Areas with the most references

SYNTHESIS OF EVALUATION RECOMMENDATIONS

EFFICIENCY ENABLERS

Improving efficiencies and alignment between headquarters- and field-based work processes, such as strategic planning, programme/project design processes, results measurement, as well as structures and systems for staffing and cost sharing

DELIVERING TOGETHER

Ensuring systematic engagement of partners (through planning, policies, resources) towards the goal of maximized and sustained national, regional and subregional collaboration beyond the project boundaries

UNODC APPROACH

Use of advanced technological solutions to facilitate the delivery of interventions, as well as continuing to build diverse governmental actors' buy-in and trust, break down silos and convene multidisciplinary teams

CROSS-CUTTING COMMITMENTS

Increased planning measures to ensure gender, human rights, and the "leave no one behind" principle are mainstreamed from project design to results measurement, ensuring adequate due diligence, needs assessments and stakeholder consultations take place

RESOURCE MOBILIZATION

UNODC to integrate its strategic vision into funding models with a long-term strategy aligning its financing, rather than supporting individual programmes

KEY RESULTS OF MANDATED AREAS OF WORK

World drug problem: Improved measures to prevent and measurably reduce or eliminate illicit cultivation for the production of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances

Organized crime: Strengthened international and cross-border cooperation

Corruption: Effective use of regional platforms to harness common needs and characteristics amongst countries to "fast-track" the implementation of UNCAC

Terrorism: Improved investigation, prosecution and adjudication of counter-terrorism cases

Criminal justice: Criminal justice systems more gender- and human rights-responsive

The overall objective of the meta-synthesis approach at UNODC is to provide useful information, which is tailored to the wide range of needs of different audiences – including Member States, senior management and staff at large – and to offer insights into current trends stemming from evaluations and based on the UNODC Strategy 2021–2025. The approach remained similar to previous meta-syntheses, however a new codebook aligned with the updated strategy was tested and rigorously applied using the qualitative analysis software NVivo. In addition, the scope of analysis was expanded to include the findings, conclusions, lessons, best practices and recommendations in independent evaluation reports.
