning, resource mobilization and programme delivery. The Centre will continue to enhance collaboration with the African Union Commission, regional economic communities, and AfDB, the United Nations system partners through the regional consultative mechanisms and the Regional Directors’ Team, donors, civil society organizations and networks to support the implementation of programmes.

14.25 During the meeting of the Committee on Women and Development, held on 16 and 17 November 2009, the subprogramme on gender and women in development was commended for its support to the national machineries of gender in Africa, and the Committee encouraged ECA to ensure continuity and up-scaling of previous interventions. In line with that recommendation, during the biennium 2012-2013, the subprogramme will build on, scale up and strengthen ongoing activities as well as promote consensus-building and policy dialogue on gender equality and women’s empowerment using the human rights-based approach.

Subprogramme 7

Strategy

14.36 The African Institute for Economic Development and Planning was created in 1962 by a resolution of the General Assembly and is responsible for the implementation of subprogramme 8. In the context of the repositioning of IDEP to renew its relevance, consolidate its position as a premier capacity-development resource for African Governments, extend its reach, enhance its presence and visibility, and increase its impact, a multifaceted strategy is being pursued. This strategy includes:

(a) The complete renewal of the capacity-development and training courses available at the Institute in order to deepen the curriculum, make the pedagogical approach more interactive, and diversify the range of modules available for different categories of officials to participate;

(b) The introduction of a set of core and foundational short-course modules through which officials of relevant departments of African Governments — and other development institutions — will be offered ample opportunity to acquire and/or renew their basic and fundamental knowledge of and skills in economic management, policy analysis and development planning;

(c) The forging of partnerships with local universities, development training institutions, and development research centres that are appropriately positioned to work with IDEP in delivering its capacity-development and training programmes locally in-country and/or subregionally;

(d) The renewal of international partnerships both within the United Nations system, including the various divisions of ECA, and outside the United Nations system for the realization of the work of the Institute with African public sector and non-governmental development professionals, this form of partnership being particularly useful for the harnessing of global comparative insights;

(e) The deliberate decentralization of capacity-development and training activities in order to significantly scale up and expand opportunities for participation in IDEP courses, and increase the reach of the Institute’s work;

(f) The conscious recruitment of participation from the private sector, the legislative arm of government and development-oriented non-governmental organizations and civil society groups in recognition of the increased significance over time of non-State development actors in Africa;

(g) The intensification of train-the-trainer activities in order to strengthen the availability of in-house resource persons available to contribute to the building and renewal of the skills of their colleagues in strategic development institutions;

(h) The facilitation of policy research, policy dialogue and policy advisory and dissemination activities as accompanying complements to the capacity-development and training mandate of the Institute;

(i) The investment of necessary resources to transform the IDEP Library into the leading resource centre for primary and secondary literature on development planning in Africa;
(j) The transformation of the IDEP website into a site for learning and an African development-planning portal, in addition to the existing information dissemination function which it serves;

(k) The facilitation of intra-African development learning and experience-sharing through the organization of study visits and tours designed to help solve specific problems;

(l) The targeting of specific capacity-development programmes at younger officials and female professionals pursuing careers in economic management, policy analysis and development planning;

(m) The provision of an increasing number of tailor-made courses designed to meet the specific needs of requesting Governments and institutions, including the regional economic communities that constitute the building blocks of the African development agenda.

Strategy

14.37 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the African Centre for Statistics. The subprogramme will strive to increase the statistical capabilities of African countries to collect, compile and use quality, comparable and harmonized statistics to monitor the Millennium Development Goals and to support regional integration, including the harmonization of methods for censuses, surveys, national accounts, economic classifications and Millennium Development Goal indicators, in compliance with international methodologies such as the 2008 System of National Accounts. Better-quality and comparable statistical data will be collected for statistical publications and to populate the African statistical database. The subprogramme will provide adequate support to countries’ efforts in conducting statistical operations, including censuses and surveys with special attention on the efficient use of administrative data such as the civil registration and vital statistics, necessary for monitoring progress towards the Millennium Development Goals and gender-disaggregated and gender-responsive statistics. The subprogramme will continue to play a lead role in the implementation of the Reference Regional Strategic Framework for Statistical Capacity-Building in Africa; the implementation of the African Charter on Statistics, which was designed by the African Union Commission and endorsed by countries, and which emphasizes comparable statistics for regional integration; and in the provision of adequate support to countries for the design, adoption and implementation of a national strategy for the development of statistics.

14.38 The strategy will include: rigorous methodological works through manuals, trainings and field projects, advocacy through addressing institutional issues and national strategy design; the dissemination of information, experiences and best practices; and the provision of technical assistance, including advisory services to member States and their institutions. In that context, particular emphasis will be placed on the development of a manual on harmonized statistics, the provision of support to the statistical working groups on the statistical harmonization of prices statistics, on national accounts statistics, trade and public finances, data development in pilot countries, maintenance of database, advocacy, gender mainstreaming, institution-building, sharing of information and experiences and disseminating best practices. The subprogramme will therefore coordinate and cooperate with United Nations organizations, the African Union Commission, AfDB, regional and intergovernmental organizations and relevant international organizations, including the United Nations Statistics Division of the Secretariat and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). The African Centre for Statistics will promote statistical harmonization and collaboration through the meetings of the Statistical Commission for Africa, and its working groups, including the African Group on National Accounts, the African Group on Statistical Training and the informal sector. It will also strengthen its collaboration with other Divisions of ECA and subregional offices, particularly by providing technical backstopping in delivering various outputs under their subprogrammes, including flagship publications such as the Economic Report on Africa and the subregional reports.

Strategy

14.39 Subprogramme 10 is also implemented under the African Centre for Gender and Social Development, whose vision is a continent where every person, irrespective of sex, race, ethnicity, age, disability, location and religion, enjoys a high quality of life and lives with dignity, freedom and equality and where the human rights of people are respected and are fully protected under the law.

14.40 Internally, the strategy would be strengthening synergy and linkages between the two subprogrammes, Gender and women in development and Social development, and to establish more linkages with other ECA Divisions and subregional offices, as One-ECA in joint planning, resource mobilization and programme delivery. The Centre will continue to enhance collaboration with the African Union Commission, the regional economic communities, and AfDB, the United Nations system partners through the regional consultative mechanisms and the Regional Directors’ Team, donors, civil society organizations and networks to support the implementation of programmes.

14.41 The subprogramme will focus on supporting the implementation of the recommendations outlined in: the Commitment Document of the Ministerial Review Conference on the Fifteen-Year Review of the Implementation of the Plan of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development in Africa (23 October 2009), and the outcome meeting of the Committee on Human and Social Development (19 October 2009). The subprogramme will initiate, analyse, strengthen, scale up, and monitor policies in social and human development. This will be the basis for promoting policy dialogue and consensus-building on social integration, health-related Millennium Development Goals, HIV/AIDS, youth, education, employment, social protection, human resources development and other related social issues.

Economic and social development in Asia and the Pacific

Overall orientation

15.1 The mandate of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP), which is derived from Economic and Social Council resolutions 37 (IV) and 414 (XIII) by which the Commission was established, is to promote regional cooperation for inclusive and sustainable economic and social development in Asia and the Pacific, a dynamic region characterized by growing wealth, diversity and change, but also challenged with persistent poverty, environmental degradation, inequality and insecurity. The role of the Commission was subsequently elaborated upon in various resolutions adopted by the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the Commission itself. The most recent, Commission resolution 64/1 on restructuring of the conference structure of the Commission, further sharpened the focus of ESCAP’s intergovernmental machinery in order to more effectively address key issues pertaining to inclusive and sustainable economic and social development in the Asian and Pacific region.

15.2 Home to 4.1 billion people, more than 60 per cent of the world’s population, Asia and the Pacific has distinguished itself as the fastest growing region in the world. Over the decades, it has made remarkable progress on a number of fronts such as dynamic trade and investment-led economic growth, sustained inroads into poverty reduction and technological advances. However, the fallout from the financial crisis, coming soon after the food and energy crises, has left many countries exposed to economic insecurity that threatens development and progress towards the Millennium Development Goals. Further, social vulnerabilities and inequities both within countries and among countries are on the rise, exacerbated by rapid changes in family support structures, ageing populations, urbanization and migration. While the region is on the path of economic recovery, experiences from previous crises suggest that social recovery takes longer to achieve.

15.3 Economic, social and environmental insecurities are occurring simultaneously with a mutually reinforcing convergence. How the region addresses these challenges will determine the nature, speed and sustainability of its future development for decades to come.

15.4 In the context of this evolving Asia-Pacific landscape, ESCAP will support member States with sound strategic analysis, policy options and technical cooperation to address key development challenges and to implement innovative solutions for region-wide economic prosperity, social progress and environmental sustainability. At the same time, ESCAP will assist member States through its conference structure to forge a stronger coordinated regional voice on global issues by building capacities to dialogue, negotiate and shape development agendas in an age of globalization. A key modality for this strategy will be to promote intraregional connectivity.

15.5 ESCAP will continue to pursue the key objectives shared by all the regional commissions, namely, to (a) foster economic integration at the subregional and regional levels; (b) promote the regional implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals; and (c) support regional sustainable development by helping to bridge economic, social and environmental gaps among member States and subregions, including through trade and transport. In order to achieve those objectives, all the regional commissions will continue to generate multilateral dialogue, knowledge sharing and networking and to work together to promote intraregional and interregional cooperation, both among themselves and through collaboration with other relevant organizations.

15.6 Taking into account the above considerations, ESCAP will adopt a more balanced multisectoral and multidisciplinary approach to development decision-making and agenda-setting. ESCAP will advocate and assist member States to develop a common set of standards, norms, conventions and development approaches. Advocacy work of ESCAP will be underpinned by evidence-based analysis that captures differences and disparities among and within countries, including between men and women, according priority to ensuring that the concerns of countries with special needs are addressed, particularly those of the least developed, landlocked developing and small island developing States.

15.7 The proposed strategic framework comprises an integrated set of eight mutually supportive and interconnected subprogrammes, which are linked to the priorities of member States. The subprogrammes of the strategic framework for the period 2012-2013 reflect continuity in the direction of work already undertaken by ESCAP during the period 2010-2011, reflecting the mandate contained in Commission resolution 64/1, the commitment of ESCAP to the development pillar of the United Nations, and the secretariat’s continuing efforts to enhance organizational and development effectiveness.

15.8 With the overall goal of achieving the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogrammes will aim to achieve the following development results: (a) Governments of member States have more effective, inclusive and sustainable development policies for addressing development from a multidisciplinary perspective, to narrow development gaps and build resiliency; (b) global processes are shaped by a stronger coordinated regional voice and countries are supported in implementing international commitments; and (c) regional cooperation mechanisms and institutional frameworks are in place to promote regional integration and inclusive development.

15.9 Central to the strategy of the ESCAP programme of work is to foster regional and subregional cooperation, including South-South cooperation. Subregional offices established for East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia and South and South-West Asia, together with a strengthened office for the Pacific subregion, are to provide better-targeted and in-depth technical assistance to address priorities of member States in the respective subregions in a more balanced manner.

15.10 Partnerships with multilateral entities and subregional organizations will continue to be strengthened in order to ensure an inclusive and coherent approach to addressing the concerns of the region and to avoid duplication of efforts, while building on the strengths and comparative advantages of ESCAP and complementarities with partners.

15.11 Overall, ESCAP will use its multidisciplinary capabilities, its strengthened regional and subregional presence, the extensive network it has developed with relevant subregional, regional and international organizations and its position as the regional arm of the United Nations to provide leadership and solutions to the critical regional and global development challenges of the twenty-first century.
Subprogramme 1

Strategy

15.12 The substantive responsibility for this subprogramme will lie with the Macroeconomic Policy and Development Division, with support from the Centre for Alleviation of Poverty through Secondary Crops Development in Asia and the Pacific. Under the subprogramme, the secretariat will be responsible for mainstreaming the development needs of the least developed countries, landlocked countries and small island developing States into the work of ESCAP, especially in reducing poverty, eliminating disparities and fostering greater integration into the regional economic growth process. The strategic direction of the subprogramme is imbedded in the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, the Doha Outcome Document on Financing for Development, the inputs for and outcomes of various Group of Twenty summits, the outcome of the United Nations Conference on the World Financial and Economic Crisis and Its Impact on Development, the outcome of the forthcoming Fourth United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries, in 2011, and Commission resolutions 62/1, 63/4, and 64/6 on achieving the Millennium Development Goals in the ESCAP region, 64/7 on financing for the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals by 2015 in the ESCAP region, 65/1 on implementation of the Bali Outcome Document in addressing the food, fuel and financial crises, and 65/4 on strengthening of the Centre for Alleviation of Poverty through Secondary Crops Development in Asia and the Pacific.

15.13 With its substantive emphasis on strengthening the capacities of countries to formulate and implement inclusive and sustainable development policies in support of the internationally agreed development goals, the subprogramme will monitor macroeconomic trends and prospects towards reducing poverty and narrowing development gaps, promote capacity development in the countries with special needs in achieving the Millennium Development Goals and assist in the graduation process of the least developed countries, strengthen regional cooperation in addressing medium- to long-term development challenges, and support sustainable agriculture and food security in the region aimed at reducing poverty in poor communities. Special emphasis will be placed on efforts to promote greater regional integration and resiliency through increased economic growth, to achieve the Millennium Development Goals in ways that reduce economic and social disparities within as well as across countries, with due attention given to the gender dimension, to foster a regional coordinated voice on various global processes on development issues and challenges and on financial issues, including the outcomes of Group of Twenty summits, and to explore innovations in strengthening collaboration and identifying regional synergies/complementarities in promoting sustainable agriculture and food security.

15.14 A specific set of key modalities will be followed in implementing the work programme. Regional cooperation as well as South-South cooperation will continue to be the key modality in bringing countries together in which policy dialogues and policy advocacy will be used to address common development issues and fill the development gaps, particularly those of countries with special needs. The Asia-Pacific Regional Coordination Mechanism will be utilized to achieve greater coherence and effectiveness with other United Nations organizations and specialized agencies in delivering a common set of services to member States.

Common frameworks that advance regional integration in trade, investment, technology transfer and the development of small and medium-sized enterprises, including agricultural enterprises, in a manner supportive of the multilateral trading system and other multilateral agreements of relevance will be pursued. The deepening, expansion and strengthening of the Asia-Pacific Trade Agreement will form a key pillar of the work of the subprogramme. Further, regional cooperation among research institutions will be deepened through the Asia-Pacific Research and Training Network on Trade, while the United Nations Network of Experts for Paperless Trade in Asia Pacific will be promoted as an important regional cooperative mechanism for trade facilitation.

15.17 The Commission will collaborate at the regional, subregional and national levels with the agencies of the United Nations system and with other bilateral and multilateral agencies. In particular, partnerships will be strengthened with the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), the World Trade Organization (WTO) and the International Trade Centre in the area of trade policy; with regional commissions, UNCTAD, WTO, the Asian Development Bank and the World Bank in the area of trade facilitation; and with the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the Global Compact Office, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the World Bank in the areas of investment, technology transfer and enterprise development.

Strategy

15.18 The substantive responsibility for this subprogramme will lie with the Transport Division. The strategic direction of the subprogramme would derive mainly from General Assembly resolutions 60/5, 62/244 and 64/255 on improving global road safety, and 61/212, on the outcome of the International Ministerial Conference of Landlocked and Transit Developing Countries and Donor Countries and International Financial and Development Institutions on Transit Transport Cooperation; Economic and Social Council resolution 2004/6 on the Shanghai Declaration; and ESCAP resolutions 60/4 on the Intergovernmental Agreement on the Asian Highway Network, 61/11 on the implementation of the Almaty Programme of Action, 62/4 on the Intergovernmental Agreement on the Trans-Asian Railway Network, 63/9 on the implementation of the Busan Declaration on Transport Development in Asia and the Pacific and the Regional Action Programme for Transport Development in Asia and the Pacific, phase I (2007-2011), 64/4 on the implementation of the Seoul Declaration on Public-Private Partnerships for Infrastructure Development in Asia and the Pacific, and 64/5 on the establishment of the Forum of Asian Ministers of Transport. 15.19 The subprogramme will support member States in working towards the vision of an efficient international, integrated, intermodal transport and logistics system that supports the development of coastal areas, hinterlands and landlocked countries by providing, inter alia, physical access and connectivity, through inclusive and sustainable economic and social development.

15.20 During the biennium 2012-2013, the subprogramme will focus on the further development of the Asian Highway and Trans-Asian Railway networks, as well as the promotion of Euro-Asian transport linkages. This will include acting as secretariat for the intergovernmental agreements for the Asian Highway and Trans-Asian Railway networks, which are deposited with the Secretary-General. The subprogramme will help member States to identify transport investment requirements and priorities and address non-physical bottlenecks, including those at border crossings, and will work towards the development of an intergovernmental agreement on dry ports that link road, rail and inland waterway transport infrastructures to seaports and airports. Strategies to promote dry ports as economic growth poles through improved logistical efficiencies and by promoting interregional and intraregional trade, and thus creating jobs and reducing poverty, will be continued. In the area of road safety, the subprogramme will help member States to set and work towards achieving road safety goals, targets and indicators by networking among national and subregional organizations, as well as following up on requests to regional commissions originating in global mandates.

Strategy

15.21 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Environment and Development Division. The strategic direction of the subprogramme is mainly derived from the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, the 2005 World Summit Outcome, the outcomes of other United Nations conferences and international agreements related to environment and development since 1992, in particular the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation.

15.22 The subprogramme will build on the achievements of ESCAP during the previous years on supporting countries in the region on integrating environmental sustainability into development policy, including the application of the green growth approach and other effective policy initiatives, strengthening regional cooperation for widening access to modern energy services to all, enhanced energy security, efficient management of energy and water resources and sustainable urban development. The subprogramme will ensure the implementation of resolutions adopted by ESCAP, in particular, 61/9 on the Fifth Ministerial Conference on Environment and Development in Asia and the Pacific, 63/6 on the implementation of intercountry energy cooperation to enhance energy security for sustainable development with a view to widening access to energy services in least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States, and 64/3 on promoting renewables for energy security and sustainable development in Asia and the Pacific.

15.23 The subprogramme will assist member States of ESCAP to integrate environmental sustainability in economic and social development, including the application of the green growth approach and other effective policy initiatives, and eco-efficient planning and management of natural resources development, including energy and water and sustainable urban development, by serving as a knowledge hub that would build capacities of all stakeholders, including civil society, at the regional, subregional and national levels. Further, it will build strong linkages between its normative and operational work by focusing on developing innovative strategies and documenting, analysing and disseminating policy options and good practices. The subprogramme will also facilitate consensus-building among different stakeholders concerning strategies, approaches and cooperation at the regional level.

15.24 The subprogramme will focus on using innovative and pragmatic approaches, including the green growth approach and other effective policy initiatives. Such approaches and initiatives will promote more efficient use of resources, including energy and water, increased investment in natural and human capital, decoupling economic and social development from environmental degradation, including regional and local pollutions and greenhouse gas emissions. They will contribute to reducing poverty and gender inequality and providing enhanced access to basic infrastructure and services to all, in particular the poor, and increase the resilience of urban and rural communities to deal with climate change. To achieve this, the subprogramme will further develop partnerships and create synergies with agencies of the Asia-Pacific Regional Coordination Mechanism and with other partners outside the United Nations system.

