Information-gathering instrument on United Nations standards and norms related primarily to the prevention of crime

Pursuant to Economic and Social Council resolution 2004/28 of 21 July 2004, the following questionnaire is designed as a tool to collect information to assist in the preparation of the report of the Secretary-General, in particular as regards the following:

(a) The difficulties encountered in the application of United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention;

(b) Ways in which technical assistance can be provided; and

c) Useful practices and emerging challenges.

It is not intended to produce a scorecard of how well States are doing. It addresses the main sections of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime (Council resolution 2002/13, annex) and, as the case may be, other relevant instruments.

Economic and Social Council resolution 2002/13 of 24 July 2003 on action to promote effective crime prevention accepted the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime and also requested the Secretary-General to report to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice on the implementation of that resolution. In the Guidelines, crime prevention refers to “strategies and measures that seek to reduce the risk of crimes occurring” by influencing “their multiple causes” (para. 3). It includes social crime prevention (or prevention through social development), local, community or neighbourhood-based crime prevention, situational crime prevention and measures to prevent recidivism. The definition does not include law enforcement and other criminal justice intervention, even though these may have crime prevention aspects. It is cognizant, however, of the need to take account of “the growing internationalization of criminal activities” (para. 4). When referring to the community, it refers in essence to “the involvement of civil society at the local level” (para. 5).

Other instruments relevant to the prevention of crime include:

- Economic and Social Council resolution 1995/9 of 24 July 1995, the annex to which contains the Guidelines for cooperation and technical assistance in the field of urban crime prevention

- General Assembly resolution 51/60 of 12 December 1996, the annex to which contains the United Nations Declaration on Crime and Public Security

The questionnaire is divided into five sections: structuring crime prevention at the governmental level; crime prevention approaches; implementation issues; international cooperation, networking and technical assistance; and concluding questions. In developing the questionnaire, related paragraphs have been grouped for simplicity and clarity.
I. Structuring crime prevention at the government level

The following paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime refer to government responsibility, leadership and structures to organize and deliver effective crime prevention.

2. It is the responsibility of all levels of government [national, regional and local] to create, maintain and promote a context within which relevant governmental institutions and all segments of civil society, including the corporate sector, can better play their part in preventing crime.

Government leadership

7. All levels of government should play a leadership role in developing effective and humane crime prevention strategies and in creating and maintaining institutional frameworks for their implementation and review.

Cooperation/partnerships

9. Cooperation/partnerships should be an integral part of effective crime prevention, given the wide-ranging nature of the causes of crime and the skills and responsibilities required to address them. This includes partnerships working across ministries and between authorities, community organizations, non-governmental organizations, the business sector and private citizens.

Government structures

17. Governments should include prevention as a permanent part of their structures and programmes for controlling crime, ensuring that clear responsibilities and goals exist within government for the organization of crime prevention, by, inter alia:

(a) Establishing centres or focal points with expertise and resources;

(b) Establishing a crime prevention plan with clear priorities and targets;

(c) Establishing linkages and coordination between relevant government agencies or departments;

(d) Fostering partnerships with non-governmental organizations, the business, private and professional sectors and the community;

(e) Seeking the active participation of the public in crime prevention by informing it of the need for and means of action and its role.

Training and capacity-building

18. Governments should support the development of crime prevention skills by:

(a) Providing professional development for senior officials in relevant agencies;
(b) Encouraging universities, colleges and other relevant educational agencies to offer basic and advanced courses, including in collaboration with practitioners;

(c) Working with the educational and professional sectors to develop certification and professional qualifications;

(d) Promoting the capacity of communities to develop and respond to their needs.

Supporting partnerships

19. Governments and all segments of civil society should support the principle of partnership, where appropriate, including:

(a) Advancing knowledge of the importance of this principle and the components of successful partnerships, including the need for all of the partners to have clear and transparent roles;

(b) Fostering the formation of partnerships at different levels and across sectors;

(c) Facilitating the efficient operation of partnerships.

