HAVE A HEART

for victims of human trafficking

Human trafficking is one of the world's most shameful ills—a heartless violation of human rights in which lives are traded, sold, exploited, abused and ruined. No country is immune, and millions of lives are at stake. We must take a united stand, shine a spotlight on the issue, put traffickers behind bars and give protection and support to victims and vulnerable people.

The reality

At any given time, thousands of people are trapped in modern-day slavery — human trafficking. Women, children and men across the globe find themselves being enslaved in forced labour and domestic servitude, sexually exploited or used as child soldiers. A global enterprise worth approximately US$ 32 billion, human trafficking affects nearly every country in the world and has become a major concern.

Sadly, indications suggest most trafficked persons are never formally identified — a cruel twist which denies them assistance when they most critically need it.

The Victims' Trust Fund

In a bid to provide help and support to those most affected, a General Assembly Resolution entrusted UNODC with establishing and managing the United Nations Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Human Trafficking.

The Victims' Trust Fund supports actual, on-the-ground humanitarian, legal and financial aid to victims of trafficking through a range of avenues.

It offers the opportunity for people from all walks of life including Governments, the private sector, international organizations, NGOs and individuals to work together to help victims of human trafficking in a practical and tangible manner. Help today in building on-the-ground capacity to support those victimized and exploited by human traffickers. By donating to the Victims' Trust Fund, your money can and will assist victims of this crime in taking back their lives and rebuilding their futures.

Life is priceless. Yet the trade in human beings goes on every day, all over the world. Help victims of this horrendous crime take back their lives. Support the Victims' Trust Fund and make a real difference in someone's future today

UNODC Executive Director Yury Fedotov

The Victims' Trust Fund's priorities are guided by the Board of Trustees who, with their global presence, represent all the regions of the world. The Board of Trustees consists of: Dr. Aleya Hammad (Chair of the Board, North Africa and the Middle East); Dr. Saisuree Chutikul (Asia); Ms. Virginia Murillo Herrera (Latin America); Mr. Nick Kinsella (Western Europe and North America); and Ms. Klara Skrivankova (Eastern Europe and Central Asia). The Victims' Trust Fund operates an annual Small Grants Facility which is open to all not-for-profit NGOs working to provide direct support to victims of human trafficking. The Small Grants Facility targets frontline organizations which provide tangible assistance directly to victims.

Where would your money go?

From Cambodia to France, Nigeria to Costa Rica, and Albania to the US, the Victims' Trust Fund assists organizations across the world in helping out those who need it the most.

Our work reflects the international nature of human trafficking as well as the differing services required to help victims of this crime. In promoting this inclusive approach, support is given to a range of NGOs who provide victim-focussed services. These include running shelters and emergency housing, offering rehabilitation and reintegration services, providing income generation advice and legal support, and helping victims with psychosocial counselling and medical treatment.

Your donation will directly help someone who has been victimized by human traffickers.

Whatever you do, however you do it, remember this: human trafficking is a crime that strips people of their rights, ruins their dreams, and robs them of their dignity. Support the UN Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Human Trafficking today, and help to build a better tomorrow for those victimized and exploited by human traffickers.