Strategy

15.25 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Information and Communications Technology and Disaster Risk Reduction Division, with support from the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communication Technology for Development. The strategic direction for the subprogramme is derived mainly from General Assembly resolutions 60/252, on the World Summit on the Information Society, and 64/200, on the International Strategy on Disaster Reduction, and the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005-2015: Building the Resilience of Nations and Communities to Disasters. In addition, Economic and Social Council resolution 2005/40 on the establishment of the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communication Technology for Development, and Commission resolutions 62/5 on building the information society in Asia and the Pacific, 62/7 on strengthening regional cooperation and coordination of early warning system arrangements for tsunamis through the Multi-Donor Voluntary Trust Fund on Tsunami Early Warning Arrangements in the Indian Ocean and Southeast Asia, and 64/2 on regional cooperation in the implementation of the Hyogo Framework in Asia and the Pacific, provide the framework for the direction of the subprogramme. The subprogramme will support and strengthen the subsidiary Committee on Information and Communications Technology and Committee on Disaster Risk Reduction of the Commission as the basis for regional consensus building for action and an effective mechanism to contribute to the global mandates.

15.26 The subprogramme will continue to promote regional cooperation and partnerships for improved information and communications technology connectivity, with a focus on policy harmonization for infrastructure development and information and communications technology capacity-building. In order to realize the goal of a people-centred information society in Asia and the Pacific, the expansion of access to information and communications technology and the further expansion of its use for inclusive and sustainable socio-economic development will be promoted, especially among the least developed countries and other countries with special needs. The subprogramme will employ the strategy of collaborating with other relevant intergovernmental organizations and existing regional mechanisms to address information and communications technology connectivity and capacity-building, and provide member States with high-quality analysis and policy recommendations and options for addressing the emerging challenges of the region and enhancing regional connectivity. Efforts would be further augmented by information and communications technology capacity-building activities conducted by the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communication Technology for Development for policymakers and Government officials. The capacity built among key information and communications technology stakeholders would help to optimize the use of infrastructure and the development of applications in information and communications technology for socio-economic development.

15.27 The subprogramme will improve the capabilities of ESCAP members to create more disaster resilient societies and reduce the socio-economic impact of disasters. The subprogramme will collaborate with regional organizations and existing mechanisms in support of the development of an Asia-Pacific gateway on disaster risk reduction and development for information sharing and analysis, and the preparation of an Asia-Pacific disaster report, and provide member States with high-quality analysis, strategies and policy options in disaster risk reduction, including relevant measures for climate change adaptation, and development. The subprogramme will build on the comparative advantage of ESCAP within existing subregional mechanisms for tropical cyclone-related disasters and its Regional Space Applications Programme and the established network associated with it. Regional cooperative mechanisms in information and communications technology, including space-based applications for disaster risk reduction, the South-South cooperation approach and opportunities for public-private partnership will be promoted.

15.28 Strategic partnerships will be built with the International Telecommunication Union, the Asia-Pacific Telecommunity, the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Office for Outer Space Affairs and other relevant United Nations system agencies, regional and subregional organizations, and civil society and the private sector to support the above initiatives.

The Commission’s convening role, particularly with regard to promoting regional cooperation and consensus building on accelerating the implementation of international commitments to promote gender equality and social integration of vulnerable groups, will be emphasized. Technical assistance to developing countries, including those in special situations, will be intensified to build national capacity through the transfer of knowledge and skills on a range of social development issues. The subprogramme will adopt a multipronged strategy that incorporates cross-cutting issues, including gender-responsiveness and a rights-based approach, into policies and programmes. Partnerships will be strengthened with a range of stakeholders, including civil society organizations and research institutes. The subprogramme will coordinate closely with other United Nations entities and international organizations to achieve synergies and ensure greater impact in the region.

Strategy

15.35 The overall responsibility for coordinating the work of the subprogramme will lie with the Office of the Executive Secretary. Activities will be implemented by the ESCAP subregional offices for the Pacific, East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia, South and South-West Asia, and, for activities for the South-East Asian subregion, by the concerned substantive divisions at ESCAP headquarters in Bangkok, Thailand. Internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, the 2005 World Summit Outcome, the World Summit on Sustainable Development, the Almaty Programme of Action and the Mauritius Strategy on the sustainable development of small island developing States provide the mandates and strategic direction for the subprogramme. The subprogramme will also coordinate closely with the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia.

15.36 Given the vast coverage and diversity of the Asian and Pacific region, the subprogramme would strengthen the Commission’s presence and strategic position at the subregional level, enabling better targeting and delivery of programmes that address specific key priorities of member States in the five subregions. The subprogramme will provide an important platform to strengthen regional cooperation on key economic and social development issues, ensuring the reflection of subregional needs and perspectives in the promotion of broader regional cooperation in Asia and the Pacific.
15.37 The subprogramme will further operationalize the analytical and normative work of the Commission, supporting capacity development through technical cooperation, including South-South and triangular cooperation, among ESCAP member States, and through the provision, on request, of advisory services. Emphasis will be placed on knowledge sharing and networking, including the dissemination of good practices for adaptation, experience sharing and replication. The subprogramme will collect data and produce subregional analysis on identified priority areas in order to ensure greater depth and coverage of the secretariat’s knowledge products.

15.38 Each component of the subprogramme reflects the specific needs of the relevant subregion within the context of existing subregional cooperation frameworks and institutional landscape. In support of subprogramme implementation, ESCAP will build strategic partnerships with other key intergovernmental institutions and development actors in the subregions, and develop and implement programmes in a coherent and coordinated manner in line with United Nations efforts to “deliver as one”, utilizing the full assets of the United Nations development system at the subregional and national levels to bridge key development gaps.

Economic development in Europe

Overall orientation

16.1 The programme is under the responsibility of the Economic Commission for Europe (ECE).

16.2 Acting in its dual role as regional outpost of the United Nations and part of its regional institutional landscape, ECE will continue to pursue the key objectives shared by all the regional commissions, namely, to foster economic integration at the subregional and regional levels, to promote the regional implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and to support regional sustainable development by contributing to bridging economic, social and environmental gaps among their member countries and subregions. To achieve these objectives, all regional commissions, through their convening power, will continue to generate multilateral dialogue, knowledge-sharing and networking at the regional level, and will work together to promote intraregional and interregional cooperation, both among themselves and through collaboration with other regional organizations.

16.3 Taking into account the role of the regional commissions as expressed above and the goals and commitments contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and in the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development, the main objectives of the ECE work programme for 2012-2013 will be (a) to support the integration of countries of Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia as well as South-East Europe into the pan-European economy, taking into account the enlarged European Union and the various integration initiatives under way in the eastern part of the region, (b) to improve the quality of life and to contribute to the sustainable development of the region, including in terms of climate change mitigation and adaptation, and (c) to enhance competitiveness, in particular in the emerging market economies and low income countries of the region, thereby contributing to their economic prosperity. ECE will engage and promote partnerships among all public and private stakeholders to achieve these objectives. In pursuing the aforesaid goals, adequate consideration will be given to the enduring effects of the economic and financial crisis in the region.

16.4 The ECE programme of work, in accordance with the strategic directions provided by member States through the 2005 workplan on ECE reform (E/ECE/1434/Rev.1) that were reaffirmed by the Commission at its sixty-third session in 2009 (decision A/63, E/ECE/1453), is designed around eight subprogrammes, namely, economic cooperation and integration, environment, housing, land management and population, statistics, sustainable energy, timber and forestry, trade and transport. The core strategy focuses on (a) the implementation of existing legally binding instruments, norms, standards and guidelines as well as negotiation of new ones based on the needs of member States, (b) the provision of technical assistance, policy advice and capacity-building to support the implementation of these norms and standards by countries with economics in transition and (c) the organization of policy debate and exchange of experience in the areas of ECE expertise, including supporting policy analysis, studies and statistics.
16.5 ECE normative work will promote greater regulatory compatibility among its member States. It will therefore stimulate transboundary cooperation, particularly in the areas of transport, trade facilitation and environmental protection. This transboundary cooperation will also contribute to the region’s stability and security. It will also have a positive impact on the rest of the world, as many ECE-developed agreements and standards are increasingly being applied in countries of other regions.

16.6 Particular attention will also be given to cross-sectoral issues, in particular sustainable development, which requires the engagement of the energy, environment, housing, timber, trade and transport sectors. Further, ECE will promote gender mainstreaming in its relevant areas of activity and, as a whole, will address the gender dimension of development through the economics of gender.

16.7 Policy debate and exchange of experience among ECE member States will facilitate the identification of policies and good practices conducive to achieving the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals.

16.8 ECE technical cooperation activities will be directed at the countries of Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia, and South-East Europe. They will contribute to improving national capacities to implement legally binding instruments and other regional norms and standards, and to resolving transboundary challenges. In this respect, ECE will continue to strengthen its cooperation with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), at both the regional and country levels. In addition, the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia, jointly executed with the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP), will continue to be strengthened.

16.9 Building upon the complementarity of mandates, functions and areas of expertise, ECE will strengthen its cooperation with key partners in the region, in particular with UNDP, the European Commission and the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, as well as with major subregional players. The regional coordination mechanism will be used as a main channel for promoting coherence and collaboration.

(b) Strengthened implementation of ECE regional environmental commitments by member States

(c) Improved environmental performance in countries with economies in transition

(b) Increased number of national reports received from countries indicating progress in implementing legally binding instruments

(c) (i) Increased number of countries showing progress in environmental performance as measured by a set of indicators developed for environmental performance reviews

(ii) Increased number of recommendations which have contributed to policy formulation and implementation, as reported by the reviewed countries

Strategy

16.10 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Environment, Housing and Land Management Division. In line with its objective, the subprogramme will emphasize a country needs-based approach in carrying out its activities. It will focus on building the capacity of the countries of Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia and South-Eastern Europe in environmental policy and management, including for the effective implementation of environmental legislation.

16.11 The subprogramme will continue to conduct the second round of environmental performance reviews of countries with economies in transition and assist them to implement the recommendations of their national environmental performance reviews. Furthermore, it will monitor the impact of such recommendations on policy formulation and implementation. The subprogramme will also assist to build capacity for environmental observation and reporting, which will contribute to provide timely and accurate environmental data to improve monitoring and assessment in these countries. The ECE guidelines on the application of environmental indicators will be further promoted for use in member States for environmental monitoring and assessment.

16.12 While taking into account the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogramme will further promote the implementation of sustainable development in the ECE region and the outcomes of regional environment and sustainable development conferences, in particular the decisions taken by the Seventh Ministerial Conference, “Environment for Europe” (Astana, Kazakhstan, 2011).

16.13 Actions will be taken to further integrate environment into other sectoral policies through intersectoral programmes and projects, including education for sustainable development, transport, health and environment as well as water and health. It will also improve cross-border environmental security in cooperation with the other regional organizations involved. Cross-sectoral work will also include the promotion of synergies and cooperation between the ECE legally binding instruments.

16.14 Emphasis will be placed on supporting the implementation of regional and subregional agreements and action programmes, as well as multi-stakeholder processes and partnerships resulting from, inter alia, the World Summit on Sustainable Development and from the work of the Commission on Sustainable Development, in particular by providing regional contributions to the programme cycle of the Commission.

Strategy

16.15 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Transport Division. The subprogramme will focus on four broad functional areas: legal and regulatory framework for international land transport; improved law enforcement and regulatory framework; national capacity for the development of pan-European and transcontinental transport infrastructure as well as transport and trade facilitation; and capacity-building activities in Eastern and South-Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia.

16.16 The legal and regulatory framework for international land transport will include both new instruments and recommendations on transport issues as well as the updating and improvement of the 57 existing agreements and numerous regulations and recommendations. This will cover all modes of inland transport, including road, rail, inland waterway and intermodal, as well as special areas of interest, for example, vehicle construction and transport of dangerous goods. This will be achieved through consensus and agreement at ECE intergovernmental meetings on transport.

16.17 With regard to improved implementation and law enforcement, activities will be taken to promote new accessions to ECE legal instruments. Implementation will be promoted and surveyed through improved monitoring mechanisms for as many legal instruments as possible. To this end, the incorporation of certain ECE legal instruments (e.g., vehicle regulations and transport of dangerous goods) in the European Union Community acquis by the European Commission will continue to play an important role.

16.18 Emphasis will be placed on regional and subregional cooperation for enhancing national capacity for the development of transport infrastructure to support pan-European and Euro-Asian economic integration. In addition, development of Euro-Asian transport links will be promoted in cooperation with ESCAP and member States. Strengthening of transport links between Europe and Africa, and between Europe and the Middle East, including across the Mediterranean, will be promoted in cooperation with the Economic Commission for Africa and the Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia. Transport and trade facilitation will focus on transit and border-crossing facilitation. In particular, it will be mainstreamed, inter alia, through the implementation of the International Convention on the Harmonization of Frontier Controls of Goods, including pilots for the measurement of border-crossing performance. The special needs of landlocked transition economies and their transit neighbours will be serviced through technical assistance and analytical work.

16.19 Special attention will be given to further strengthening national capacity of countries in Eastern and South-Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia to implement relevant ECE legal instruments, norms and standards through advisory missions, seminars and workshops. Capacity-building activities will be organized in cooperation with interested Governments and with the assistance of international experts and staff of the Division.

16.20 Cooperation and partnerships with the European Union and other international organizations active in the field of transport, such as the International Transport Forum, will be intensified. Cooperation will continue with the other regional commissions and with all partners in the United Nations Road Safety Collaboration in order to improve global road safety and law enforcement in response to General Assembly resolutions. The public-private dialogue will be scaled up through closer cooperation with non-governmental organizations representing transport operators, relevant industries, transport users and consumers.

16.21 New multisectoral projects will be embarked on, with particular attention to improving energy efficiency in transport in response to global warming concerns, while existing ones (inter alia, on transport health and environment; trade and transport facilitation; global supply chains and competitiveness) will be strengthened.

16.22 The Division will continue to service the Economic and Social Council Committee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods and on the Globally Harmonized System for the Classification and Labelling of Chemicals and its subsidiary bodies.

(d) (i) Number of statistical areas for which technical assistance and advisory services were provided

(ii) Increased percentage of national experts that express, through evaluation questionnaires, satisfaction with the relevance and quality of the ECE advisory services, training courses, and workshops

Strategy

16.23 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Statistical Division. Coordinating all international statistical activities undertaken in the region will remain a central component of the strategy under the subprogramme. The subprogramme will promote the Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics within the international statistical community and provide advice to countries on institutional frameworks of official statistics.

16.24 Concerning methodological work, the subprogramme will focus on a selected number of subject areas, in particular those where ECE can provide an added value and complement the work undertaken by other international organizations. The work will concentrate on developing and updating methodological guidelines and leading practices, and on advising national statistical offices regarding existing United Nations standards and best practices and their implementation at the national level. Public access to all meeting documents, work programmes and statistical standards and recommendations will provide the basis for transparency and accountability.

16.25 Technical cooperation activities will focus on key priorities, reflecting the needs of countries. They will be demand-driven and will focus on areas where United Nations standards exist, such as population censuses, indicators related to the Millennium Development Goals, national accounts, prices, business statistics, gender disaggregated statistics and statistical data dissemination.

16.26 The data work undertaken by the subprogramme will respond to sustained internal and external demands. Data will be accessible to the public via the Internet. A quality framework will ensure the relevance, timeliness and user-friendliness of data dissemination.

16.27 Cooperation with the statistical services of other international organizations will continue in the form of joint meetings and working groups aimed at coordinating the development of methodologies and the preparation of standards, recommendations and the compilation of best practices, as well as by using modern tools of data sharing.
Subprogramme 4

Objective of the Organization: To promote a policy, financial and regulatory environment more conducive to economic growth, innovative development and higher competitiveness of enterprises and economic activities in the ECE region

--- | ---
(a) Increased knowledge of good practices and policies on financial and regulatory environment conducive to economic growth, innovative development and higher competitiveness of enterprises and economic activities leading to the formulation of related ECE policy recommendations | (a) Number of policy recommendations resulting from the exchange of good practices and policy experience among member States
(b) Enhanced implementation of the aforementioned ECE policy recommendations | (b) Increased number of practical steps taken by Governments and other stakeholders to implement the policy recommendations
(c) Strengthened national capacity in countries with economies in transition to promote good practices and implement the aforementioned ECE policy recommendations | (c) Increased number of country-level follow-up activities resulting from training and other capacity-building activities

16.28 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Economic Cooperation and Integration Division. In order to achieve its objective, the subprogramme will take up key aspects of economic development and integration and focus mainly on countries with economies in transition. It will facilitate the application of experience gained, lessons learned and good practices conducive to economic growth and innovative development. Building on the normative work carried out within the subprogramme and reflecting the changing needs of member States, recommendations aimed at further improving a policy, as well as a financial and regulatory environment for economic development, investment and innovation, will be drawn up. Drawing on progress achieved during the period 2010-2011, policy advisory services and capacity-building activities to requesting countries will be organized on the basis of the related policy dialogue, exchange of experiences and good practices as well as guidelines and other policy-related documents.

16.29 Building, inter alia, on relevant work carried out by other organizations and institutions, as well as contributions mobilized from external experts, advisers and decision makers, in particular those from countries with economies in transition, an enhanced exchange of experience and policy debate among member States and other stakeholders will take place. Thematic teams of specialists and other groups of experts involving representatives of Governments, international organizations, business associations and other stakeholders will provide a platform for the exchange of national policy experience and the identification of good practices.
Subsequently, member States are expected to apply these outputs in drawing up relevant policy recommendations, guidelines and other regulatory and normative measures. The results of the subprogramme’s work will be broadly disseminated to all interested stakeholders and will serve as the basis for technical cooperation activities organized by the secretariat in cooperation with member States, such as policy advisory services and capacity-building workshops, including within the framework of the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia.

(ii) Increased number of countries expressing their intent to apply the United Nations Framework Classification for Fossil Energy and Mineral Resources in their fossil energy and uranium resources management

Strategy

16.30 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Sustainable Energy Division. The subprogramme will promote public-private sector cooperation between Governments, energy industries, the financial community and relevant international organizations to foster sustainable energy development in member States. It will assist countries with economies in transition to integrate their energy economies and infrastructure more fully in the region and the global economy, increase energy security for importing and exporting countries alike, reduce greenhouse gas emissions through self-financing mechanisms for trading carbon emissions and coal mine methane, promote the use of new and renewable energy sources through the provision of information and technical and policy-oriented support, enhance the performance of energy industries and contribute to the long-term supply of fossil fuels through the global adoption of a classification standard for energy reserves and resources.

16.31 While taking into account the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogramme is designed to promote a sustainable energy development strategy for the ECE region, in particular, the mitigation of energy security risks, through the pursuit of sustainable energy policies in the short, medium and long terms. ECE will promote well-balanced energy network systems across the region tailored to optimize operating efficiencies and overall regional cooperation and sustained improvements in energy efficiency. The subprogramme will support the development of self-financing projects to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in economies in transition for submission to public-private sector investment funds associated with its programme of work. It will promote projects for gas infrastructure and transportation networks, with particular attention to the Caucasus, Central Asia and South-Eastern Europe. In order to promote self-financing energy efficiency improvements at a global level, ECE will develop a more systematic exchange of experiences on capacity-building, policy reforms and investment project finance among countries of other regions through their United Nations regional commissions. In the context of post-European Union enlargement, the subprogramme will assist member States with the integration of their energy economies through the compatibility of the legal, regulatory and policy measures, including business practices and the development of classification systems and guidelines, and to conduct studies on natural gas markets.

16.32 ECE will continue to coordinate its activities with other international organizations to ensure the efficient use of resources and avoid duplication. The extrabudgetary resources usually attracted by sustainable energy activities will reinforce the present structure of intergovernmental dialogue. While activities begin with policy dialogue, the subprogramme allows for policy recommendations to be implemented through international norms, standards, training programmes, technical assistance and the preparation of investment projects.

