

Country	Family Name(s)	First Name(s)	Present Position	Previous Positions / Relevant Experience
Palau	Lalabalavu	Poseci W. B.	Assistant Attorney General	Conduct criminal litigation handling misdemeanour and felony matters; and provide such legal advice and services to the Executive Branch as appropriate and directed by the Attorney General or her designee. In current capacity, have assisted and prosecuted cases that involve Misconduct in a Public Office, Bribery of Government Officials, Misappropriation and/or Theft of Government Property. Assisted former Assistant Attorney General's in various UNCAC projects. Ensuring fairness, transparency and maintaining of level of accountability in investigation of cases. Enforcement of laws, working with various areas of Government to ensure that laws are being enforced fairly and correctly. Assisting agencies in finding ways of how to prevent future problems.
	Simms	Melissa	Acting interim special prosecutor	Acting Interim Special Prosecutor for Palau. The Office of the Special Prosecutor prosecutes criminal wrongdoing and political corruption by public officials and other cases that present a conflict of interest for the Attorney General's Office. Worked as a criminal prosecutor in the state of Georgia, USA for approximately 10 years, prosecuting major felony cases as well as misdemeanour cases. From 2006-2008, Administrative Asylum Judge in Saipan, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and also one of two immigration prosecutors on island, responsible for prosecuting immigration related crimes such as marriage fraud and human trafficking.

Weber	Alexander	Legal Counsel to the President	Legal adviser to the President on all matters, including domestic and foreign policy issues, legislation, financing and grants for the Republic, and international forum participations such as the United Nations. Worked as court counsel for the Republic of Palau in its Supreme Court and previously worked as a clerk for a United States judge in the federal district court system.
Thummala	Pramod	Legal Counsel to the President	Primary legal adviser to the President on all matters, including domestic and foreign policy issues, legislation, financing and grants for the Republic, and international forum participations such as the United Nations. Worked at the law firm of Linklaters for 6+ years before transitioning to a consulting role and ultimately into current role with the Office of the President. While at Linklaters spent significant time working on anti-money laundering, anti-bribery, and anti-corruption matters in support of clients' transactional interests.