3. In your country, which government department, ministry or organization at the national level has the responsibility for leadership in crime prevention?

Please specify.

United States Department of Justice

4. In your country, does the organization or framework of crime prevention include:
   (a) A centre or focal point at the national level?
       ( x ) Yes ( ) No

   If the answer is “Yes”, please cite the name and status of the responsible agency or agencies.

   Broadly speaking, the US Department of Justice serves as the focal point, but it is co-mingled with other crime related activities. There is no separate office of crime prevention. For example, the Office of Juvenile Justice & Delinquency Prevention focuses on many aspects of juvenile justice, to include prevention.

   (b) Centres or focal points at the regional level?
       ( x ) Yes ( ) No ( ) Not applicable

   (c) Establishing crime prevention plans with clear priorities?

       (i) At the national level?
           ( x ) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No

       (ii) At the regional level?
            ( x ) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No ( ) Not applicable

       (iii) At the local level?
            ( x ) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No

   (d) Establishing linkages and coordination between relevant government agencies and organizations?

       (i) At the national level?
           ( x ) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No

       (ii) At the regional level?
            ( x ) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No ( ) Not applicable

(c) At the local level?

       ( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer to (b) and/or (c) above is “Yes”, please specify.

States and local communities pass numerous laws and implement policies that address the various components of the Guidelines.
(e) Fostering partnerships with non-governmental organizations, the business, private and professional sectors and the community?
   (i)  At the national level?
       (x) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No
   (ii) At the regional level?
       (x) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No ( ) Not applicable
   (iii) At the local level?
       (x) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No

(f) Seeking the active participation of the general public?
   (i)  At the national level?
       (x) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No
   (ii) At the regional level?
       (x) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No ( ) Not applicable
   (iii) At the local level?
       (x) Yes ( ) Yes, in part ( ) No

(g) A specific role for the police and other institutions performing similar roles?
    (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe.

The US has law enforcement at the federal, state, county and city levels. Each has a component in crime prevention, broadly and specifically. For example, the GREAT program is a school-based law enforcement officer-instructed classroom curriculum designed to prevent gang involvement of youths.

5. In your country, do government bodies support the development of crime prevention skills by:
   (a) Providing professional development?
       (x) Yes ( ) No
   (b) Encouraging relevant educational institutions to offer basic and advanced courses?
       (x) Yes ( ) No
   (c) Working to develop certification and professional qualifications?
       (x) Yes ( ) No
   (d) Promoting the capacity of communities to develop and respond to their own needs?
       (x) Yes ( ) No
II. Crime prevention approaches

Crime prevention as defined in the relevant instruments refers to various approaches generally called social, community-based and situational crime prevention, as well as preventing recidivism.

In respect to social crime prevention, relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime include:

6. Crime prevention encompasses a wide range of approaches, including those which:

   (a) Promote the well-being of people and encourage pro-social behaviour through social, economic, health and educational measures, with a particular emphasis on children and youth, and focus on the risk and protective factors associated with crime and victimization (prevention through social development, or social crime prevention);

Socio-economic development and inclusion

8. Crime prevention considerations should be integrated into all relevant social and economic policies and programmes, including those addressing employment, education, health, housing and urban planning, poverty, social marginalization and exclusion. Particular emphasis should be placed on communities, families, children and youth at risk.

Social development

24. Governments should address the risk factors of crime and victimization by:

   (a) Promoting protective factors through comprehensive and non-stigmatizing social and economic development programmes, including health, education, housing and employment;

   (b) Promoting activities that redress marginalization and exclusion;

   (c) Promoting positive conflict resolution;

   (d) Using education and public awareness strategies to foster a culture of lawfulness and tolerance while respecting cultural identities.

6. Is the concept of social crime prevention (as defined in paragraph 6 (a) of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime) part of your country’s crime prevention policy, strategy or programmes?