Strategy

16.33 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Trade and Timber Division. The subprogramme supports Millennium Development Goal 8 by contributing to the establishment of an open, rule-based, predictable and non-discriminatory trading system, especially in the less economically developed and landlocked countries of the ECE region. It also takes into account the importance accorded to trade as a key vehicle for economic growth, elimination of poverty and greater regional cooperation and stability in other major United Nations documents.

16.34 The subprogramme will aim at reducing barriers to trade caused by differences in trade procedures, standards and documents as well as differences in regulatory approaches and standards for manufactured and agricultural products that hamper market access. More concretely, it will develop and promote:

   (a) Simple, transparent and effective processes for global commerce through the development and maintenance of international trade facilitation instruments, especially to support international supply chains and the integration of countries into the global economy. These instruments include global standards and best practices for moving from paper-based to automated electronic processes and for the harmonization and simplification of business practices used in international trade;

   (b) A predictable, transparent and harmonized regulatory environment for commerce and business through strengthening of the convergence of regulations as well as through the promotion of international standards and best practices in areas of regulatory cooperation, conformity assessment and market surveillance;

   (c) Trade in agricultural produce through the development of up-to-date agricultural quality standards used by Governments for regulatory purposes and the private sector, as well as through explanatory brochures based on these standards in cooperation with the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development Scheme for the Application of International Standards for Fruit and Vegetables.

16.35 The subprogramme will also achieve its objectives by supporting Governments, with a special emphasis on the less economically developed and landlocked countries of the region, in the national and regional adaptation and implementation of ECE trade-related standards and recommendations, including their integration into national and regional trade facilitation strategies, trade policy and regulatory regimes.

16.36 The subprogramme will draw on the work of its intergovernmental bodies and expert groups, and will reinforce cooperation with principal partners, which include the World Trade Organization, the International Organization for Standardization, the World Customs Organization, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the Bank for International Settlements, the World Bank, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, other United Nations regional commissions and a wide variety of private sector organizations.

Subprogramme 7
Timber and forestry

Objective of the Organization: To strengthen the forest sector and its contribution to sustainable development throughout the ECE region

16.37 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Timber Section of the Trade and Timber Division. The subprogramme will aim at developing and applying analytical and monitoring tools, both on policy and on developments on the ground, collecting, validating and disseminating information and analysis, as well as stimulating the exchange of experience, best practices and joint efforts to measure progress. In addition, the subprogramme will provide a platform for topical discussions, taking into account the changing policy environment, notably as regards climate change and bioenergy. It will promote the role of forests in mitigating and adapting to climate change.

16.38 The subprogramme will promote the sustainable management of forests and the sound and legal use of forest products, for raw material and energy as well as forest services, based on appropriate policies and institutions. Priorities for 2012-2013 will be guided by the outcome of the Sixth Ministerial Conference on the Protection of Forests in Europe, as well as the continued efforts to address climate change, as requested by member States and stakeholders through the strategic review conducted in 2008.

16.39 While all countries benefit from international cooperation through the subprogramme, special attention will be paid to the countries of Eastern Europe, the Caucasus, Central Asia and the Mediterranean region to implement sustainable forest management through capacity-building activities and by promoting their involvement in international activities in the region.

16.40 As part of the strategy to implement the subprogramme, ECE will carry out its work in cooperation with FAO and the Ministerial Conference on the Protection of Forests in Europe and provide regional input to the United Nations Forum on Forests and the FAO Committee on Forestry.

16.41 To support forest management, including the use of wood and forest products that is sustainable from the ecological, economic and social perspectives, it is necessary to maintain a good balance among those three aspects, based on a strong consensus among all stakeholders about goals and methods, as well as to ensure that the strategy is well integrated into the policy framework of other sectors (the cross-sectoral approach). Achieving sustainable forest management is primarily a sovereign national responsibility. However, regional international cooperation and interregional cooperation, through the timber and forestry subprogramme and its partners, will contribute by developing and disseminating concepts and information, through communication, sharing experience and defining standard measurement tools (indicators) for sustainable forest management. At the same time, the impact of global developments will be taken into account at the regional level.

Subprogramme 8
Housing, land management and population

Objective of the Organization: To improve the housing, urban and land governance in the region as well as the necessary knowledge base on population issues, strengthening the formulation and implementation of policies, enhancing social cohesion and developing capacities at the national and local levels.

Strategy

16.42 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Environment, Housing and Land Management Division. The subprogramme will aim at promoting the implementation of the ECE strategy for a sustainable quality of life in human settlements in the twenty-first century and the Ministerial Declaration on Social and Economic Challenges in Distressed Urban Areas in the ECE Region. It will promote the development of affordable housing, further addressing effective management of multifamily housing estates linked to energy efficiency in housing, transparency in real estate markets as well as to improved land administration and spatial planning.

16.43 In order to contribute to the efficient and transparent governance and improvement of the urban environment, continued efforts will be made to analyse and review the existing housing situation, including: (a) maintenance, renewal and new construction, (b) energy efficiency measures and safety in buildings, and (c) legislation and housing finance. This process will lead to policy recommendations and related capacity-building activities. In addition, the subprogramme will promote the use by member States of ECE guidance in the areas of housing, including informal settlements, energy efficiency and sound real estate markets. The upgrade of land and real estate systems will be further supported in order to provide secure ownership in land, investment and other private and public rights in real estate. Regional model programmes and pilot projects as well as public-private partnerships will be encouraged.

16.44 The integration of housing policy with spatial planning, land administration, population and environmental policy will be strengthened. Such cross-sectoral issues as the energy efficiency of the housing sector and the housing needs of the low income segment of society will be addressed.

16.45 The population component of the subprogramme will promote the implementation of the ECE Regional Strategy for the Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing to meet the challenges arising from demographic change and release the unused potential embedded in some population groups, in particular, older persons. To improve evidence-based policymaking and monitor implementation in member States, it will coordinate data collection and policy oriented research on population ageing, intergenerational and gender relations, family and fertility. Good policy practices will be exchanged and national capacities for policy formulation in response to demographic change will be developed.

Programme 17

Economic and social development in Latin America and the Caribbean

Overall orientation

17.1 The overall purpose of the programme is to promote the economic, social and environmentally sustainable development of Latin America and the Caribbean through international cooperation, by undertaking a comprehensive research and analysis of development processes and providing the relevant normative, operational and technical cooperation services in support of regional development efforts.

17.2 The mandate for the programme, which falls within the purview of the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC), derives from Economic and Social Council resolution 106 (VI), by which the Council established the Commission for the purpose of contributing to and coordinating action towards the economic development of the region and reinforcing economic relationships among the countries of the region as well as worldwide. In 1996, through ECOSOC resolution 553 (XXVI) the Commission was entrusted, inter alia, to collaborate with member States in analysing the development process of formulating, evaluating and monitoring public policies to provide operational services on specialized information, advisory services, training and support in regional and international cooperation.

17.3 The Commission will continue to pursue key objectives shared by all the regional commissions, to foster economic integration at the subregional and regional levels, to promote the implementation of internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and to support sustainable development by helping to bridge economic, social and environmental gaps between countries in the region and the industrialized economies.

17.4 To achieve those objectives, ECLAC will continue responding to the needs of the countries in the region, serve as a regional forum and facilitator in building regional consensuses and supporting public-policy formulation to meet the challenges facing the region; and conducting and promoting multilateral dialogue, sharing knowledge and networking at the global, regional and subregional levels. The Commission will promote intraregional and interregional cooperation between the regional commissions and collaborate with other regional organizations and United Nations institutions.

17.5 A new subprogramme on financing for development is being proposed in response to the increasing demand from member States for analysis and operational services in this field, particularly in the aftermath of the 2008-2009 financial and economic crises, which underscored the critical importance and specificities of this issue for the development agenda of the region. A growing number of countries in Latin America and the Caribbean are considered to be middle-income economies. As a result, the region’s relative share of official development assistance (ODA) is decreasing and most countries are facing difficulties in obtaining full access to, and participating in the international financial markets. Therefore, a number of regional forums, including the Rio Group, have expressed the need for ECLAC to address this issue. Recently, the Committee of the Whole of ECLAC, at its twenty-fifth session, requested the secretariat to analyse this matter and recommend concrete actions. The results of that exercise are now reflected in the new subprogramme, which will be implemented within existing resources.

17.6 The Commission’s overall strategy for achieving the objectives of the programme is structured around 13 interdependent and complementary subprogrammes, implemented through an integrated and multidisciplinary approach. The strategy will require an increase in the level of activities related to analytical, normative and advocacy work, as well as in the area of technical cooperation and support to member States in all the thematic areas covered by the programme. In formulating the present biennial programme plan, the strategic framework for the biennium 2012-2013 were drawn from the internationally agreed development goals stemming from the major United Nations conferences and summits in the economic and social fields, including those set forth in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

17.7 During the period 2003-2008, the economic and social performances of Latin America and the Caribbean have been encouraging. The region has experienced steady economic growth, decreased poverty levels as well as improved significant aspects of their macroeconomic management, benefitting from fiscal surpluses and a lower debt level, and thus reduced their external vulnerability. The collapse of the financial sector in industrialized countries, in late 2008, rapidly spread throughout the entire world, generating the global economic crisis and seriously impacting Latin America and the Caribbean. As a result, the region experienced a negative growth in 2009, with Mexico and Central America suffering the worst costs. The impacts were also felt in social indicators as an additional 9 million people fell into poverty in 2009 while employment conditions worsened and the informal sector grew, affecting the most vulnerable groups such as the poor, women and the young. While various signs of recovery in the region fuel the hope that economic growth would resume in 2010, persistent vulnerable conditions in the world economy still cast a sense of caution for the future.

17.8 The crisis has shed light on the structural deficits hampering the development path of Latin American and Caribbean countries and has raised questions about their ability to address the issues and the realities of the long-term sustainable development agenda. The region’s development patterns in the post-crisis international environment are expected to undergo significant adjustments to adapt to the “new normality” emerging in the aftermath of the crisis, characterized by slower growth globally, weaker global trade flows with additional barriers to trade, more restrictive and limited access to international financial markets and to financing for development, new labour market dynamics likely to be marked by a “jobless recovery”, and the need to enhance the capacities of Governments in mitigating the effects of economic downturns. In terms of competitiveness, the gaps to be bridged in innovation and productivity still represent a key obstacle to the success of economic growth-with-equality strategies. Other structural problems such as poverty and its intergenerational transmission, income inequality, regressive tax systems, the effects of rapid demographic change, citizen security and safety place additional demands on social public expenditure, social reforms and the development agenda shared among society actors. Finally, global challenges such as climate change and the need to develop low-carbon economies urgently require the implementation of new strategies to foster adaptation, mitigation and risk reduction as well as to enhance energy efficiency and jump-start the broad use of renewable energies. In the post-crisis context, the role of institutions and markets regulations need to be revised and the role of the State be redefined to generate the conditions for a sustainable and inclusive development that would bring the region to a new path of sustainable development with equality. Considering the complexity of the reform processes in the region and the highly evolving demands from beneficiary countries, ECLAC will continue to provide, in a timely manner, relevant analysis and policy recommendations regarding development issues. Moreover, ECLAC will work in collaboration and coordination with the Governments in the region and other counterpart institutions to ensure the link between national experiences and the national perspective, allow comparability of data and exchange of good practices, and provide effective technical cooperation services.

17.9 To meet the above-described challenges, ECLAC will focus the programme of work in the biennium 2012-2013 on the following priorities:

(a) Improving macroeconomic stability and further enhancing policies that reduce vulnerability and mitigate the effects of economic and financial crises;

(b) Strengthening the region’s access to financing for development and enhancing the financial architecture at the global, regional and domestic levels;

(c) Increasing the region’s productive potential and reducing productivity gaps to achieve convergence with particular emphasis on innovation and new technologies;

(d) Improving the region’s position in the international economy through trade, regional integration and cooperation;

(e) Promoting a social covenant by improving social equality, reducing social risks and reinforcing gender mainstreaming in public policies;

(f) Enhancing sustainable development policies, energy efficiency and addressing the impacts of climate change;

(g) Strengthening public management to enhance the role of the State in the twenty-first century;

(h) Improving institution-building related to the management of global and transboundary issues and the provision of public goods at the regional level.

17.10 To that end, the Commission will emphasize analytical, normative, advocacy and capacity-building work to strengthen the design of sustainable development strategies and public policies and to facilitate the continuous monitoring of their practical implementation. Operational services in the areas of specialized information, technical cooperation and training will foster cooperation, networking and sharing of good practices at the subregional, regional and international levels, including South-South cooperation. ECLAC will continue to work on the integrated and comprehensive follow-up to the world summits from a regional perspective, in particular the region’s progress towards the accomplishment of the Millennium Development Goals. For that purpose, the Commission will continue to carry out regional coordination complementing the role of the resident coordinator in terms of operational work at the country level. Furthermore, ECLAC will reinforce its leading role as the convener of the Regional Coordination Mechanism of all the specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system in the region and its active participation in the United Nations Development Group. Close collaboration will also be enhanced with the International Monetary Fund (IMF), World Bank as well as with other inter-American, Ibero-American and Bretton Woods institutions such as the Organization of American States (OAS), the Ibero-American Secretariat, and the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB). Cooperation will be pursued with relevant integration schemes and institutions at the regional and subregional levels. ECLAC will also strengthen its collaboration with private sector associations, non governmental organizations, think tanks and the academic sector to promote policy dialogue and to engage them in the implementation of the sustainable development agenda.

17.11 The Commission will also continue to engage with the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs as a key global mechanism for ensuring coherence on common thematic areas among entities of the United Nations Secretariat working in the social and economic sectors.

Strategy

17.32 The Social Development Division will be responsible for the implementation of the subprogramme. It will work in collaboration with other ECLAC divisions, subregional headquarters and national offices. The strategy will take into account the internationally agreed development goals stemming from the major United Nations conferences in the economic and social fields, including those set forth in the Millennium Declaration. In particular, technical cooperation services will be provided to the countries of the region to follow up on the plans of action adopted by the United Nations international conferences and summits in the social sphere.

17.33 The strategy will consist of developing applied research, generating analyses, disseminating the results and formulating policy recommendations to strengthen the capacity of stakeholders to make sound diagnoses of social issues for application in policies and programmes. Another important element of the strategy will be to strengthen the existing networks to generate, update and disseminate relevant information and facilitate the exchange of experiences and good practices among policymakers, scholars and other stakeholders. 17.35 The subprogramme will also serve as a forum and as a catalyst for policy dialogue in relation to the regional agenda for poverty and reduction of inequalities, and continue to follow up on the outcomes of the major regional and international conferences and summits, including those convened by the United Nations as well as those of the Rio Group, the Ibero-American Summit, and the European Union-Latin America and the Caribbean political dialogue, whose agendas focus on social issues. The subprogramme will continue to consult and work in collaboration with the specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system and with other stakeholders at the regional and international levels concerned with social issues.

17.36 Finally, the subprogramme’s work and achievements will be broadly shared with its beneficiaries through the continuous updating and development of the Commission’s website and databases, wide dissemination of its main publications and findings in international events and key forums involving relevant policymakers, academia and other stakeholders both within and outside the region.

(ii) Increased number of programmes or public policies adopted by the countries of the region in response to the agreements of the eleventh session of the Regional Conference on Women in Latin America and the Caribbean

Strategy

17.37 The Division for Gender Affairs will be responsible for the implementation of the subprogramme. In the light of the interdisciplinary nature of mainstreaming the gender perspective in regional development, the subprogramme will work in collaboration with all other ECLAC divisions, subregional headquarters and national offices, taking into account the perspective of the national mechanisms for the advancement of women. The objectives will be pursued within the framework of the internationally agreed instruments and mandates.

17.38 The subprogramme will support the activities of member States of the Regional Conference on Women in Latin America and the Caribbean and of the presiding officers of the Conference in their efforts to generate new knowledge on gender indicators and statistics, and contribute to strengthening the national capacity of countries to develop and collect gender statistics to inform decision-making in poverty alleviation and development strategies. It will also support Governments in building knowledge-based gender policies by implementing activities that favour both greater ownership of the gender agenda and due consideration to gender equality criteria in policymaking by all stakeholders. Such activities will include applied research, capacity-building, especially in the field of statistics, policy formulation and implementation, and the implementation of a collaborative strategy for mainstreaming the gender perspective in policies at the national level.

17.39 The focus of the subprogramme will be to develop new knowledge and networks that shed light on the nature of the problems of gender policies in the region; to incorporate that knowledge into the capacity-building strategy of countries and, above all, into the gender mainstreaming strategy of national mechanisms for the advancement of women. Knowledge, research findings and indicators will be used to formulate public policies on gender parity, the care economy and the eradication of poverty and violence against women.

17.40 The subprogramme will place emphasis on the following areas of work: (a) capacity-building of national mechanisms for the advancement of women; (b) training other stakeholders, such as professional staff from sectoral ministries to develop planning tools for gender mainstreaming; (c) supporting country efforts to implement time-use surveys to enhance policymaking regarding the care economy; (d) supporting country efforts to implement the Secretary-General’s campaign “Unite to End Violence against Women”; (e) the incorporation of ICTs to enhance the economic empowerment of women; and (f) the production of gender indicators in consultation with member States. The subprogramme will also strengthen the use of gender indicators contained in the observatory of gender parity as a means of empowering women’s participation in the decision-making process in countries of the region.

Programme 18
Economic and social development in Western Asia

Overall orientation

18.1 The overall orientation of the programme is to foster comprehensive, equitable, integrated and sustainable development and economic and social cooperation in the region, and to maintain and strengthen economic relations between the member countries of the Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia (ESCWA) and with other countries of the world. ESCWA is responsible for the implementation of the programme.

18.2 Policy direction for the programme is provided in Economic and Social Council resolutions 1818 (LV) and 1985/69, establishing ESCWA and amending its terms of reference in order to underscore the social functions of the Commission. Further direction is provided in Economic and Social Council resolution 2005/50, in which ESCWA was requested to provide support to member countries in realizing the Millennium Development Goals, including by building capacities to formulate policies, monitor the progress made and measure its impact and prepare regional reports. In addition, in its resolution 269 (XXIV), the Commission requested its Executive Secretary to increase coherence and synergy with other regional United Nations organizations and, through the Commission’s lead role in the Regional Coordination Group, foster partnerships and cooperation with those organizations.

18.3 Together with the other regional commissions, ESCWA will continue to pursue work aimed at promoting regional and subregional economic integration, as well as implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and support for sustainable development. As the regional arms of the United Nations, the regional commissions will use their convening power to continue to advance multilateral dialogue, support regional networks and the sharing of knowledge, and will strive to further intra- and interregional cooperation among themselves, as well as with other regional and subregional entities. The Commission will continue to engage with the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs as a key global body for ensuring coherence on common thematic areas among entities of the United Nations Secretariat working in the social and economic sectors.

18.4 In the biennium 2012-2013, ESCWA will pursue its programme objectives by promoting economic and social integration at both the subregional and regional levels, and fostering solidarity in the international political arena and global economy. Regional integration will be scaled up to cover the Arab region through continued strategic partnership with the Economic Commission for Africa Subregional Office for North Africa, and with regional and subregional organizations such as the League of Arab States (LAS) and the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). The programme comprises seven interdependent subprogrammes that focus on four regional priority areas and three cross-cutting issues, namely:

(a) Stimulating sustainable management of natural resources, with emphasis on water, energy and the productive sectors, while incorporating climate change responses to sectoral strategies and plans;

(b) Promoting integrated social policies;
(c) Stimulating sustainable economic development based on higher productivity and competitiveness and through regional integration and cooperation in a globalizing world;

(d) Accelerating the development, adaptation, diffusion and use of advanced technology, in particular information and communications technology;

(e) Enhancing statistical capacity development;

(f) Promoting gender mainstreaming, the advancement of women and their effective participation and involvement;

(g) Promoting peacebuilding and mitigating the impact of conflict, its root causes and spillover effects on sustainable development.

