ENGAGING UNCAC CONSTITUENTS: THE GLOBAL ANTI-CORRUPTION CITIES NETWORK

OVERVIEW

This side event will introduce the Global Anti-Corruption Cities Network (GACCN) initiative, which will be owned by the participating local government entities and supported by the International Anti-Corruption Academy (IACA). The participants will present the concept of the Network and talk about the way they expect the Network to facilitate their efforts to prevent and fight corruption

At the core of the GACCN, lies the concept that fighting corruption is key to economic prosperity (according to UNODC, investment in a relatively corrupt country compared to an uncorrupt country can be up to 20% more costly), development efforts, and the realization of human and political rights. The GACCN will provide a platform for mutual support for cities and other local governments in order to improve their ability to mitigate corruption effectively and efficiently. The Network will facilitate the exchange of best practices, help mainstream anti-corruption strategies into community policies, aid in the development of resilient anti-corruption systems, encourage networking between like-minded entities, support international anti-corruption advocacy networks, facilitate access to a network of research and mitigating tools from other anti-corruption cities and contribute to the integration of global actions through the sharing of resources.