   ( x ) Yes (   ) No

7. Do your country’s crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes include a specific focus on:

   (a) Children and youth at risk of victimization or offending?

   ( x ) Yes (   ) No
If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP), which aims to prevent victimization/offending of youths. There are 12 programs that have been awarded the Blue Print status of prevention for juveniles and scores of promising programs. These 12 programs have been shown to be statistically significant improvement in youths across time and regions of the US.

(b) Vulnerable groups?
    ( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

The US established the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) in 1984, which provides funding to various programs, as well as assistance to prevention groups.

(c) The different needs of men and women?
    ( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

In addition to the OVC, the US has other offices that are specific in gender, such as the Office on Violence Against Women.

8. Are crime prevention considerations integrated into relevant social and economic policies and programmes?
    ( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

On the national level, the Department of Justice has the Office for Legislative Affairs, which assists the legislature in various ways when particular Congressional action is performed. States have similar avenues.

9. In your country, do crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes:

(a) Promote protective factors (e.g. staying in school, positive parenting, job training for youth, etc.)?
    ( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

The US has many programs, such as GREAT, Safe Start, and Youth Crime Watch of America.

(b) Promote activities to redress marginalization or exclusion?
    ( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.
The US has numerous ways to address the concept of marginalization. For example, the American Disabilities Act incorporates those with disabilities, the IDEA requires full educational inclusion for children with needs, and the anti-discrimination laws require acceptance.

(c) Promote positive conflict resolution (e.g. mediation, restorative justice, etc.)?
( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Restorative justice and mediation have been embraced at various levels of government and is woven into the juvenile legislation, creating a balanced approach to crime and its victims.

(d) Use education and public awareness?
( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Both are implemented in various forms. For example, the Texas Early Childhood Education Coalition is in support of early childhood programs, which have been found to have some crime prevention value.

(e) Involve the media?
( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

For example: The President and the Attorney General use the media to help expand their message coverage concerning crime prevention situations through press conferences, radio, and television most frequently.

In respect of community or locally based crime prevention, relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime include:

6. Crime prevention encompasses a wide range of approaches, including those which:

(b) Change the conditions in neighbourhoods that influence offending, victimization and insecurity that results from crime by building on the initiatives, expertise and commitment of community members (locally based crime prevention):
10. Does your country have specific crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes designed to change the conditions that influence offending, victimization and insecurity in neighbourhoods?

( ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

Many. For example, the OJJDP has youth-centered programs which aspire to change these conditions through communities and neighbourhoods, such as anti-gang and drug-related initiatives.

11. Does your crime prevention policy or strategy include an integrated approach to address the multiple risk and protective factors in highly vulnerable neighbourhoods or communities?

( ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

For example, the 8% Solution Program targets not only the youth’s education, social, peer, community, and family problems, but also addresses the inadequacies in parenting and family relationships of the parents and other siblings.

In respect of situational crime prevention, relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime include:

6. Crime prevention encompasses a wide range of approaches, including those which:

(c) Prevent the occurrence of crimes by reducing opportunities, increasing risks of being apprehended and minimizing benefits, including through environmental design, and by providing assistance and information to potential and actual victims (situational crime prevention);

Situational prevention

26. Governments and civil society, including, where appropriate, the corporate sector, should support the development of situational crime prevention programmes by, inter alia:

(a) Improved environmental design;

(b) Appropriate methods of surveillance that are sensitive to the right to privacy;

(c) Encouraging the design of consumer goods to make them more resistant to crime;

(d) Target “hardening” without impinging upon the quality of the built environment or limiting free access to public space;

(e) Implementing strategies to prevent repeat victimization.
12. Does your country have specific situational crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes to:

(a) Improve environmental design and management?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

Policies are numerous, including wide spread urban planning with crime prevention goals, as well as initiatives to “put 100,000 police on the streets.”

(b) Implement appropriate methods of surveillance that are sensitive to privacy?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

For example, the USA Patriot Act implemented a number of different surveillance techniques, none of which have been deemed unconstitutional.