18.5 The current global financial crisis has had a negative impact on economic performance in the region, resulting in plunging financial markets and real estate asset prices, the collapse of commodity prices and a decline in export earnings. The resulting contraction in economic activity has led to mounting unemployment. Consequently, the need for proactive employment policies to absorb the growing labour force in the region, particularly aimed at young people and women, is more pressing than ever.

18.6 The development and implementation of integrated social policies are yet to be given the same level of consideration as economic policies, despite development experience showing that economic growth, on its own, does not lead to equitable and inclusive development, social justice and social stability. In this regard, particular attention should be paid to both the equitable provision of public services and the integration of key social groups — including women and youth — into the process of development. In addition, greater emphasis should be given to enhancing good governance to ensure that effective processes and mechanisms are established to facilitate transparent and participatory policy formulation and implementation.

18.7 The region is characterized by large gas and oil reserves and production, food dependency and scarce water resources. The water shortage challenge is amplified by factors such as rapid population growth and the overexploitation of available water resources, and will be further exacerbated by climate change, which is expected to increase the proportion of areas affected by droughts, producing significant negative effects on agricultural productivity and other productive sectors which may undermine national and regional development agendas. As such, ESCWA will continue to support member countries in building capacities to sustainably manage water and energy resources, in line with the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development (Johannesburg Plan of Implementation), by promoting integrated water resources management practices to facilitate progress in the implementation of the targets on water and sanitation of Goal 7 of the Millennium Development Goals. Advocating for improved energy access in poor areas, and the efficient use of energy sources (cleaner fuels, renewable energy resources, etc.) will remain a key priority. ESCWA will also provide technical advice to incorporate climate change adaptation and mitigation responses into sectoral strategies and plans, by preparing regional assessments of the impact of climate change on water resources, advancing the role of the energy sector in reducing greenhouse gas emissions, and supporting member countries to utilize available international resources for supporting relevant projects. Furthermore, ESCWA will continue to strengthen capacity in member countries to improve sustainable rural livelihoods, and increase the productivity and competitiveness of small and medium-scale enterprises.

18.8 ESCWA will pursue an integrated approach to development with a view to balancing economic growth and social equity in the region while paying special consideration to the least developed and conflict-stricken countries. To this end, efforts will be made towards supporting the design and implementation of national policies to promote an equitable and inclusive process of development, enhancing regional capacity to collectively address crucial existing and emerging challenges, through the promotion of regional integration initiatives, advances in intraregional trade and investment, the development of an integrated transport and communications infrastructure, and the facilitation of trade and transport.

18.9 The marginalization of women and their limited access to information and resources hinder the development process in Arab countries. ESCWA will support efforts to enhance gender equality and the advancement of women through: (a) sharing of documentation and exchange of best practices within the region; (b) capacity-building of national machineries for women to better uphold their role and responsibilities; (c) providing technical expertise in gender mainstreaming; and (d) implementing and monitoring international conventions and conferences.

18.10 ESCWA will strive to promote the development of knowledge-based economies in the region through analysis and normative activities, to build local capacity in information and communications technology and to narrow the digital divide. This will be coupled with the formulation of coordinated strategies and action plans for the development of the information and communications technology sector within the framework of the World Summit on the Information Society.

18.11 Developing statistical capacity continues to be essential in order to enhance the ability of countries in the region to generate timely, reliable, comparable and gender-disaggregated statistics for informed policymaking and programme development, and for tracking progress realized in achieving internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals.

18.12 Security and stability are the minimum conditions for sustainable human development and the full realization of human potential. However, continued instability, conflict and occupation and their spillover effects are a driving force of the development deficit in ESCWA member countries. In partnership with its member countries, other United Nations system offices and other multilateral and regional institutions, ESCWA activities will aim to minimize the ramifications of long-running instability by assisting member countries in formulating conflict prevention, reconciliation and revitalization policies within development programmes that are resilient to continuous crisis. ESCWA will also assist member countries to formulate and implement policies and programmes that address the economic and social spillover effects generated by conflict and/or occupation as well as the impact of emerging global challenges on the most vulnerable ESCWA member countries, in particular the least developed countries. ESCWA will build on its comparative advantage and established in-house expertise in identifying and mainstreaming good governance models catering to the specificities of ESCWA member countries, and modernizing State structures related to peacebuilding efforts with the goal of achieving stability and sustainable development in the region.
18.13 ESCWA will continue to carry out analytical and normative work, supplemented by the provision of technical cooperation support in line with the articulated needs of ESCWA member countries. It will act as a facilitator for the exchange of knowledge and information by providing a forum for networking and multilateral dialogue on regional and global development issues, while paying due consideration to the advancement of South-South cooperation. Special attention will be given to the promotion of gender mainstreaming through the programme of work of the organization and within the Commission, in pursuance of the global priorities of the United Nations. Similarly, lessons derived from evaluation exercises will be consolidated to improve the design and performance of programmes, in view of the United Nations commitment to encourage and support evaluation practices to enhance learning and accountability.

18.14 The regional support provided by ESCWA should contribute towards:

(a) Increased national capacity to devise and apply comprehensive, equitable economic and social policies and programmes, and to deal with transboundary issues;

(b) Improved coordination of the efforts and resources of United Nations bodies with a view to providing joint responses in tackling multifaceted problems that the countries of the region face;

(c) Enhancing the work of the Economic and Social Council and its functional commissions in reviewing and appraising the progress made in the implementation of the outcomes of the United Nations conferences and summits;

(d) Increased knowledge-sharing and South-South cooperation between the countries of the region and with countries in other regions, thereby furthering the promotion of intra- and interregional collaboration;

(e) Enhancing the development capacity and utilization of the knowledge capital in the region.

18.15 It is anticipated that the consultations which have taken place among the thematic clusters of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs will contribute to enhanced coordination and increased collaboration in major common work areas of the United Nations Secretariat dealing with economic and social development. Moreover, through its leadership of the regional coordination mechanism, ESCWA strives to facilitate consultation processes among the United Nations entities concerned, leading to the identification of priority areas where collective support for development interventions could be provided, whether at the level of the ESCWA region or in the broader context of the Arab region.

(f) Facilitate regional coordination and preparation for the implementation of regional and global commitments on sustainable development, in particular on the thematic areas to be addressed by the Commission on Sustainable Development.

18.18 In support of achieving the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogramme will also promote sustainable rural livelihood approaches and increase the productivity and competitiveness of small and medium-scale enterprises.

18.19 This will be achieved by undertaking quality research and analytical work; disseminating best practices; building capacity and rendering advisory services on priority sustainable development issues; promoting intra- and interregional cooperation on sustainable development and issues relating to climate change, through partnerships with other regional commissions, international mechanisms for financing actions relating to climate change, and regional organizations, in particular LAS, GCC, the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) Regional Office for West Asia, the secretariat of the Convention on Biological Diversity, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the International Labour Organization and the United Nations Industrial Development Organization; and strengthening ESCWA regional mechanisms for coordination on energy and water as regional forums for advancing sustainable development issues.

Strategy

18.20 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Social Development Division. The subprogramme will build on the experience gained in previous bienniums and will continue to advocate equity, social justice, inclusion and participation as the guiding social development principles.

18.21 During the biennium 2012-2013, particular attention will be paid to promoting: (a) an integrated approach to social policy; (b) social integration at the national and local levels; (c) youth development; and (d) participatory development.

18.22 Social development requires the creation of an enabling environment for people to develop their full potential, expand their development choices and lead productive lives according to their needs and interests. Fundamental to enlarging these choices is building human capabilities: the range of things that people can do or be in life. The most basic capabilities for human development are to lead long and healthy lives, be knowledgeable, have access to opportunities and resources needed for a decent standard of living and be able to participate in the life of the community. Without these, many choices are simply not available, and many opportunities in life remain inaccessible.

18.23 Countries that have achieved higher social development dividends and equitable social well-being for all ultimately achieved those targets by creating synergy between economic and social objectives in a way that social development goals became an integral part of national development strategies. The integrated social policy framework rests on three pillars: a clear policy vision; a shared consensus; and coordinated implementation. The policy vision entails both a conviction in the need for social equity and the political will to implement integrated social policy. A shared consensus requires institutional space and mechanisms to promote the dialogue and checks and balances that are vital to ensuring citizens’ participation in equitable development. The coordinated provision of social services involves a comprehensive approach to how people are involved with, receive and benefit from social services. In this regard, civil society organizations can play a critical role in terms of monitoring the impact of public and social policies on different social groups, including vulnerable groups.

18.24 Having documented and disseminated knowledge about social development approaches, tools and institutional mechanisms, the subprogramme will seek to build the capacity of member countries to mainstream social equity concerns in their public policymaking, including identifying mechanisms to finance social development. Particular efforts will be made to support member countries in formulating, implementing and monitoring social policies and strategies designed to ensure a more equitable process of human development. The subprogramme will also continue to assist member countries in the implementation of internationally agreed plans of action and recommendations, including the Millennium Development Goals.

18.25 In order to achieve the expected accomplishments, the subprogramme will undertake both normative and technical cooperation activities. The normative activities will include research and analysis on social and demographic issues, the preparation of substantive reports and the organization of expert group meetings. Technical cooperation activities will include the provision of advisory services, capacity development workshops and field projects. Partnerships will be further strengthened with other regional commissions, United Nations entities, international and regional organizations and civil society groups. In the process, the subprogramme will also act as a regional platform for the exchange of experiences, good practices and lessons learned in the field of social development, and for increased interaction between Western Asia and other regions of the world.

Strategy

18.26 The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Economic Development and Globalization Division. The Millennium Development Goals, the revised Damascus Declaration on responding to the International Financial Crisis in the ESCWA Region, the Monterrey Consensus, the Doha Declaration on Financing for Development, the Doha Development Agenda, the Integrated Transport System in the Arab Mashreq, and the relevant General Assembly and ESCWA resolutions provide the legislative authority for the subprogramme.
18.27 To enhance the capacity of member countries in accelerating the attainment of the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogramme will continue to lead the coordination and production of a joint regional LAS-United Nations report on the Millennium Development Goals in the Arab region. The report will be policy-oriented and will suggest practical policy recommendations for member countries that should assist them in accelerating the attainment of the Goals by 2015.

18.28 To achieve its expected accomplishment in the financing for development area, the subprogramme will assist member countries to analyse and evaluate world and regional financial development and propose regional strategies and coordinated regional responses. Emphasis will be placed on the development of strategic partnerships with financial institutions and development funds to accelerate the implementation of the Monterrey Consensus and the Doha Declaration. The subprogramme will also undertake normative and analytical studies to assist policymakers in member countries to deal with issues related to financial markets development, foreign direct investment, workers’ remittances, debt management, official development assistance, regional integration and globalization.

18.29 The subprogramme will focus on enhancing regional integration through building the capacities of member countries in accelerating the implementation of the United Nations international transport agreements concluded within ESCWA over the past 35 years for road, railway and maritime transport. Work will continue on the implementation of the Integrated Transport System in the Arab Mashreq including transport and trade facilitation for enhancing regional integration and South-South cooperation. Special attention will be given to the implementation of the Single Window Initiative and the continued establishment and activation of the national transport and trade facilitation committees and related regional coordination. The subprogramme will also serve as a regional platform to raise awareness about road traffic safety issues.

18.30 The subprogramme will continue to work to enhance international trade policy formulation for servicing productive capacity-building and utilization of domestic and regional markets, and intra- and interregional trade in line with regional economic agreements such as the Greater Arab Free Trade Area. It will continue to enhance the capacities of member countries in the subregional, regional and multilateral trade agreements designed to increase their international and intraregional trade and their integration into the multilateral trading system.

18.31 In the area of economic analysis, the subprogramme adopts a two-track strategy. The first track consists of:

(a) A continuous assessment of the region’s macroeconomic performances for timely identification and analysis of socially inclusive macroeconomic policy issues;

(b) Economic research with modelling and forecasting techniques and normative approaches, including human rights-based approaches to development that are relevant to the regional context;

(c) Putting analytical emphasis on regional priorities such as poverty alleviation, socially inclusive macroeconomic policies consistent with long-term development goals, and employment creation, in particular among young people.
18.32 The second track will be implemented in parallel with the first, by utilizing analytical and normative outputs of the former in order to enhance technical awareness, capacity and networking on development and socially inclusive macroeconomic issues and policies in the region.

18.33 The analytical outputs of the subprogramme will be utilized in order to enhance technical awareness, capacity and networking on policies and strategies pertaining to achieving the objectives of the subprogramme. This will be carried out through organizing effective intergovernmental group meetings, expert group meetings, seminars, workshops, technical advisory services and the preparation of studies and reports. An increased interaction with global and regional stakeholders, and governmental and non-governmental bodies, will be sought to promote regional cooperation in the above-mentioned areas.

Information and communications technology for regional integration

(ii) Increased number of member countries adopting national science, technology and innovation policies and strategies

Strategy

18.34 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Information and Communications Technology Division. Global changes are taking place at the economic, social and cultural levels, with information and knowledge playing a major role in the move towards the information society. The accelerating development in knowledge during the past few decades has modified the principles of economic growth with the move towards a knowledge-based economy affecting all sectors of the economy. Significant differences exist in the capacity of countries to adapt to changes in technology and knowledge. Consequently, the move towards the information society constitutes a real challenge to developing countries, particularly in view of the expanding digital divide with developed countries, thus rendering them increasingly vulnerable to reductions in productivity and economic capacity. This leads, in turn, to unemployment, poverty, corruption and marginalization. Greater efforts must be exerted in order to increase literacy and education levels and tap human resources and talent, especially among women and the growing youth population. With continued monitoring of activities pertaining to the World Summit on the Information Society Geneva Plan of Action and Tunis Agenda for the Information Society, and the efforts made to implement the ESCWA Regional Plan of Action for Building the Information Society in harmonization with the Arab Information and Communications Technology Strategy of the League of Arab States, the subprogramme will strive to adapt the Summit outcomes to better serve the region and fine-tune plans of action in order to build an inclusive, people-centred information society that is based on productive national information and communications technology sectors.
18.35 The subprogramme, in its effort to meet the needs of ESCWA member countries, will carry out analytical studies, convene meetings and provide advisory services to support that endeavour, act as a catalyst for changes in policymaking in member countries and promote the adoption of a more comprehensive set of information and communications technology measurements and indicators that will help strategic decision-making to identify priority areas of policy action and measure the impact of information and communications technology on socio-economic development. It will assess and revise plans of action based on feedback from ESCWA member countries, monitor progress, evaluate impacts and benchmark national development with other countries based on international indices, with a view to improving the productivity and competitiveness of the information and communications technology sector in the region towards building a knowledge-based economy.

18.36 In order to enhance national capacity, with a special focus on human resources development, and take advantage of the digital opportunities pertaining to socio-economic development in the region, pilot field projects will be implemented in selected ESCWA member countries. Field projects will incorporate a social dimension through the active involvement of local communities, with a focus on employment of young people and the empowerment of women, in order to build a people-centred information society.

18.37 The subprogramme will continue to place special emphasis on promoting an enabling environment and harnessing the development of thematic applications of information and communications technology, including e-services and digital content in Arabic, with the aim of building on information and communications technology as an agent of change to empower citizens and improve the quality of life.

18.38 Building on the accomplishments of the previous biennium in activating partnerships for implementing information and communications technology projects, the subprogramme will enhance regional collaboration and partnerships in activities that will contribute to efforts aimed at harnessing research and development in science and technology, particularly information and communications technology, for socio-economic development. To that end, it will promote the establishment of mechanisms aimed at exchanging information and sharing knowledge among regional players and with counterparts outside the region. The subprogramme will also seek close cooperation and coordination with other ESCWA subprogrammes and with international and regional organizations including regional commissions to promote knowledge-based economies, sustainable development, measurement of the impact of information and communications technology and the empowerment of women and young people in the information society in order to achieve more effective results.
Statistics for evidence-based policymaking

Objective of the Organization: To improve the production, harmonization and dissemination of quality demographic, social, economic and environmental indicators, including indicators on societal development and progress towards development goals, gender-disaggregated data and gender-sensitive indicators, in order to facilitate evidence-based policymaking by national and international decision makers and civil society.

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat

(a) Progress in improving the national institutional framework for official statistics, particularly in conflict-stricken countries and those that are less statistically developed

Expected indicators of achievement

(a) (i) Increased number of ESCWA member countries expressing their commitment to the Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics

(ii) Increased number of measures taken by ESCWA member countries to improve their national institutional framework for official statistics, with ESCWA assistance

(b) Enhanced capacity of national statistical offices to produce and disseminate relevant, timely, reliable and comparable social, economic and environmental statistics and indicators, including gender-disaggregated data, in compliance with global international standards and recommendations, particularly in conflict-stricken countries and those that are less statistically developed

(b) Increased number of ESCWA member countries adopting new or revised international statistical standards (the System of National Accounts (SNA) and foundational socio-economic classifications), with particular emphasis on conflict-stricken countries and those that are less statistically developed, with ESCWA assistance

(c) Increased Government capacity to produce high-quality data on key sociodemographic, economic and environmental indicators, including indicators on development (societal development and progress towards the Millennium Development Goals), gender-disaggregated data and gender-sensitive indicators, as well as to enhance the capacity of decision makers and civil society to use this data

(c) (i) Increased number of member countries that provide at least 60 per cent of core indicators for the ESCWA statistical database

(ii) Increased number of database queries to online ESCWA statistical databases

Strategy

18.39 The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Statistics Division. There is a continued need to align the production and dissemination of statistics in the region with the emerging needs of society and policymakers, improving the relevance and comparability of statistics at the regional level in social, economic and cross-cutting issues. Addressing those challenges will strengthen the role of statistics in evidence-based policymaking and in monitoring and evaluating the impact of development policies.
18.40 During the biennium 2012-2013, the subprogramme will make efforts to: (a) act as a centre of excellence and a forum for exchange of views in statistical issues for ESCWA member countries; (b) concentrate on training at the national, subregional and regional levels; (c) work, in close and/or direct cooperation and coordination with professional staff in national statistical offices of member countries, on data quality assurance and the implementation of international classifications and recommendations; (d) respond to requests for technical assistance coming from member countries; (e) assist in the exchange of expertise among member countries; and (f) build trust with counterparts in ESCWA member countries.

18.41 Special attention will be paid to indicators on development for monitoring progress towards the Millennium Development Goals as well as other indicators on quality of life, well-being and societal progress, guided by the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome regarding the monitoring of the internationally agreed development goals. The subprogramme will increase its collaboration with other ESCWA subprogrammes with the aim of improving the quality of the secretariat’s analytical outputs and products. The subprogramme will also collaborate with other regions, whenever this may bring benefits to ESCWA member countries. The subprogramme will also aim at enlarging the geographic scope of statistical cooperation to Arab countries in general, in collaboration with the Economic Commission for Africa, the League of Arab States and its subsidiaries, as well as with other partners.

18.42 The subprogramme will advocate the importance of full adherence to the Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics, especially those which address the following issues: (a) the importance of the impartiality of official statistics and their availability to the public; (b) the use of appropriate methods and procedures for the collection, processing, storage and presentation of statistical data; and (c) the presentation of information on sources and methods according to internationally agreed standards.

