THE LEGAL PROFESSION'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE GLOBAL FIGHT AGAINST CORRUPTION

DESCRIPTION

Legal professionals can and must play a vital role in the discussion and promotion of anti-corruption policies and regulations. This session will explore the different opportunities available to lawyers and their representative bodies to participate in national and international anti-corruption efforts, including those related to the UNCAC.

PANELLISTS

Annika Wythes, Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Officer, United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), Regional Office for Southeast Asia and the Pacific, Fiji

Carlos Ayres, Co-Chair Anti-Corruption and Compliance Committee, Brazilian Institute of Business Law (IBRADEMP), Sao Paulo

Gonzalo Guzman (moderator), Head of Legal Projects, International Bar Association (IBA), London

Patrick Moulette, Head of the Anti-Corruption Division, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Paris

Luz Nagle (rapporteur), Professor of Law, Stetson University College of Law, Florida, USA

Michael Osborne, Founding member of the Anti-Corruption Team, Canadian Bar Association (CBA), Ottawa

FORMAT AND AGENDA

The session will be organised as an active roundtable rather than a series of independent presentations by panellists. The moderator will start at 4 pm with a 10 minutes introduction of the session and experts. A facilitated discussion will follow. There will be different opportunities for interaction with participants during the entire session.