(c) Promote target hardening without impinging on the quality of the built environment?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

For example, citizens are encouraged to buy anti-theft devices for the vehicles and homes.

(d) Encourage the design of crime resistant consumer goods?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

By creating the demand in (c), companies are encouraged to design goods. Additionally, funding is available for research and development for a large number of these products.

(e) Implement strategies to prevent repeat victimization?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

The OVC provides grants and funding for this purpose. Training is also provided.

In respect of the prevention of recidivism, relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime include:

6. Crime prevention encompasses a wide range of approaches, including those which:
In your country, do you have specific policies, strategies or programmes to prevent recidivism by assisting in the social reintegration of offenders and other preventive mechanisms?
( x ) Yes ( ) No
If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.
Currently, there is a national re-entry movement targeting recidivism prevention.

III. Implementation issues

Sustainability and accountability are important principles to ensure the implementation of effective crime prevention programmes and initiatives. The relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime are:

1. There is clear evidence that well-planned crime prevention strategies not only prevent crime and victimization, but also promote community safety and contribute to the sustainable development of countries. Effective, responsible crime prevention enhances the quality of life of all citizens. It has long-term benefits in terms of reducing the costs associated with the formal criminal justice system, as well as other social costs that result from crime. Crime prevention offers opportunities for a humane and more cost-effective approach to the problems of crime.

Sustainability/accountability

10. Crime prevention requires adequate resources, including funding for structures and activities, in order to be sustained. There should be clear accountability for funding, implementation and evaluation and for the achievement of planned results.

Sustainability

20. Governments and other funding bodies should strive to achieve sustainability of demonstrably effective crime prevention programmes and initiatives through, inter alia:

(a) Reviewing resource allocation to establish and maintain an appropriate balance between crime prevention and the criminal justice and other systems, to be more effective in preventing crime and victimization;

(b) Establishing clear accountability for funding, programming and coordinating crime prevention initiatives;

(c) Encouraging community involvement in sustainability.
14. In your country, what measures have been taken to ensure the sustainability of crime prevention policies, strategies and programmes?

Please describe briefly.

Program offices have been developed, institutionalizing the process.

15. In your country, have there been systematic attempts to assess the costs of crime and crime control measures, including crime prevention measures?

( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please provide the source of funding and an estimate of the total costs.

Numerous estimates and evaluations have been done at the national, state, and local levels. One example is the Cost Effectiveness of Crime Prevention by RAND.

In implementing crime prevention, elements of a rigorous process have been identified. The relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime are:

Knowledge base

11. Crime prevention strategies, policies, programmes and actions should be based on a broad, multidisciplinary foundation of knowledge about crime problems, their multiple causes and promising and proven practices.

21. As appropriate, Governments and/or civil society should facilitate knowledge-based crime prevention by, inter alia:

(a) Providing the information necessary for communities to address crime problems;

(b) Supporting the generation of useful and practically applicable knowledge that is scientifically reliable and valid;

(c) Supporting the organization and synthesis of knowledge and identifying and addressing gaps in the knowledge base;

(d) Sharing that knowledge, as appropriate, among, inter alia, researchers, policy makers, educators, practitioners from other relevant sectors and the wider community;

(e) Applying this knowledge in replicating successful interventions, developing new initiatives and anticipating new crime problems and prevention opportunities;

(f) Establishing data systems to help manage crime prevention more cost-effectively, including by conducting regular surveys of victimization and offending;

(g) Promoting the application of those data in order to reduce repeat victimization, persistent offending and areas with a high level of crime.

Planning intervention
22. Those planning interventions should promote a process that includes:

(a) A systematic analysis of crime problems, their causes, risk factors and consequences, in particular at the local level;
(b) A plan that draws on the most appropriate approach and adapts interventions to the specific local problem and context;
(c) An implementation plan to deliver appropriate interventions that are efficient, effective and sustainable;
(d) Mobilizing entities that are able to tackle causes;
(e) Monitoring and evaluation.