18.43 The subprogramme will continue to upgrade the knowledge and skills of the national statistical offices in order to increase the availability, frequency and timeliness of core socio-economic statistics, and adopt new and revised economic and social international classifications and standards. The capacity-building activities of the subprogramme will focus on: (a) economic statistics (short-term statistics, the System of National Accounts 2008, producer and consumer price indices, statistics on external trade in goods and services, energy and industry statistics); (b) social and demographic statistics (population and vital statistics including information on migration, household budget surveys, poverty, employment/labour, health, culture and education); and (c) cross-cutting statistical areas (gender statistics, the environment and sustainable development and issues related to societal development). The strategy is guided by Economic and Social Council resolution 2006/6 and ESCWA resolutions 247 (XXII), 276 (XXIV) and 287 (XXV) on strengthening statistical capacities in the ESCWA region, and resolution 286 (XXV) on gender statistics.

18.44 The subprogramme will also aim at improving harmonization of official statistics in priority subject matter areas. To this end the subprogramme will aim at producing brief implementation guidelines and supplements to global standards, comprising regionally agreed harmonized definitions, concepts and methods. The
The subprogramme will also work towards the improved coordination of official statistics in the region by promoting data sharing and joint questionnaires among international and regional statistical organizations. This is supported by ESCWA resolution 283 (XXV) on compliance with international standards for enhancing national statistical systems.

18.45 The ultimate goal of the subprogramme is to improve the quality of statistics made available to policymakers, researchers and the public at large, while reducing the statistical burden on respondents, particularly national statistical offices in the ESCWA region. To this end, the subprogramme will promote the development and harmonization of statistical databases, following the international recommendations concerning statistical data and metadata dissemination and exchange, incorporating free and broad access for the public. With a focus towards electronic dissemination, the subprogramme will nevertheless continue the production of printed statistical publications, as deemed necessary. The feasibility of various statistical products will be periodically evaluated.

18.46 To enhance coherence across the United Nations system and coordination among international agencies, the subprogramme will work in close cooperation with the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and other relevant United Nations entities, development banks and funds, regional and subregional organizations, and other statistical partners and networks.

Subprogramme 6

(b) Strengthened capacity of member countries to mainstream gender in national policies, plans, statistics and programmes

(b) (i) Increased number of initiatives undertaken by Governments, with support from ESCWA, to mainstream gender in selected pilot ministries and their respective policy papers, structure, programmes and disseminated information

(ii) Increased number of gender-disaggregated data sets, including gender analysis publications, developed by member countries with support from ESCWA

Strategy

18.47 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the ESCWA Centre for Women. The subprogramme will build on the experience gained in previous bienniums and continue to advocate for the advancement of women.

18.48 As the recent reports from member countries for the midterm review of the Beijing Platform for Action (Beijing+15) have shown, many improvements were seen in the past 5 years in relation to the status of women in the fields of socio-economic and political development. This is especially true in the areas of education, access to health and legal reform. Nonetheless, representation of women in the economic sphere and in decision-making positions remains one of the lowest in the world. The problem is exacerbated given the limited amount of reliable gender-disaggregated data and information available. At the same time, the need to develop region-specific gender indicators has also arisen among the member countries to ensure the availability of a comprehensive and effective measurement of the region’s development in the field of gender equity.

18.49 Most member countries in the ESCWA region have ratified the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and have been periodically reporting on the progress made on implementation in the fields of legislation and actual access to rights. Furthermore, some countries are actively lifting some of the reservations that were made to the Convention. Nevertheless, there is a need to widely disseminate the Convention among States where it has already been ratified and promote it among other member countries who are still considering ratification. As has been shown by reports made to the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women as well as the concluding comments and recommendations made by the Committee, efforts are still needed to ensure that member countries are fulfilling their international obligations and commitments and producing quality periodical reports.

18.50 Similarly, most countries have engaged over the past years in gender mainstreaming activities at the national level and in line ministries. In fact, many of the member countries have developed initiatives for national mainstreaming strategies. Nevertheless, work in this area remains limited to familiar terrain and has not been generalized to all fields and contexts and hence has a weak impact on existing structures.
18.51 Although in most of the member countries a national body for women has been established with a strong mandate, the limited financial resources and lack of staff with adequate training have hindered the active engagement of national machineries for women at the policy or programmatic levels. Furthermore, the limited exchange of experience among existing machineries has resulted in the repetition of past efforts without analysing the lessons learned from them.

18.52 Finally, the inability to engage civil society to take an active role in the policy dialogue has been one of the key hindering factors affecting the positive involvement of all stakeholders in promoting the equal status and equity agenda.

18.53 The expected accomplishments will be achieved by servicing and providing assistance to member countries through: (a) needs assessments; (b) documentation and dissemination of knowledge; (c) the provision of advocacy tools and research methodology; (d) the sharing of knowledge and experience; (e) ensuring that socio-economic development issues related to the advancement and empowerment of women are adequately addressed in the intergovernmental debate; (f) assisting member countries in the development and implementation of national policies and international conventions; and (g) providing training and capacity-building activities on gender issues.

(b) Enhanced capacity of member countries to apply good governance models and best practices that strengthen public institutions to pre-empt conflict, achieve reconciliation, peace and attain development goals

(b) Increased number of modern tools and best practices introduced by national stakeholders, in partnership with ESCWA, to strengthen and modernize institutions in conflict affected countries, with the prospect of enhancing service delivery and mitigating the impact of conflict and its spillover effects

Strategy

18.54 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Section for Emerging and Conflict-related Issues. The strategy is a response to the relentless struggle in the ESCWA region with the ramifications of continuous instability and resulting development deficits. It departs from the premise that conflict prevention, peacebuilding and development are inseparable and mutually reinforcing, and must be led by a strong public sector in which good governance practices are applied. Significantly, conflict mitigation measures targeting crisis-afflicted countries will inevitably reduce conflict across the region, and its repercussions.

18.55 As such, this strategy derives from the following: (a) the 2005 World Summit Outcome which stresses the interlinkages of security, development and human rights; (b) the report of the Secretary-General on peacebuilding in the immediate aftermath of conflict (A/63/881-S/2009/304), which highlights capacity development and national ownership as a central element of peacebuilding and conflict prevention, and calls for the support of regional organizations to enhance crisis management capacities; (c) the timely attainment of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals; (d) the United Nations Millennium Declaration, which states that development and poverty eradication depend on good governance within each country; and (e) the resolutions of Ministerial Sessions in which ESCWA member countries have called upon the Secretariat to mitigate the impact of conflict, occupation and instability on development, to strengthen the role of ESCWA in addressing the impact of conflict and instability within the context of social and economic development, and to enhance regional cooperation under unstable conditions.

18.56 The first pillar of the subprogramme will focus on building the capacity for development of ESCWA member countries, in particular, countries affected by conflict, to implement peacebuilding policies, strategies and mechanisms that are geared towards the structural prevention of conflict or potential sources of conflict, mitigating its impact on development and addressing its regional spillover effects, as well as the ramifications of emerging global issues. The second pillar of the strategy is to strengthen the capacity of member countries to apply good governance models and best practices that enhance the capacity of public institutions to improve service delivery, to pre-empt conflict and to achieve reconciliation and peace and attain development goals.

18.57 The subprogramme will achieve these objectives by focusing its activities on three areas:
(a) Promoting revitalization/recovery policies and strategies, inclusive dialogue, reintegration and reconciliation as part of peacebuilding and conflict-mitigation policies and mechanisms;

(b) Developing the conflict management capacity of State institutions and strengthening the abilities of countries affected by conflict to provide basic services by restoring and strengthening core Government functions through public sector modernization;

(c) Addressing the ramifications of spillover effects generated by conflict and the impact of emerging global challenges on the most vulnerable ESCWA member countries, in particular the least developed countries.

18.58 In order to achieve the above, the subprogramme will examine suitable recovery and peacebuilding strategies and policies to attain sustainable development, as well as human and institutional development, particularly in conflict and post-conflict countries. These interventions will be based on advisory missions, field-oriented situation analysis, desk research and in-depth studies on the root causes of conflict, its impact on development as well as the spillover effects generated. Throughout its normative work, the subprogramme will solicit substantive inputs, including the challenges and the strategic development priorities of member countries and civil society representatives, that are catalysts for peacebuilding. From its normative work, the subprogramme will also work towards developing policies, strategies and mechanisms that attain greater development interactions through greater regional integration. Regional integration policies will be geared towards reducing tensions and preventing conflict or mitigating its impact so as to facilitate attainment of national development goals.

18.59 The subprogramme will also focus on tailoring policies and other interventions that will mainstream good governance practices within the public sector, thereby enhancing its efficiency and service delivery capacity, consequently strengthening its ability to lead and sustain peacebuilding efforts in conflict and post-conflict countries.

18.60 Furthermore, the subprogramme will work closely with member countries, the United Nations system (United Nations country teams of countries affected by conflict in particular), the League of Arab States and other multilateral and/or regional organizations as well as civil society to develop conflict-sensitive policy recommendations that will enhance recovery and peacebuilding efforts in the region.

Programme 19

Human rights

19.1 The overarching objective of the United Nations human rights programme is to promote and protect the effective enjoyment by all of all human rights. Its mandate derives from Articles 1, 13, 55 and 62 of the Charter of the United Nations; the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, including its principles and recommendations, adopted by the World Conference on Human Rights and subsequently endorsed by the General Assembly in its resolution 48/121; Assembly resolution 48/141 establishing the post of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights; international human rights instruments adopted by the United Nations; the outcomes of relevant United Nations conferences and summits; and the resolutions and decisions of policymaking bodies, including, in particular, Assembly resolutions 55/2 on the United Nations Millennium Declaration, 57/300 on strengthening of the United Nations: an agenda for further change, 60/1 on the 2005 World Summit Outcome, 60/251 on the Human Rights Council, and 64/143 on the report of the Human Rights Council. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) will also be guided by international humanitarian law, as applicable.

19.2 The programme is guided by the principles of universality, objectivity, impartiality, indivisibility and non-selectivity in removing obstacles to the full realization of all human rights and in preventing the continuation of human rights violations, including with relevant parties. It undertakes to give practical effect to the will and resolve of the world community, as expressed through the United Nations, including in the Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome, which acknowledged peace and security, development and human rights as interlinked and mutually reinforcing pillars of the United Nations system, providing foundations for collective security and well-being. The United Nations human rights programme has a role in making development equitable, sustainable and responsive to the needs of people and in relation to conflict prevention and resolution.

19.3 The programme falls under the leadership of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, entrusted with the principal responsibility for the human rights activities of the Organization, under the direction and authority of the Secretary-General and within the framework of the overall competence, authority and decisions of the General Assembly and the Human Rights Council. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) acts as the central supportive structure for the programme.

19.4 Priority will continue to be given to emphasizing the importance of human rights on international and national agendas, combating poverty and countering discrimination on all internationally recognized grounds, including race, sex, language or religion, advancing the rights of children and women, raising awareness of human rights at all levels of education, responding to the needs of the vulnerable for protection and addressing situations of international concern, in particular gross and systematic violations of human rights, as identified by the Human Rights Council and other relevant United Nations organs.
19.5 The continued engagement of OHCHR with countries is essential to the realization of the programme in the framework of the enhanced partnerships at the national, regional and international levels. Increased support for human rights implementation will continue to be provided to requesting Member States through mutually agreed bilateral frameworks, outlining, inter alia, assistance to national systems of human rights protection, national capacity-building, technical cooperation, human rights education and learning and other relevant activities. The programme will continue to take gender issues fully into account in the development and application of norms and procedures so that violations against women and girls are clearly identified and addressed.

19.6 Strengthened and consolidated organizational support will be provided to the Human Rights Council and its subsidiary bodies and mechanisms, including the universal periodic review, special procedures, Human Rights Council Advisory Committee, and complaint procedure, as well as other relevant United Nations organs. The United Nations treaty-monitoring bodies, all serviced by OHCHR, will receive strengthened support and advice.

19.7 The programme strategy will be guided by the lessons learned from the biennium 2010-2011, in particular with regard to measurements of achievement that can be implemented realistically by OHCHR.

Subprogramme 1

Strategy

19.9 This part of the subprogramme will continue to play a leadership role in pursuing cooperation within the United Nations system for the integration of all human rights into its development, environmental, humanitarian, peace and security, governance, democracy and rule of law programmes and activities, consistent with the existing mandates in these areas, in order to contribute to the full and effective implementation of international human rights standards by States. The strategy will focus on:

(a) Integrating a human rights perspective into United Nations programmes and activities in the development, environmental, humanitarian, peace and security, governance, democracy and the rule of law areas, contributing to the promotion and protection of all human rights at all levels;

Strategy

19.10 This part of the subprogramme will pursue a multidimensional strategy to support the implementation of the right to development in accordance with the Declaration on the Right to Development, the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action and other relevant mandates. The strategy will focus on:

(a) Ensuring the realization of the right to development across the human rights programme and by the relevant bodies of the United Nations system through strengthened and effective evaluation and monitoring to this end;

(b) Enhancing substantive support to the Human Rights Council and its subsidiary mechanisms related to the right to development, including by fostering support to the Working Group on the Right to Development;

(d) Encouraging the promotion and protection of the right to development in global development partnerships, as reflected in Millennium Development Goal 8 (aid, trade and debt reduction), through advocacy, networking, technical advice and the establishment of partnerships and other kinds of cooperation;

(e) Promoting the implementation of the right to development in technical assistance to requesting countries and, taking into account a human rights-based approach, in national development strategies, such as poverty reduction strategy papers, where they exist, national Millennium Development Goals strategies and
United Nations development frameworks, through close cooperation with Member States and United Nations agencies, funds and programmes;

(f) Identifying obstacles to the implementation of the right to development at the international, regional and national levels and promoting awareness about the content and importance of the right to development, including through increased engagement, research, advocacy and informational and educational activities;

(g) Promoting cooperation at the international and regional levels in mainstreaming the right to development, including by undertaking activities aimed at effectively strengthening the global partnership for development among Member States, development agencies and international development, financial and trade institutions.

Programme 20
International protection, durable solutions and assistance to refugees

Overall orientation

20.1 The overall objective of the programme is to ensure international protection to refugees and others of concern to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and to seek permanent solutions to their problems in cooperation with States and other organizations, including through the provision of humanitarian assistance.

20.2 The mandate for the programme is contained in General Assembly resolution 319 A (IV), by which the Assembly established UNHCR as from 1 January 1951, and resolution 428 (V), which sets out the statute of the Office. The Assembly has also called upon the High Commissioner to ensure that refugees returning voluntarily to their countries of origin (“returnees”) receive assistance to help in their sustainable reintegration, as well as to monitor their safety and well-being upon return (see resolution 40/118). UNHCR has also been mandated to address the situation of stateless persons in accordance with the Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons (1954) and the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness (1961) (see resolution 50/152). In addition, on the basis of specific requests from the Secretary-General or the competent principal organs of the United Nations and with the consent of the State concerned, UNHCR provides humanitarian assistance and protection to internally displaced persons (see resolution 48/116), working in cooperation with the United Nations Emergency Relief Coordinator (see resolution 58/153). In its work for internally displaced persons and as part of the collaborative response of the United Nations system to internal displacement, UNHCR has been given special lead or co-lead responsibility for the following three cluster areas: protection, emergency shelter and camp management/coordination. Addressing the protection needs of these various categories of persons “of concern” to UNHCR, although some may not or may no longer be refugees, also forms an integral part of the programme.

20.3 As regards the assistance activities of UNHCR, the basic provisions of its statute were built upon by the Assembly in its resolution 832 (IX). Through the adoption by the Assembly of its resolution 58/153 on implementing actions proposed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to strengthen the capacity of the Office to carry out its mandate, UNHCR was given a renewed mandate to address the challenge of forced displacement through a mission based on a spirit of solidarity, responsibility and burden-sharing, with an abiding commitment to make the Office a truly multilateral institution.

20.4 The international legal basis for the protection of refugees finds its principal expression in the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the Status of Refugees. There are a number of regional instruments of relevance, such as the Convention Governing the Specific Aspects of Refugee Problems in Africa of the Organization of African Unity (now the African Union), the Cartagena Declaration on Refugees, adopted by the Colloquium on the International Protection of Refugees in Central America, Mexico and Panama and the San José Declaration on Refugees and Displaced Persons. The 2009 African Union Convention for the Protection of and Assistance to Internally Displaced Persons in Africa sets out a regional legal regime regarding internally displaced persons. The international legal basis for addressing the situation of stateless persons stems from the 1954 and 1961 Conventions. In addition, other international human rights instruments, such as the 1989 Convention on the Rights of the Child, are relevant in providing international protection to refugees, stateless persons, internally displaced persons, returnees and others of concern.

20.5 The overall strategy that will be followed consists of a range of activities undertaken in cooperation with States and various organizations. It incorporates concerted responses to the challenges met by the Office in the previous biennium, including an increasingly urban-based population of concern, the growing complexity of the asylum-migration nexus and the Office’s expanded activities for internally displaced persons.

20.6 The Office will also review and consolidate the results of reforms to increase efficiency, transparency and accountability in its operations following the conclusion of the structural and management change process in 2009. This will include a sustained emphasis on the institutionalization of results-based management through further harmonization of the operations management cycle and enhanced programme analysis and evaluation functions. The expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement for the programme reflect the outcomes of changes to strengthen results orientation in 2009, including a new budget structure and results framework for assessment, planning and reporting. Refinements to operations management, including the use of indicators, will be made in the course of the biennium 2010-2011. Initiatives to strengthen the effectiveness of the Office’s response to the needs of those of concern will also include reinforcement and integration of supply chain management, logistics and emergency response capacities and further review of human resource processes, information systems and telecommunications.

20.7 Notable among the activities to be implemented in the biennium 2012-2013 are the following:

(a) Pursuing comprehensive strategies, in cooperation with States and organizations, for achieving durable solutions for refugees and others of concern, notably through voluntary return, and, where appropriate and feasible, through local integration and resettlement, while promoting effective protection in displacement;

(b) Strengthening the legal regime for international protection, including through the promotion of accessions to international and regional instruments relating to the status of refugees or otherwise benefiting refugees, the effective implementation of refugee rights and the promotion and dissemination of refugee law and protection principles;

(c) Enhancing and reinforcing host country capacities to provide asylum and protection;

(d) Ensuring that UNHCR fully participates in and supports the strengthened collaborative response of the United Nations to situations of internal displacement through its leadership and coordination of areas for which the Office has been given special responsibility: protection, emergency shelter and camp management/coordination;
(e) Further developing contingency planning, emergency preparedness and response capabilities, in coordination with other organizations, so as to respond effectively and efficiently to situations of forced displacement;

(f) Ensuring that UNHCR and its partners incorporate into all aspects of the delivery of humanitarian assistance the particular needs and capacities, ascertained through participatory assessments, of refugee women and children, elderly refugees, refugees with disabilities and other persons with specific needs, as well as ensuring that UNHCR and its partners also provide protection and humanitarian assistance in a manner that is supportive of and reinforces development initiatives to the extent possible;

(g) Further developing, in consultation with concerned parties, options to ensure the security of refugee camps, settlements and areas of return, as well as their civilian and humanitarian character, and exploring further concrete ways of enhancing the safety and security of UNHCR staff and other humanitarian workers working with refugees and returnees. In this regard, due consideration should be given to the obligation of United Nations officials to observe fully both the laws and regulations of Member States and their duties and responsibilities to the Organization;

(h) Systematically following up on relevant recommendations in the plans of action emanating from recent international conferences, especially the plan of action related to the Millennium Development Goals, and involving other humanitarian and development organizations, both national and international, in the provision of assistance to refugees, returnees, stateless persons, internally displaced persons and host communities, as well as in the search for durable solutions.

