Goals and expected outcome:

The issue of corruption in Investor-State disputes has become increasingly important as evidenced by the practice of investor-State tribunals and scholarly publications. It has already been noted at the meetings of some of the Working Groups of the Conference. Yet until now, no systematic attempt has been made to look at this issue in the context of the UN Convention against Corruption (UNCAC). Importantly, UNCAC has been increasingly referred to in bilateral investment treaties (BITs) as a standard to which parties to BITs shall adhere.

The event jointly convened by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Corruption and the Investment Treaty Forum of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law will focus on different perspectives of the relevance of the Convention to this area. Important stakeholders will share their views and will take questions from the audience to examine whether and how the issue of corruption in investor-State disputes could be addressed.

It will also provide an opportunity to look at potential synergies between the work of UNODC and other relevant international organizations. The event may further serve as a proving ground to seek the States Parties’ guidance on whether this topic deserves further consideration, including under the auspices of the Conference.

The working language of the event will be English. The attendance is open to all Conference participants.