Supporting evaluation
23. Governments, other funding bodies and those involved in programme development and delivery should:

(a) Undertake short- and longer-term evaluation to test rigorously what works, where and why;
(b) Undertake cost-benefit analyses;
(c) Assess the extent to which action results in a reduction in levels of crime and victimization, in the seriousness of crime and in fear of crime;
(d) Systematically assess the outcomes and unintended consequences, both positive and negative, of action, such as a decrease in crime rates or the stigmatization of individuals and/or communities.

16. In your country, is the use of knowledge-based crime prevention strategies, policies or programmes facilitated by:

(a) Supporting the generation and utilization of useful information and data?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Many of the federally funded programs require that 5% of the funding be spend on rigorous evaluation.

Additional national data are collected and reported through the Bureau of Justice Statistics and the FBI Uniform Crime Reports

(b) Supporting the sharing of useful information and data?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

For example, all National Institute of Justice grantees must archive the datasets collected during grant funded research. These archives are available to all researchers.
(c) Promoting the application of useful information and data to reduce repeat victimization, persistent offending and high crime areas?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

As stated previously, one example is the OVC using available data to fund programs to reduce victimization.

17. In your country, do the crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes promote a planning process that includes:

(a) A systematic analysis of crime problems, their causes and risk factors and consequences, in particular at the local level?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

On-going data collection from local and state agencies and analysis of crime, crime trends, and responses are conducted by the Bureau of Justice Statistics. The process has been institutionalized.

(b) A plan that draws on the most appropriate approaches and adapts interventions to the specific local problems and local context?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

On-going program evaluation and the development of model programs has resulted in adaptation of various programs to increase effectiveness. For example, the Blue Prints programs have modified many approaches.

(c) An implementation plan to deliver efficient, effective and sustainable interventions?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Again, the Blue Prints serves as an example.

(d) Mobilizing entities that are able to tackle causes?

( x ) Yes (   ) No
If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Funding and policy support are provided to organizations for research based programming.

(e) Monitoring and evaluation?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Programs are monitored and evaluation in action oriented settings where the results are used to conduct program improvement. These processes are part of the strategic plans of granting agencies and program offices.

18. In your country, do the crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes include:

(a) Undertaking evaluation to test rigorously what works?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

One good example is the Blue Prints project. Another example is funding the Campbell Collaborative, an international group that conducts scientifically rigorous program evaluation.

(b) Undertaking cost-benefit analyses?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

In addition to the requirement for 5% of the funds to be withheld for program evaluation, that evaluation frequently must include a cost-benefit analysis.

(c) Assessing reduction in crime, victimization and fear of crime?
   (x) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

These concepts are woven into the policies and the evaluations. They are generally assessed through the national statistics at BJS and OVC.
(d) Assessing outcomes and unintended consequences?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

This is all part of the evaluation process.

19. Has an evaluation of components or specific activities of your country’s national crime prevention policy or strategy been undertaken?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.

Academic evaluations are conducted periodically, but they do not render the agency responsible for change. Internal evaluation is conducted by the General Accounting Office, who produces widespread reports of effectiveness.

The Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime recognize the links between local and transnational organized crime and the need to prevent organized crime. The relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines are:

Interdependency

13. National crime prevention diagnoses and strategies should, where appropriate, take account of links between local criminal problems and international organized crime.

Prevention of organized crime

27. Governments and civil society should endeavour to analyse and address the links between transnational organized crime and national and local crime problems by, inter alia:

(a) Reducing existing and future opportunities for organized criminal groups to participate in lawful markets with the proceeds of crime, through appropriate legislative, administrative or other measures;

(b) Developing measures to prevent the misuse by organized criminal groups of tender procedures conducted by public authorities and of subsidies and licences granted by public authorities for commercial activity;

(c) Designing crime prevention strategies, where appropriate, to protect socially marginalized groups, especially women and children, who are vulnerable to the action of organized criminal groups, including trafficking in persons and smuggling of migrants.