20.8 The programme is under the intergovernmental guidance of the Executive Committee of the Programme of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, in accordance with its terms of reference, as adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution 1166 (XII). Pursuant to the request of the General Assembly in that resolution, the Economic and Social Council, in its resolution 672 (XXV) established the Executive Committee of the High Commissioner’s Programme, which came into existence on 1 January 1959. Reaffirming the terms of reference laid down by the General Assembly, the Council decided that the Executive Committee, being entrusted with the terms of reference set forth in General Assembly resolution 1166 (XII), should: (a) determine the general policies under which the High Commissioner should plan, develop and administer the programmes and projects required to help solve the problems referred to in its resolution 1166 (XII); (b) review at least annually the use of funds made available to the High Commissioner and the programmes and projects being proposed or carried out by the Office of the High Commissioner; and (c) have authority to make changes in and give final approval for the use of funds and the programmes and projects referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) above. In subsequent resolutions, the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the Executive Committee of the Programme of the High Commissioner have called upon the Office, in the context of its basic mandate, to assist other groups of persons regarded as falling under the competence of the High Commissioner. Although established by the Economic and Social Council, which elects its members, the Executive Committee functions as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly and it is the key governing body of UNHCR. It advises the High Commissioner in the exercise of his or her functions and approves the use of extrabudgetary funds made available to the High Commissioner. The annual cycle of meetings of the Executive Committee consists of one annual plenary session and a number of intersessional meetings of the Standing Committee. Reports on the sessions of the Executive Committee are submitted to the General Assembly as addenda to the reports of the High Commissioner. Pursuant to General Assembly resolution 64/128 on the enlargement of the Executive Committee, the membership of the Committee may be increased from 78 to 79 States.

20.9 The High Commissioner, who is elected by the General Assembly on the nomination of the Secretary-General, provides the overall direction, supervision and management of the activities under this programme. The functions of the High Commissioner are set out in the annex to the statute of UNHCR. The High Commissioner is assisted by a Deputy High Commissioner and by two Assistant High Commissioners, for Protection and for Operations, respectively.

Objective of the Organization: To ensure international protection to refugees and other persons of concern to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and to achieve permanent solutions to their problems in cooperation with States and other organizations, including through the provision of humanitarian assistance

Strategy

20.10 The implementation of the programme falls under the overall responsibility of the regional bureaux of UNHCR, the Division of International Protection Services and the Division of Programme Support and Management. The overall objectives related to ensuring international protection and finding durable solutions are multifaceted and depend on legal frameworks and protection environments. Further accessions to the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the Status of Refugees as well as to the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons and the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness will be promoted. Monitoring of the observance by States of international legal standards for the treatment of refugees, especially the fundamental principles of access to asylum and non-refoulement, will contribute to ensuring the effective implementation of refugee rights by the States concerned. This will involve ensuring that States have established fair and efficient procedures for the determination of refugee status and to ensure that all persons seeking international protection are granted access to those procedures and mechanisms. Renewed efforts are being made by UNHCR and its partners to provide protection and operational services in States that have not yet established protection frameworks.

20.11 The Office will continue to encourage States to ensure the protection of refugees and others of concern within broader migration movements. The frame of reference for UNHCR activities in this regard is its 10-point plan of action for refugee protection and mixed migration, which provides a framework of protection tools that could be built into broad migration strategies that take into account international protection needs while creating solutions tailored to the various categories of people in mixed migration movements. Similarly, with much international migration taking place by sea, UNHCR will continue to be involved in issues related to the disembarkation of mixed-migration groups and the search for solutions for those rescued at sea or found as stowaways and who are in need of international protection.

20.12 To ensure a more effective response to the protection needs of refugee women, children and adolescents, a more concerted effort will be made to mainstream policies and guidelines relating to those groups of refugees through the work of specially trained interdisciplinary UNHCR country teams. In addition, partnerships will be established with a broad range of actors, for example, under such initiatives as Women Leading for Livelihoods, in which economic empowerment is pursued for refugee and internally displaced women and girls with the support of prominent professional women from around the world.

20.13 The promotion and dissemination of refugee law and protection principles, particularly through training, in cooperation with non-governmental organizations, academic institutions and other relevant organizations of governmental and non-governmental officials, will be another means of achieving the stated objective. In addition, when UNHCR provides protection to internally displaced persons, it will do so on the basis of criteria enumerated in the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly and in close collaboration with other concerned entities and agencies. To revitalize old partnerships and build new ones in support of the international refugee protection system, efforts to promote collaboration on refugee protection with a wide range of actors, including the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, will be continued. Efforts will be made to promote the development of more comprehensive and regional approaches in order to find durable solutions, especially for those in protracted refugee situations.

20.14 UNHCR will pursue a number of strategies to ensure the optimal alignment of its operational objectives and resources with the needs of refugees and others of concern. The Office will build upon the positive results of comprehensive and participatory approaches to planning to ensure that the needs and capacities of men, women and children of concern form the foundation of programme design. This will include the use of standards and indicators across the full spectrum of the work of the Office as a means of identifying protection and assistance gaps and channelling resources to ensure that an acceptable standard is met in critical situations. Tools for recording operational data, including demographic, registration and profiling information, situational analysis and planning will be systematized to improve global analysis and evaluation of results. Population data management systems will also be upgraded to strengthen services, including emergency registration, provision of assistance, protection monitoring and resettlement, and in order to facilitate the work of partners.

20.15 UNHCR will proactively engage in comprehensive strategies to address urban displacement, including by promoting livelihoods and community participation, facilitating access to basic services and meeting material needs where appropriate. The Office will continue to pursue specific strategic plans in the areas of HIV and AIDS, malaria control, nutrition and food security, reproductive health and water and sanitation to ensure that prevention, care and treatment policies and programmes meet international standards during all phases of the displacement cycle. It will strengthen the means for monitoring and raising standards in other key areas of assistance and service delivery, such as reintegration, shelter and the provision of basic domestic and hygiene items. The design of assistance programmes will promote the resolution of protracted situations of displacement by increased emphasis on self-reliance and education. UNHCR will continue to pursue policies that mitigate the environmental effects of displacement through adequate protection and the management of natural resources.

20.16 Effective operational and strategic partnerships will continue to be a priority for the Office, as a means of enhancing protection, increasing efficiency and strengthening local capacities for response. The Office will promote increased implementation of its programmes by national partners and strengthen participation in inter-agency responses.

20.17 The Office will work to strengthen and enhance its emergency preparedness and response capacity under the leadership of the Division of Emergency, Security and Supply and in support of field operations. The overall strategy will integrate preparedness and the response and supply chain, supported by the necessary staff security coverage to ensure the reliable, timely and cost-effective delivery of critical services to persons of concern in complex emergencies, as well as in more stable situations. This will also involve the development, maintenance and deployment of emergency tools and resources, including rapid response staff; training; contingency planning support; and inter-agency cooperation. An integrated stock management system and improved forecasting and business support will enhance the responsiveness and sustainability of UNHCR programmes from the onset of an emergency until a solution is reached.

A/AC.96/965/Add.1 Agenda for Protection
Programme 21
Palestine refugees

Overall orientation

21.1 The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) was established within the United Nations system as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly by the Assembly in its resolution 302 (IV), under which UNRWA derives its mandate to provide assistance to Palestine refugees. Since starting operations in 1950, UNRWA has adapted and enhanced its programmes to meet the increasingly complex needs of refugees and to provide them with a measure of protection and stability amid chronic conflict in the region, within available resources. It stands ready to continue to do so during the biennium 2012-2013 in accordance with the triennial mandate it receives from the Assembly.

21.2 UNRWA reports directly to the General Assembly. Overall advice and support to the Commissioner-General regarding UNRWA programmes and activities are provided by the 23-member Advisory Commission, which includes representatives of the Agency’s major donors and host Governments. In its resolution 3331 B (XXIX), the Assembly decided that, with effect from 1 January 1975, the expenses for salaries of international staff in the service of UNRWA, which would otherwise have been charged to voluntary contributions, should be financed by the regular budget of the United Nations for the duration of the Agency’s mandate.

21.3 The mission of UNRWA is to help Palestine refugees achieve their full potential in human development under the difficult circumstances in which they live, consistent with internationally agreed goals and standards.

21.4 During the biennium 2012-2013, UNRWA seeks to further strengthen its management and service delivery, focusing on prioritizing service quality, access to and coverage of refugees most in need. As part of its new planning approach, the Agency has identified three human development goals: a long and healthy life; acquired knowledge and skills; and a decent standard of living. Progress towards these goals will be the focus of the Agency’s medium-term strategy 2010-2015 and will drive its operations during the biennium 2012-2013. The UNRWA biennial plan for the period 2012-2013 is presented within the framework of these goals and is consistent with the Agency’s medium-term strategy.

21.5 Under the three goals, UNRWA aims to achieve its objectives by maintaining and improving the provision of education and health services, relief and social support, and microfinance services for the benefit of registered Palestine refugees in Jordan, Lebanon, the Syrian Arab Republic, the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, a population that is projected to reach 5 million by 2012.

21.6 Since 2000, the Agency has provided emergency assistance to refugees in acute distress within its areas of operations as a result of armed conflict, including military operations, humanitarian access restrictions and prolonged economic hardship in the occupied Palestinian territory and Lebanon. This emergency assistance programme reaches more than 1.4 million refugees annually. UNRWA will continue to provide such services, as necessary, as well as, on an exceptional basis and as a temporary measure, services to non-refugees currently displaced and 21.7 UNRWA will also continue its efforts to mainstream gender and meet the needs of refugee children and vulnerable groups, and to develop further the Agency’s protection, programming, operation and advocacy responses, thereby bringing UNRWA closer to fulfilling its obligations under relevant resolutions of the General Assembly, international human rights law, the Beijing Platform for Action, the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and other applicable international instruments.

21.8 UNRWA is almost entirely dependent on voluntary funding to implement its programmes. It has contended not only with chronic funding shortfalls, but also with acute funding uncertainties induced by economic and political volatility. The Agency will continue to seek the additional resources it needs to improve the quality of services it provides to the refugees, while maintaining cost-conscious management and the operational flexibility required to respond to unforeseen disruptions to lives and livelihoods in Palestine refugee communities.

Programme 22
Humanitarian assistance

Overall orientation

22.1 The overall purpose of the programme is to ensure the timely, coherent and coordinated response of the international community to disasters and emergencies and to facilitate the smooth transition from emergency relief to rehabilitation and development. The legislative authority and mandate for the programme are derived from General Assembly resolution 46/182, in which the Assembly set out the guiding principles of humanitarian response. The resolution reinforced earlier decisions and resolutions adopted by the Assembly and by the Economic and Social Council concerning humanitarian assistance and the leadership role of the Secretary-General in responding to natural disasters and other humanitarian emergencies. This mandate has been confirmed and broadened through other Assembly, Economic and Social Council and Security Council resolutions. The Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs is responsible for the implementation of the programme and the achievement of its objectives, in line with efforts to ensure greater predictability, accountability and partnership in humanitarian response.

22.2 The strategy for implementing the programme revolves around the following: the development and promotion of a common policy on humanitarian issues for the United Nations system and its partners; the mobilization and coordination of assistance in humanitarian emergencies; the development and mobilization of United Nations capacity to expedite the provision of international humanitarian assistance; the promotion of disaster risk reduction; advocacy on humanitarian issues; and the availability of timely information on emergencies and natural disasters. The principal responsibility for implementation of disaster risk reduction activities resides with the inter-agency secretariat of the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction. The Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs works closely with the Development Operations Coordination Office of the United Nations Development Programme, the Peacebuilding Support Office and other members of the United Nations system to facilitate a smooth transition from relief to rehabilitation and development. The Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs also advocates for and contributes to stronger preparedness for more timely humanitarian assistance to emergencies through regional cooperation in accordance with its mandate.

22.3 To accomplish its mission, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs is committed to working towards greater gender equality. The Office has developed a policy on gender equality, which it is implementing through a Gender Action Plan. Tools such as the gender toolkit, the Inter-Agency Standing Committee Gender Handbook in Humanitarian Action, the Gender Standby Capacity (GenCap) project roster and advisers, as well as better analysis of gender-related fund allocations provide practical guidance on gender as a cross-cutting issue in all areas of humanitarian work where the aim is to ensure that women, girls, boys and men have access to and benefit from humanitarian protection and assistance efforts.

Strategy

22.4 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York.

22.5 The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York will continue to develop a humanitarian policy agenda that identifies emerging humanitarian trends and challenges, building harmonized policy positions among humanitarian agencies based on international humanitarian law, human rights and guiding principles as contained in the annex to resolution 46/182.

22.6 The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York will foster strategic and operational coherence through the continued development of a structured policy and guidance framework for use by humanitarian coordinators, country offices of the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs and the broader humanitarian system, taking into account the specific needs of the affected population, recognizing that giving appropriate consideration to, inter alia, gender, age and disability, is part of a comprehensive and effective humanitarian response. The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York will also lead the development of inter-agency policies, guidance and analytical tools. Working with partners, the development of a common framework for needs assessment, monitoring and evaluation will help provide an improved evidence base for decision-making on the use of resources. The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York will work to ensure progress in mainstreaming a gender perspective in humanitarian assistance. The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York will work to ensure that humanitarian actions in integrated United Nations presences are properly coordinated and safeguard humanitarian principles, consistent with the Secretary-General’s note of guidance on integrated missions of 2006. The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee secretariat in Geneva and New York will develop aides-memoires and diagnostic tools for political actors, such as Member States and peacekeepers, to use during crisis management to help ensure consideration of key humanitarian concerns. In addition, they will contribute to the development of training programmes and standard operating procedures to ensure that staff and other actors in emergencies are aware of key humanitarian policies, methodologies and processes and are able to apply them flexibly and appropriately in varied contexts. The Policy Development and Studies Branch in New York and the

---

Strategy

22.8 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva.

22.9 The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will provide advice to the Emergency Relief Coordinator on all aspects of operational decision-making in response to humanitarian emergencies through its link to resident and humanitarian coordinators and field coordination units worldwide; mobilize, coordinate and facilitate international humanitarian assistance; in collaboration with the Emergency Preparedness Section and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee, enhance preparedness through support to country teams in contingency planning; lead or participate in inter-agency and interdepartmental assessment missions and offer the United Nations system information and advice on a timely basis with respect to humanitarian assistance activities, in strict conformity with the guiding principles as contained in the annex to resolution 46/182 and with resolution 58/114.

22.10 The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will be actively involved in ensuring more predictable humanitarian finances to enable a prompt response to new or rapidly deteriorating crises, in particular through the Central Emergency Response Fund. The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will ensure the appropriate application of the Fund guidelines and timely responses by the Emergency Relief Coordinator. While working to ensure that CERF allocations are made ever more rapidly and based on sound needs assessment, the CERF secretariat will put in place the necessary performance measurements to track the Fund’s added value to beneficiaries and the humanitarian system that serves them. The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will also provide support for the strengthening of the cooperation between assisting and recipient countries.
22.11 The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will aim to consolidate sustainable partnerships in support of mobilizing resources for humanitarian operations and promote strengthened relationships with Member States and regional organizations on policy and operational issues. In addition, the Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will further support public-private collaboration, initiated through the World Economic Forum/Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs Guiding Principles for Public-Private Collaboration in Humanitarian Action adopted in 2007. Improving flexibility and timeliness requires greater donor coherence and efforts to honour pledges quickly. The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will work towards improving humanitarian financing though the development of standards, as well as systematic and efficient mechanisms for implementation and monitoring of funding support in emergencies. Strategic planning is supported by common humanitarian action plans in the form of flash appeals and through the consolidated appeals process. To ensure relevance and effectiveness, the Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will continue to build on lessons learned to improve the consolidated appeals process and flash appeals in support of a strengthened, structured and well-managed mechanism of coordination for humanitarian response. The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will ensure that the particular needs of women and children are effectively addressed through the use of disaggregated data collection in the development of appeals.

22.12 Finally, the Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will continue to work towards the improvement of humanitarian coordination structures at the country, regional and international levels, in support of national efforts. The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will ensure that all capacity-building efforts for resident and humanitarian coordinators include guidance on their role in the development of the cluster approach, in coordination with the national authorities of the affected State, as appropriate. In this regard, the Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will ensure that all of its field staff and Headquarters support staff have the relevant knowledge to support clusters at the field level as appropriate. The Coordination and Response Division and the CERF secretariat in New York and the External Relations and Support Mobilization Branch in Geneva will also ensure that resident and humanitarian coordinators receive guidance on the decisions taken in intergovernmental discussions held at the United Nations.

Strategy

22.13 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction and its secretariat, as the focal point for disaster risk reduction within the United Nations system.

22.14 The World Conference on Disaster Reduction adopted the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005-2015: Building the Resilience of Nations and Communities to Disasters (see A/CONF.206/6 and Corr.1), setting out strategic goals, priorities for action and implementation and follow-up activities within the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction system. The focus of the subprogramme is to meet the expected outcomes of the Hyogo Framework for Action, by increasing all stakeholders’ political, technical and financial commitment to achieve its objectives, concurrent with the focus of activities undertaken with the two participating organizations, namely, the secretariat of the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction and the United Nations Development Programme.

22.15 The International Strategy for Disaster Reduction secretariat will continue to act as a facilitating and coordination body on disaster risk reduction and will strive to strengthen the synergies among the disaster reduction activities of the United Nations system and regional organizations and promote socio-economic and humanitarian activities. The midterm review of the Hyogo Framework for Action will be a critical opportunity to leverage and catalyse action in reducing risk and refine the focus of its implementation in a manner that also contributes to the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals. Particular efforts will be devoted to ensure links with and support to climate change adaptation efforts, including the use of disaster risk reduction strategies and tools for adaptation purposes, as well as to strengthen the resilience of cities, schools, hospitals and other critical social infrastructures.

22.16 The International Strategy for Disaster Reduction secretariat will also strengthen its work at the regional level for enhanced regional collaboration and effectiveness in supporting Governments. In addition, the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction secretariat will provide substantive support on disaster risk reduction to the Secretary-General, to organizations of the United Nations system and their governing bodies, and to coordination mechanisms such as the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination. It will also build on the momentum generated by the Global Platform for Disaster Risk Reduction in 2009 to strengthen the cooperation between stakeholders. The PreventionWeb will be further developed as a global disaster risk reduction information platform for all stakeholders. The International Strategy for Disaster Reduction secretariat will increase its efforts to promote cooperation among international organizations and networks to develop consistent data collection on and assessment of natural hazards, vulnerabilities and risks, impacts of disasters and progress made in implementing the Hyogo Framework and will publish regular reports. The secretariat will also promote coherence in policy development, advocacy, strategic information and knowledge management and resource mobilization.

22.17 Through its network of country offices, the United Nations Development Programme will continue to support the development and implementation of disaster risk reduction programmes and projects at the regional and national levels. A major thrust of the work will be devoted to the production of tools for mainstreaming disaster risk reduction in development and recovery planning in order to empower other partners to reduce disaster risk. These tools are supported by a capacity enhancement effort, which started in 2006, to put in place national advisers in disaster-prone countries. Capacity-building support will include risk analysis and monitoring; policy and programme formulation, implementation and evaluation; advocacy and resource mobilization; and training and learning.

</table>

Strategy

22.18 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Emergency Services Branch in Geneva.

22.19 Support will be provided to conflict- and disaster-affected countries through the strengthening of mechanisms for emergency response; the promotion of the membership of developing and disaster-prone countries in emergency response networks; the development and strengthening of the capacities for coordination of humanitarian response; and the improvement of mechanisms, instruments and procedures for the mobilization and coordination of international assistance in cases of natural disasters and complex emergencies. In addition, support will be provided through the increased involvement of potential recipient and donor countries, using a regional approach, as well as United Nations organizations, in relevant activities, including training and exercise programmes and capacity-building for response preparedness.

22.20 Emphasis will be placed on ensuring the timely dissemination of information on the situation in countries affected by emergencies and disasters, including the identification of resource requirements, to relevant partners; activating emergency, disaster-response and preparedness tools to reduce the impact of emergencies and disasters; expanding the United Nations Disaster Assessment and Coordination teams in different regions; standardizing operational procedures for international urban search and rescue teams; further developing a comprehensive network of partners, comprising Governments, United Nations agencies, intergovernmental and relevant non-governmental organizations and corporate actors; further strengthening and diversifying the rapid response and surge mechanisms and improving the coordination between the various mechanisms; and strengthening national and regional civil-military and military-military coordination, upon the request of Member States, for more efficient and coherent support to humanitarian relief operations, by implementing the United Nations civil/military coordination training programme. Emphasis will also be placed on increasing the extent to which acute environmental impacts of disasters are identified and addressed during the response phase as well as strengthening coordination in the field of humanitarian logistics and preparedness through expanded cooperation with relevant partners.

<td>(b) Increased number of new agreements on standardized information-sharing endorsed by the Inter-Agency Standing Committee</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Strategy

22.21 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme rests with the Communications and Information Services Branch.

22.22 The Communications and Information Services Branch will continue to support the Emergency Relief Coordinator and the humanitarian community in advocacy aimed at encouraging Member States and parties to conflict to put humanitarian principles, as set out in General Assembly resolutions 46/182 and 58/114, into practice, and through advocacy centred around international humanitarian law, the protection of civilians in armed conflict and the safety and security of aid workers. Sustained efforts will continue to be made on advocacy aimed at maintaining the distinction between civilians and combatants.

22.23 The Communications and Information Services Branch will also seek to develop further strategies to highlight forgotten emergencies and natural disasters, especially through agreed-upon key messages targeting national and international media utilizing its web platform (OCHA, see http://ochaonline.un.org/) and by advocating jointly or independently with non-governmental organizations, civil society groups and academic institutions to highlight humanitarian crises. The Communications and Information Services Branch will also provide services — including press releases, media alerts, interviews and public briefings, op-eds, crisis communication and advocacy strategy design — designed to amplify country-specific strategies and messages thereby strengthening overall humanitarian advocacy.

22.24 Another vital aspect of the subprogramme is to provide timely and reliable information on unfolding emergencies and natural disasters in order to inform decision-making and support humanitarian action on the ground. The Communications and Information Services Branch will further strengthen the systems for collection, analysis, dissemination and sharing of humanitarian information through expanded networks, coverage and reach. This includes updating and improving its principal websites, namely OCHA and ReliefWeb, as well as the Integrated Regional Information Network, its independent field-based humanitarian news service. Partnerships with other members of the humanitarian community for information-sharing, coordination and standardization will be further enhanced. The Communications and Information Services Branch will also help establish common tools for establishing a knowledge base for the humanitarian community.

Programme 23

Public information

Overall orientation

23.1 In its mission to help fulfil the substantive purposes of the United Nations by strategically communicating the activities and concerns of the Organization to achieve the greatest public impact, the Department of Public Information coordinates its communications campaigns on key priority areas and maintains a balance between new and traditional means of communication. It also makes every effort to widen the pool of its communications partners and to strengthen its outreach to the public in both developed and developing countries through the network of United Nations information centres. The mandate of the Department is contained in General Assembly resolution 13 (I). The Department’s work is guided by the priorities laid down by the Assembly and its subsidiary body, the Committee on Information, through resolutions on questions relating to information, the most recent of which are 64/6/46 A and B.

23.2 The Department seeks to promote global awareness and enhanced understanding of the work and issues of the United Nations by providing accurate, impartial, comprehensive, balanced, coherent, timely and relevant information. To this end, using the Millennium Declaration as its guide, the Department will focus on priority themes in support of the three pillars of the Organization’s work: development, peace and security, and human rights. Within these three broad priority themes, the Department will seek to underscore the Secretary-General’s emphasis on delivering results, accountability and addressing global challenges for the common good. In addition, the Department identifies Africa as a regional focus and youth as a strategic audience for its communications work.

23.3 The Department works closely with substantive offices of the United Nations system to deliver effective and targeted information programmes on the identified key areas, including for United Nations conferences and observances. It aims to reach and engage audiences worldwide, including Governments, the media, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), educational institutions, business and professional organizations and other members of civil society to encourage support for the Organization and its objectives.

23.4 To accomplish this mission, the Department takes the following core approaches in its work: strategic working relationships with the substantive departments and offices of the Secretariat and the organizations and bodies of the United Nations system; enhanced use of the latest information and communications technologies, in both traditional and new media, to deliver information directly and instantaneously worldwide; the building of stronger grass-roots support through partnerships with civil society organizations; and the parity of official United Nations languages in the preparation of news and communications products.
Strategic communications services

Objective of the Organization: To broaden understanding of and support for the work of the United Nations on priority thematic issues, in particular by providing communications support for key United Nations events and initiatives.

Strategy

23.5 The subprogramme will be implemented within the Department of Public Information by the Strategic Communications Division, which consists of the Communications Campaigns Service, the Information Centres Service, including the network of United Nations information centres, and the Committee Liaison Unit.

23.6 The objective will be accomplished by developing communications guidance and messages that are more sharply focused, through better vertical integration of campaigns and messages between the Department at Headquarters and the network of United Nations information centres in the field, as well as through improved horizontal integration between the Department, other Secretariat departments and offices and the respective information components of United Nations agencies, funds and programmes. At the national level, the network of United Nations information centres will continue to closely integrate their work with the strategic and communications priorities of United Nations resident coordinators and country teams, while also benefiting from more thorough, timely and targeted information from the subprogramme’s offices concerned with development, peace and security, and human rights issues. Specially designated information centres will continue to assist other centres in their respective regions in sharing expertise and resources and in developing messages and communications campaigns that are tailored to regional or subregional needs and interests. The United Nations Communications Group will be utilized to enhance the coordination of communications activities between the Department and the wider United Nations system through inter-agency task forces to harmonize communications on priority issues for the Organization. In addition, communications efforts that have a particular national or regional resonance will be strengthened through United Nations communications groups at the country and regional levels.

23.7 In order to enhance public understanding of the objectives and activities of the United Nations, information products will be created in both official and local languages for delivery to target audiences. Strategic media outreach activities, including press conferences and interviews with senior officials, will also be organized. Websites in local languages will continue to be maintained and strengthened by the network of United Nations information centres. New media technologies, such as social networking sites and text messaging, will be used at Headquarters and at the country level to expand the reach of communications campaigns and better inform the wider general public about United Nations priority issues.

23.8 Operational support and strategic communications advice will continue to be provided to the information components of United Nations peace missions and to political missions, as appropriate.

Strategy

23.9 The subprogramme will be implemented primarily by the News and Media Division, supported by the Office of the Spokesperson for the Secretary-General and by the network of United Nations information centres.

23.10 The objective will be accomplished through the timely delivery of accurate, balanced and, where feasible, customized news and information materials and services through radio, television, video, photographs, printed media and the Internet, to media and other users globally, utilizing new information technologies to reach a wider audience more quickly. Multilingualism and developing-country media will be particular priorities of the subprogramme’s outreach efforts.

23.11 New information technologies will also enable the subprogramme to continue to improve access from the field, especially during times of breaking news, as well as to enhance its integrated multimedia services.

23.12 Taking advantage of the opportunities provided by new technologies for disseminating and receiving information, such as mobile devices, will require innovative associations with information providers, supplementing partnerships and other forms of collaboration with broadcasters and other redisseminators. Such collaborations will help to meet the needs of a global audience by offering quality materials that reflect the priorities identified by Member States, including the Millennium Development Goals, to the widest possible range of information outlets. Special programmes will be produced and distributed as required.

Objective of the Organization: To enhance understanding of the role, work and concerns of the United Nations, and to encourage the exchange of ideas, information and knowledge in support of the goals of the Organization

Strategy

23.13 Subprogramme 3 will be implemented by the Outreach Division, which includes the following nine clusters: Knowledge Solutions and Design; Advocacy and Special Events; Education Outreach; Publications and Editorial; NGO Relations; Sales and Marketing; Visitors’ Services; and, under the Dag Hammarskjöld Library, Information Processing and Acquisitions, and Library Users’ Services. The Division also includes the secretariat of the Publications Board and the Exhibits Committee.

23.14 The Division will work to enhance understanding of the United Nations both by producing information products, such as publications and exhibits, and by organizing briefings, speaking engagements and special events that highlight United Nations priority issues. The Division will accomplish its objective by working in partnership with external organizations, institutions and individuals that have their own networks and delivery systems and therefore can amplify the United Nations message. These include NGOs, educational institutions, cultural organizations, foundations and Governments. In addition, the universal power of the media and celebrity advocates is keenly recognized. The Division will therefore continue to employ Messengers of Peace in a targeted, issue-oriented fashion. New partnerships will be sought with the film and television industries with the intention of involving the United Nations in storylines or backdrops as a means of expanding the presence and visibility of the Organization in contexts and among audiences where it is not usually found.

23.15 To reach a broader segment of the global public, the Division will continue to explore innovative ways of using new media and social networking sites to promote United Nations objectives and issues. Such initiatives are particularly important in reaching younger audiences, a key target group for the Department. A concerted effort will be made to broaden the geographical diversity of the Division’s partners. For example, increased participation of underrepresented regions of the world will be a factor when selecting NGOs to be associated with the Department.

23.16 The Division will increase and facilitate access to the wealth of United Nations information, both historical and current, through the services of the Dag Hammarskjöld Library. These services are essential for the internal work of United Nations staff and officials, as well as Member States, but also to outside researchers and, increasingly, the public, through electronic access to information. The current advances and trends in information technology point to more global library services, with access to electronic information resources not being limited by geography. With the explosion of information available through the Internet, special attention will be paid to providing services that orient and guide information-seekers.

23.17 The objective of the subprogramme also entails facilitating access to and the exchange of information within the United Nations. Enhancing internal communication on iSeek will be a key factor in solidifying the concept of a global Secretariat and increasing knowledge-sharing among staff in different departments and duty stations.

Management and support services

Overall orientation

24.1 The overall purpose of the programme, the responsibility for which is vested in the Department of Management, the administrative services of the United Nations Office at Geneva, the United Nations Office at Vienna, the United Nations Office at Nairobi and the Office of Information and Communications Technology, is to enhance the accountability and efficiency of the Organization in managing its resources in four broad management areas, namely, finance, human resources, information and communications technology, and support services, including procurement and infrastructures; to provide support services to the intergovernmental processes of the Organization; to secure financing for the mandated programmes and activities of the Secretariat; and to support the implementation of those programmes and activities.

24.2 The programme derives its mandates from relevant articles of the Charter of the United Nations, specifically Articles 8, 17, 97, 100 and 101, as well as the Financial Regulations and Rules of the United Nations, the Staff Regulations and Rules, the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation, General Assembly resolutions 41/213 and 42/211 and the successive annual resolutions on the review of efficiency of the administrative and financial functioning of the United Nations, as well as resolutions 52/12 A and B, 57/300, 58/269, 60/1, 60/260, 60/283 and 63/262, addressing issues of the reform and revitalization of the Organization and the creation of the Office of Information and Communications Technology, and other relevant resolutions.

24.3 The programme is focused on implementing key management reform measures approved by the General Assembly, with the support of a communications strategy that ensures that Member States, managers and staff are fully informed of and participate in the efforts to ensure a more effective and results-oriented Organization.

24.4 The Department of Management, in close coordination with the administrative services of offices away from Headquarters, will aim to ensure that all new or revised management policies, procedures and internal controls meet the expectations of Member States as reflected in the resolutions and decisions of the General Assembly, as well as in the relevant regulations and rules of the United Nations. The capacity of managers to deliver mandated programmes will be strengthened through policy guidance and more effective support on results management approaches, including regular and systematic monitoring and self-evaluation practices, as well as timely performance reporting to Member States to ensure that the Organization becomes fully results-oriented.

24.5 The Department of Management will closely monitor oversight body recommendations, identify material weaknesses and ensure that remediation plans are developed. Furthermore, the Department of Management will provide substantive support to the Management Performance Board, in the context of the monitoring of the senior managers’ compacts, and to the Management Committee, in the context of monitoring compliance with recommendations of oversight bodies by departments and offices of the Secretariat.

24.6 Promoting a systematic risk-based approach to management decisions and risk mitigation is critical for the Organization. As a result of the adoption of General Assembly resolution 64/259, the Department of Management will guide the overall implementation of an effective enterprise risk management and control framework throughout the Secretariat. The framework will enhance the governance and management practices of the Secretariat; it will strengthen the focus on objectives and will increase effectiveness in achieving the defined objectives and mandates given by Member States. Embedded risk and internal control management activities will become an integral part of the processes and operations of the entire Organization. Accountability and performance management will be enhanced through the definition of clear risk management roles and responsibilities. The promotion of a risk-driven culture will be strengthened through a more informed risk-based decision-making capability. Transparency will be improved within the Organization and towards Member States, as risks are clearly communicated internally and externally through formal reporting by management to relevant stakeholders.

24.7 Human resources management reform will continue to reflect the multicultural environment of the Organization and will be implemented to empower staff and increase their flexibility and mobility in adapting to the priorities of the Organization. The Department of Management will continue to support and strengthen the integration of the gender perspective and geographical representation into the work of the Organization, in fulfilment of its leading role in implementing gender-sensitive policies.

24.8 The implementation of the enterprise resource planning project, also known as Umoja, will continue under the coordinating and oversight function of the Department of Management through the Enterprise Resource Planning Steering Committee. The Department of Management will ensure that the project adequately responds to the needs of the Organization and facilitates the execution of its mandates by enabling a more efficient and effective management of resources (people, money and materials). The Department of Management will ensure implementation of various functionalities of the system in such a manner that it minimizes the burden of change on the Organization and its resources and mitigates organizational and managerial risks. In synchronization with the new enterprise resource planning project, the Department of Management will ensure further development and documentation of accounting policies, guidance and procedures that are compliant with International Public Sector Accounting Standards and that the Organization transitions to the requirements of International Public Sector Accounting Standards.

24.9 The management evaluation of all contested administrative decisions, which is the first step in the formal process of the administration of justice, complements the Organization’s efforts in strengthening management accountability and promoting swift and timely resolution of disputes. In order to fulfil its mandate, the approach to resolving staff grievances includes the use of formal and informal dispute resolution mechanisms while adhering to the prescribed time limits. The Department of Management will strive, through management evaluation, to reduce the number of improper administrative decisions and the number of cases proceeding to formal litigation. Furthermore, the Department of Management will establish and implement effective measures for increasing transparency and managerial accountability in the decision-making process.

24.10 The Department of Management will manage the renovation of the historic United Nations Headquarters complex in New York. The capital master plan, as the project is known, will entail a complete renovation of the complex and result in a modern, safe and energy-efficient Headquarters for the Organization. The project, with ongoing renovation of the Secretariat, General Assembly and Conference Buildings, is expected to be completed during the 2012-2013 biennium. In connection with the last phase of the project, operations at the United Nations Headquarters will be reorganized to efficiently manage the refurbished complex and to promote risk management, operational continuity and environmental sustainability. The experience gained from the capital master plan will be leveraged to establish a framework that will ensure that the capital value of physical properties at all duty stations is maintained on a long-term basis.

24.11 Moreover, the Department will maintain its leadership role within the United Nations common system. By partnering with other organizations of the system, it will strengthen existing common and joint services and expand and develop new common and joint services among United Nations entities when such services would be more efficient and cost-effective than existing arrangements.

24.12 Furthermore, the Department will provide substantive and/or technical secretariat support to the Administrative and Budgetary (Fifth) Committee, the Committee for Programme and Coordination, the Committee on Contributions, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, the Board of Auditors and the Independent Audit Advisory Committee.

24.13 The Office of Information and Communications Technology was established by the General Assembly in its resolution 63/262 in December 2008 as an independent office to provide strong, central leadership for the establishment and implementation of the Organization-wide information and communications technology standards and activities to ensure efficient utilization of resources, modernization of information systems and improvement in the information and communications technology services available to the United Nations.

24.14 The Office is responsible for setting the overall strategic information and communications technology direction for the Organization; planning and coordinating Secretariat-wide information and communications technology activities; and providing enterprise systems and infrastructure with a view to achieving coherence and coordination in the information and communications technology work of the Organization and between the Secretariat and the funds, programmes and specialized agencies.

24.15 The main functions of the Office of Information and Communications Technology are therefore: (a) to set the overall strategic information and communications technology direction for the Organization; (b) to plan and coordinate Secretariat-wide information and communications technology activities; and (c) to provide enterprise systems and infrastructure.

The Office will review oversight body findings and recommendations, identify material weaknesses and reportable conditions and follow up on the status of implementation of recommendations and the adoption of remediation plans for consideration by the Management Committee. The subprogramme also includes the secretariat of the Headquarters Committee on Contracts, which will support the work of the Committee, which makes recommendations to the decision maker on proposed procurement actions over a specific threshold, and the secretariat of the Headquarters Property Survey Board, which will support the work of the Board, which makes recommendations on proposed actions on disposal of United Nations property and assets.

24.17 This component of the subprogramme is the responsibility of the Umoja Enterprise Resource Planning Project Team in the Office of the Under-Secretary-General for Management. Umoja combines new techniques, tools, training and technology to improve the business practices of the United Nations Secretariat and to align them with commonly accepted best practices. The project team will ensure that Umoja adequately responds to the needs of the Organization and facilitates the execution of its mandates by enabling more efficient and effective management of resources (people, money and materials). The project will progress through four major phases: (a) preparation; (b) design; (c) build; and (d) deployment. The principles that guide the design of the “business blueprint” or corporate operating model include: (a) the widest possible inclusion of subject-matter experts (staff members recognized as leading practitioners in specific areas of the Organization); (b) complete coverage of all in-scope processes; (c) functional coverage of the approximately 500 legacy systems that will be replaced by Umoja’s single global information system; and (d) effective interface between Umoja and the legacy systems that remain in place.

Management evaluation is the final step in determining whether a mistake has been made or an irregular action taken, before the case proceeds to the first level of judicial review. It gives management an opportunity to correct itself, where necessary, and to hold decision makers accountable in cases where an improper decision has been taken. Adequate measures will ensure that individuals and the Organization are held accountable for their actions in accordance with relevant resolutions and regulations.

The Division will continue to develop and implement policies and procedures that are consistent with the Financial Regulations and Rules of the United Nations with respect to peacekeeping activities. The presentation of budgets, performance and special reports will be improved and include results-based frameworks, where applicable, and resource requirements and expenditure information made more transparent. Overall orientation

25.1 The overall purpose of the programme is to enhance transparency and accountability and contribute to high efficiency, effectiveness and goal fulfilment in the Organization. The Office has the authority to initiate, carry out and report on any action it considers necessary to fulfil its responsibilities with regard to its oversight functions. The Office assists the Secretary-General in fulfilling his internal oversight responsibilities in respect of the resources and staff of the Organization through monitoring, internal audit, inspection, evaluation and investigation.