Links between transnational and local crime
31. Member States should collaborate to analyse and address the links between transnational organized crime and national and local crime problems.

20. In your country, do crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes assess the potential links between local and national crime problems and transnational organized crime?

( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.
Organized crime is a priority for the US. Examples of this would include the TVPA of 2000 and its subsequent reauthorizations.

21. In your country, do the crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes include:

(a) Measures to reduce opportunities for organized criminal groups to participate in lawful markets?

( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.
The FBI has extensive organized crime departments focused on various areas of the world – Italian, Asian/African, etc., with offices in both the US and overseas.

(b) Measures to prevent the misuse of public tender procedures, subsidies and licences?

( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.
The United States Secret Service has a long history of dealing with all variations concerning the misuse of public tender. The FBI and established local police deal with these issues.

(c) Measures to protect socially marginalized groups, especially women and children, who are vulnerable to exploitation by organized criminal groups, including preventing trafficking in persons and the smuggling of migrants?

( x ) Yes ( ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please describe briefly.
The US has the TVPA law passed in 2000 (reauthorized in 2003 and 2005), which is an all encompassing piece of legislation concerning trafficking.
IV. International cooperation, networking and technical assistance

Member States are encouraged to facilitate international cooperation and develop networks for the exchange of practices and knowledge. The relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime include:

Technical assistance

29. Member States and relevant international funding organizations should provide financial and technical assistance, including capacity-building and training, to developing countries and countries with economies in transition, communities and other relevant organizations for the implementation of effective crime prevention and community safety strategies at the regional, national and local levels. In that context, special attention should be given to research and action on crime prevention through social development.

Networking

30. Member States should strengthen or establish international, regional and national crime prevention networks with a view to exchanging proven and promising practices, identifying elements of their transferability and making such knowledge available to communities throughout the world.

Prioritizing crime prevention

32. The Centre for International Crime Prevention of the Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention of the Secretariat, the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme network of affiliated and associated institutes and other relevant United Nations entities should include in their priorities crime prevention as set out in these Guidelines, set up a coordination mechanism and establish a roster of experts to undertake needs assessment and to provide technical advice.

Dissemination

33. Relevant United Nations bodies and other organizations should cooperate to produce crime prevention information in as many languages as possible, using both print and electronic media.

22. Does your country participate in international networks for the exchange of information and knowledge on crime prevention policies, strategies or programmes?

( x ) Yes (   ) No

If the answer is “Yes”, please specify.

The US participates in the UN’s various offices, such as the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, Program Network Institutes. Additionally, the US participates in foreign and hosts international meetings and conferences. Additionally, information sharing occurs through organizations, such as INTERPOL.

23. What are the main obstacles to your country participating in international networking?

Please describe.

The only obstacles would be resources and data considered sensitive.

24. Please identify guides, toolkits, compendiums or manuals of crime prevention practices from your country that can be shared with other countries.

There are literally libraries full of these manuals. The National Criminal Justice Reference Service, a federally funded service by the Department of Justice can provide most of these materials anywhere in the world.

25. Does your country need technical assistance in any area of crime prevention?

( ) Yes ( x ) No

26. Is your country able to provide technical assistance in any area of crime prevention?

( x ) Yes ( ) No

V. Concluding questions

27. What are some of the main lessons your country has derived from national experience in implementing crime prevention policies, strategies and programmes? Please describe.

Implementation is the key to success. Generally, policies and programs lack sufficient implementation. Therefore, evaluation is not valid. Focus should be on implementation before evaluation is considered.

Crime prevention may appear very costly in the beginning, but over the long term, it is less expensive than the alternative in terms of quality of life and direct expenses of crime.

28. What are the main challenges in your country for delivering effective crime prevention? Please describe.

The main challenge is the focus of funds on “quick fix” solutions of situational crime prevention and a relative lack of funding in social causes of crime.