25.2 The mandate for the programme is derived from General Assembly resolutions 48/218 B, 54/244 and 59/272, the relevant provisions of the Financial Regulations and Rules of the United Nations (ST/SGB/2003/7) and of the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation (ST/SGB/2000/8). This will be accomplished through the issuance of timely, high-quality reports on inspection, evaluation, internal audit and investigation, in accordance with applicable international standards.

25.4 The Office assists the Organization in achieving better results by determining the factors affecting the efficient and effective implementation of programmes in accordance with intergovernmental mandates and, inter alia, the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Development Goals and in the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992. In addition, the Office undertakes a number of measures to support the Organization’s commitment to gender mainstreaming, including oversight of United Nations gender mainstreaming efforts.

Strategy

25.6 The Inspection and Evaluation Division will provide timely and credible information to Member States and the Secretariat to support their decision-making regarding programme planning and implementation. It will be a primary source in the Organization for independent and objective assessments on the attainment of programme results. The Division’s strategy is to subject all programmes to independent evaluation within a regular and periodic cycle in conformity with the requirements of the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation, and as an integral part of internal oversight. Through a strategic risk assessment exercise to prioritize programmes and to identify topics, the Division’s programmatic and thematic evaluations will focus on providing more in-depth assessment of programme relevance, efficiency, effectiveness, and impact and of strategic and systemic issues that cut across individual programmes. Inspections will primarily respond to emerging risks and will provide focused examinations of management issues and actual or perceived programme vulnerabilities that require corrective action. The Division plans to improve the current programme evaluation cycle of 11 to 13 years to a periodic cycle of eight years to cover all Secretariat programmes, and will ensure that all high-risk programmes and the upper band of medium-risk programmes are evaluated by 2014.

25.7 In order to provide quality assurance for self-evaluation and reporting, the Division will continue to conduct validation inspections and reviews, to provide Member States with reasonable assurances about the credibility and reliability of results reported by Secretariat programmes. The Division aims to complete validation inspections of all Secretariat programmes’ performance reporting by the end of 2012. The Division will continue to strive to further strengthen the quality of inspections and evaluations through greater use of subject expertise and partnerships with relevant knowledge centres, for example research and academic institutions.

Subprogramme 3 Investigations

Objective of the Organization: To enhance accountability through investigations of possible violations of rules or regulations, mismanagement, misconduct, waste of resources or abuse of authority

</table>

Strategy

25.8 The Investigations Division will implement strategies to ensure that the Organization can more effectively promote accountability of staff and other persons by investigating reports of possible misconduct and recommendations for appropriate action in line with the outcome of the investigation. In particular, issues

15 Investigation reports refer only to those reports where misconduct has been substantiated. If misconduct is not substantiated, a closure report, not an investigation report, is issued.
of sexual exploitation and abuse in peacekeeping missions will be approached in a more comprehensive manner through collaboration with the Department of Field Support and mission personnel so that investigations can be part of an overall response that emphasizes prevention, awareness and accountability. A more robust follow-up with the troop- and police-contributing countries and military command more generally will also be an important strategic objective. Economic fraud within the United Nations system will be targeted as part of a concerted effort of the Office of Internal Oversight Services to promote accountability and safeguard the Organization’s interests, assets and resources by limiting exposure to organizational risks.

25.9 The Division will continue to maintain and develop best practices and standard operating procedures to ensure the accountability and transparency of the investigation process. Those practices and procedures will provide a consistent and professional approach to the investigations function and reflect emerging requirements of the new internal justice system, including the United Nations Dispute Tribunal, the Office of the Administration of Justice and the Office of Staff Legal Assistance.

25.10 In accordance with General Assembly resolution 59/287, the Division places particular emphasis on providing training for personnel outside the Office of Internal Oversight Services who may have responsibility for investigations or investigation tasks. The training will improve the quality of the investigations and promote individual accountability. Training will generally raise awareness of all staff to organizational risks and, as a result, further promote protection of the Organization’s interests, assets and resources by empowering staff to limit exposure to such risks.

Jointly financed activities

A. International Civil Service Commission

Overall orientation

26.1 By its resolution 3357 (XXIX), the General Assembly established the International Civil Service Commission (ICSC) for the regulation and coordination of the conditions of service of the United Nations common system. Under its statute, the Commission is a subsidiary organ of the Assembly. It performs its functions in respect of the United Nations and of those specialized agencies and other international organizations that participate in the United Nations common system. In the exercise of its functions, the Commission is guided by the principle set out in the agreements between the United Nations and the other organizations, aiming at the development of a single unified international civil service through the application of common personnel standards, methods and arrangements. The Commission is further mandated through Assembly resolutions 51/216 and 52/216 to play a lead role in the development of innovative approaches in the field of human resources management as part of the overall reform currently taking place in the organizations of the common system.

Objective of the Organization: To coordinate and regulate the conditions of service of the United Nations common system as mandated by the General Assembly in its resolution 3357 (XXIX) of 18 December 1974

Strategy

26.2 To accomplish its objectives and bearing in mind the limitations imposed by Member States on their national civil service, the Commission’s programme of work includes the following: (a) to develop further and to strengthen a common system of salaries, allowances and benefits under the Noblemaire and Flemming principles; (b) to equalize the purchasing power of salaries worldwide through post adjustment classifications; (c) to develop and maintain equitable job evaluation and other human resources management systems; (d) to provide guidance and advice on their administration; and (e) to provide substantive support to Member States and common system organizations (including staff) in the reform and maintenance of a coherent and effective human resources management system more closely aligned with the achievement of organizational goals and objectives.

B. Joint Inspection Unit

Overall orientation

26.3 According to the statute of the Joint Inspection Unit (see General Assembly resolution 31/192, annex), the Inspectors have the broadest powers of investigation in all matters bearing on the efficiency of services and the proper use of funds, and provide an independent view through inspection and evaluation aimed at improving management and methods and at achieving greater coordination between organizations. The Unit is to satisfy itself that the activities undertaken by the organizations are carried out in the most economical manner and that optimum use is made of resources available for carrying out those activities.

26.4 In accordance with article 1 of its statute, the Unit shall perform its functions in respect of and shall be responsible to the General Assembly and similarly to the competent legislative organs of its participating organizations.

26.5 On the basis of its statute, the Unit uses three management tools for the implementation of results-based management, namely, its programme of work (article 9), its annual report (article 10) and its biennial budget (article 20). The first and second are submitted in its annual report, published as a supplement through which the Unit reports on its performance, which is assessed by the General Assembly.

26.6 In accordance with article 19 of its statute, the Unit shall be assisted by an Executive Secretary and by such staff as may be authorized in accordance with article 20 of the statute.
26.7 As established in the follow-up system of the Joint Inspection Unit and endorsed by the General Assembly in its resolution 54/16, in order for the Unit’s reports to be thoroughly and effectively utilized by the legislative organs of participating organizations, the recommendations included in those reports must be: (a) directed at correcting clear deficiencies with practical, action-oriented measures to solve significant problems; (b) convincing and well supported by the facts and analysis in the report; (c) realistic in terms of implied resource commitments and technical capabilities; (d) cost-effective; and (e) specific with regard to actions to be taken, and those responsible for taking actions, so that implementation and resulting impact can be clearly tracked, that is, according to SMART (specific, measurable, attainable, relevant and time-bound) mandates. The Joint Inspection Unit secretariat has an important role to play in assisting the Unit in this regard and in monitoring the degree of acceptance and implementation of the recommendations after they are issued, for disclosure in the annual report of the Unit.

26.8 In view of the above, the present strategic framework reflects how the secretariat of the Joint Inspection Unit supports the work of the Inspectors and, as such, it focuses on measuring the performance of the secretariat. It should be recalled, however, that in accordance with General Assembly resolution 63/272, oversight is a shared responsibility of Members States, the organizations and the internal and external oversight bodies.

26.9 The expected accomplishments of the secretariat described below have been drawn from the long- and medium-term strategic priorities of the Unit, as defined in its strategic framework for 2010-2019 (see A/63/34 and Corr.1), submitted for consideration to the General Assembly and acknowledged by the Assembly in paragraph 17 of its resolution 63/272.

Objective of the Organization: To improve the management, implementation, utilization and follow-up of the Joint Inspection Unit recommendations, ensuring optimum use of available resources

(ii) Increased percentage of participating organizations providing updated information within the established deadlines by entering the information in the new online tracking system

(c) Increased awareness of the management issues raised in reports of the Unit

(c) Increased number of visits to the Unit website

Strategy

26.10 During the biennium 2012-2013, the work of the Joint Inspection Unit is expected to benefit further from the results of the reforms implemented throughout the previous years. In its report for 2008 and programme of work for 2009 (A/63/34 and Corr.1), the Unit outlined a five-pronged strategy which will determine the way the secretariat approaches its work: (a) the development of a more strategic approach to the selection of issues to be covered by the programme of work by actively engaging Member States, other oversight bodies, participating organizations and the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination (CEB) in the conceptualization of the programme of work as well as by staying abreast of major developments in key reform areas relevant to the work of the Organization. As requested by Member States, the programme of work will continue to focus on system-wide issues and will strive to be consistent with strategic priority areas; in addition, the secretariat will ensure timely filling of the investigations post so as to allow the Unit to respond to requests for investigations; (b) the strengthening of the follow-up system on the implementation of recommendations through the development of a web-based tracking system and more proactive follow-up by the secretariat staff; the development of key knowledge management strategies so as to ensure better use of Joint Inspection Unit products; (c) the systematic and periodic review of the management and administration of participating organizations. This should allow the Unit to develop a system-wide overview and understanding of the performance of its participating organizations. Such agency-specific reviews will also allow the Unit to identify system-wide and systemic issues that need to be addressed in thematic reviews and evaluations. The secretariat staff act as focal points so as to monitor events and developments in participating organizations; (d) the development of a peer review mechanism for the Unit’s activities so as to ensure that the work of the Unit is based on state-of-the-art developments in the fields of evaluation, inspection and investigations. This will be coupled with greater engagement and interaction with other oversight bodies such as the Board of Auditors, the Office of Internal Oversight Services and the Independent Audit Advisory Committee, the United Nations Evaluation Group and the Representatives of Internal Audit Services; and (e) the enhancement of evaluation staff capabilities through appropriate training programmes in relevant areas of interest to the Unit. The strategic focus for this training will be on evaluation methodologies and investigation techniques but also in key reform areas of interest for the work of the United Nations.
C. United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination

Overall orientation

26.11 The United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination (CEB) is responsible for promoting coherence, cooperation and coordination in the policies, programmes and activities of the United Nations system organizations in accordance with their respective mandates and in response to decisions of intergovernmental bodies. The Board, which is composed of the Secretary-General and the executive heads of all organizations of the United Nations system, replaced the former Administrative Committee on Coordination (established in 1946 by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 13 (III)). CEB established two high-level committees to assist it: the High-Level Committee on Programmes, whose central role is to develop concerted and effective policies, strategies and guidance for the United Nations system to meet emerging challenges and issues relating to international cooperation and development; and the High-Level Committee on Management, which elaborates policy and provides guidance to the organizations of the system on administrative, management and security and safety issues with system-wide relevance, promotes inter-agency cooperation and coordination on such issues and helps with the management of the common system of pay and benefits. In 2008, the United Nations Development Group became the third pillar of CEB, responsible for the coordination of country-level development operations in accordance with General Assembly resolution 62/208.

26.12 In the biennium 2012-2013, CEB will continue to strengthen its integrated approach among its high-level committees. The Board will focus on and coordinate the activities of the United Nations organs, funds and programmes towards accelerating progress in the implementation of internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements. To this end, CEB will ensure greater coherence and coordination among the organizations of the system. It will place at the centre of its efforts: deepening the understanding of and coordinating joint responses to global challenges, such as those related to climate change, the global food security crisis, the eradication of poverty and safety and security issues, in accordance with intergovernmental mandates; achieving an inclusive, purposeful mobilization of all resources and capacities and enhancing knowledge-sharing; and helping to increase transparency and accountability. The Board will also strengthen the support of the system for the implementation of the quadrennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system and the sustainable development of Africa within the overall framework of the New Partnership for Africa’s Development and will actively support the mainstreaming of a gender perspective in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of the policies and programmes of the system, in accordance with intergovernmental mandates. CEB will also continue to enhance and monitor the effective coordination of system-wide efforts against hunger and poverty. The Board will also continue its efforts to ensure the security and safety of United Nations system personnel, premises and assets, including by enhancing system-wide support for an effective and unitary security management system.
26.13 In the programme area, CEB, through its High-Level Committee on Programmes, will continue to promote joint action across a range of intergovernmental mandates with a view to further enhancing the coherence and effectiveness of the contribution of the system to advance the implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals. Special attention will, in the same context, be given to aligning the efforts of the United Nations system organizations in support of intergovernmental reviews and monitoring of progress towards these goals in the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council and in the governing bodies of the specialized agencies, funds and programmes. The High-Level Committee on Programmes will, at the same time, seek to take a proactive role in scanning and identifying emerging programme issues requiring a system-wide response, and in developing joint approaches on such priority issues as climate change in the context of sustainable development, food security, the impact of the financial and economic crisis on development and post-crisis recovery.

26.14 CEB, through its High-Level Committee on Management, will continue its work for the enhancement of the United Nations system-wide security management system so as to provide for improved safety and security for United Nations system personnel, premises and assets. It will work on furthering cooperation in advancing accountability and transparency in the work of the organizations of the United Nations system; in harmonizing human resource management practices consistently with recent reforms approved by governing bodies of member organizations; in utilizing information and communication technology for better management and better programme delivery; and in promoting best practices and lessons learned in the area of management and in policy development and programme delivery through, inter alia, harmonized business practices and improved platforms for knowledge-sharing. In the area of human resources management, the focus will be on enhanced collaboration with ICSC and on the harmonization of human resources practices and procedure, especially with respect to staff working outside headquarters. In the financial and budgetary areas, the main emphasis will be placed on supporting the implementation of the International Public Sector Accounting Standards (IPSAS) throughout the system, and on furthering the development of financial and budgetary best practices. In the area of information and communications technology, special attention will be given to capitalizing on investments in information and communications technologies, especially through common services and the identification of common best practices in the implementation and usage of enterprise resource planning systems. Through the High-Level Committee on Management, CEB will give special attention in the biennium 2012-2013 to finalizing the implementation of the High-Level Committee on Management Plan of Action for the Harmonization of Business Practices. It will also seek to promote further initiatives to facilitate access to the United Nations system information by Member States and the general public through, inter alia, the publication of the inter-agency decisions.

26.15 The work of the CEB secretariat will be structured to ensure the efficient and effective provision of support services in connection with its major functions: (a) facilitate a more regular and structured information flow on major trends and developments in the organizations of the United Nations system of concern to the system as a whole. This service would be of particular value to smaller agencies. The CEB secretariat would provide such an information-sharing service on which all could draw, supporting an enhanced capacity for knowledge-sharing system-wide, as financial statistics, personnel statistics, headcounts of field staff as well as policies and practices; (b) promote further initiatives to facilitate access to United Nations system information by Member States and the general public; (c) ensure that the strategic discussions of CEB and its clusters are supported by sound analytical material that adds scope and value to the contribution and knowledge that individual organizations bring to the table; (d) support the Board in developing the structure, content and organization of its sessions in a flexible manner, responding to evolving needs; (e) develop analysis and information to assist CEB to have greater clarity on issues related to duplication and overlap of activities in specific areas, and assist the Board in developing a system-wide methodology for different agencies operating on the same issue; and (f) strengthen the engagement of CEB with intergovernmental bodies, in particular the Economic and Social Council, and the engagement of the CEB secretariat with the Committee for Programme and Coordination, including through facilitating the participation of executive heads in high-level intergovernmental forums and improving CEB reporting to intergovernmental bodies.

(ii) All information on the progress of IPSAS adoption by United Nations system organizations is reported on time to Member States

Strategy

26.16 During the biennium 2012-2013, the high-level committees, in support of CEB, will actively engage the organizations of the United Nations system within a joint framework to pursue strategic actions pertaining to the promotion of global, regional and country-level coherence within the work of the United Nations system, and management and administrative issues to enhance the capacity of the organizations by the coherent and coordinated use of resources, capacities and knowledge. The High-Level Committee on Programmes will focus on promoting greater synergy in the policies and programmes of the organizations of the United Nations system so as to enhance the system’s overall impact on helping countries meet the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals. The United Nations Development Group will continue to promote coherence and coordination with regard to country-level operations in accordance with General Assembly resolution 62/208. As necessary, the Committees will draw on inter-agency networks, task forces and clusters to strengthen linkages between the normative and operational work of the system and to ensure that the main horizontal policy themes — sustainable development, human rights and gender — are taken into account in decision-making. The High-Level Committee on Management, through its functional networks dealing with finance and budget, security, human resources, information and communications technology, procurement, legal, and medical-related issues, will continue to focus on inter-agency cooperation to reinforce measures for the security and safety of United Nations system personnel, premises and assets, including by strengthening the United Nations system-wide security management system; promote accountability and transparency across the system; and disseminate best practices, modern management approaches and partnerships in all areas of management, including human resources, procurement, security, finance and budget management, and legal and medical issues. In the area of information and communications technologies, the Committee will continue the elaboration and implementation of the United Nations system strategic framework for information and communications technology, focusing on such areas as knowledge-sharing; enterprise resource planning systems; information and communications technology governance, best practice and business case development; service sourcing; inter-agency connectivity; common application solutions and information and communications technology training for senior officials; strengthening inter-agency cooperation in this area and supporting the work in the programme, management and administrative areas through new technological tools. With regard to the adoption of the International Public Sector Accounting Standards (IPSAS) by the United Nations system organizations, the system-wide IPSAS team will focus on: (a) developing and maintaining IPSAS guidance, policies and training; (b) providing access to information on IPSAS implementation, including information on adoption progress and issues, through website, e-mail, reports, and meetings; and (c) supporting input into and understanding of IPSAS developments through monitoring of developments, development of submissions on draft Standards, attendance at IPSAS Board meetings, and timely provision of information on IPSAS developments to organizations.

Safety and security

Overall orientation

27.1 The purpose of the programme is to enable the safest and most efficient conduct of the programmes and activities of the United Nations system by providing leadership, operational support and oversight of the United Nations security management system, as established by the General Assembly in its resolution 59/276 and subsequent resolutions.

27.2 The overall objectives of the programme are: (a) to enable the effective conduct of United Nations activities by ensuring a coherent, effective and timely response to all security-related threats and other emergencies; (b) to ensure effective risk mitigation through the establishment of a coordinated security threat and risk assessment mechanism within the framework of a common system-wide methodology, in full cooperation with the national authorities of host countries; and (c) to develop high-quality best-practice security policies, standards and operational procedures across the United Nations system, including the appropriate degree of standardization, and to support their implementation and monitor compliance.

27.3 Recognizing that sharing ideas, experiences, opportunities and costs is the only way to reduce our common vulnerability, the Department of Safety and Security will achieve its mission through an integrated and interdependent organizational approach by working closely with the security services of all the United Nations system agencies, funds and programmes, under the umbrella of the Inter-Agency Security Management Network.

27.4 The work of the Department will be implemented under two subprogrammes: security and safety coordination and regional field coordination and support. For the period 2012-2013, the Department will continue to focus on enhancing the coordination of the United Nations security management system; ensuring the implementation of policies and procedures relating to the security and safety of United Nations personnel and their eligible dependants, visitors, delegates and assets; and consolidating, harmonizing and promulgating common policies, standards and operational procedures. The Department will take the lead in coordinating the activities of the United Nations system security and safety network. Measures will also be undertaken to strengthen capacity within the Department to facilitate rapid response to security incidents and emergencies and to enhance crisis management within the United Nations system security and safety network.
