

Information requested from States parties in relation promoting the use of information and communications technologies (ICT) for the implementation of the Convention

1. In relation to integrity in public procurement and management of public finance (Article 9)

The Comptroller General's Department (CGD) is responsible for managing and overseeing procurement processes. Public procurement procedures in Thailand are outlined in the Public Procurement and Supplies Management Act, B.E. 2560 (2017) and the Regulation on Public Procurement and Supplies Management B.E. 2560 (2017) issued by the Ministry of Finance with the criteria for participants to bid according to procurement methods and the criteria in determining the selection criteria.

Moreover, the CGD has developed "the Electronic Government Procurement: e-GP" to enhance transparency and efficiency in the public procurement and the public spending. The system also contributes in corruption mitigating purpose as it collects information from every process of the public procurement in order to expand opportunity of various vendors to engage in the public procurement project in a fair and equal basis. In this regard, the officials responsible for the procurement tasks of each state/government agency generally carry out their operations via this e-GP by logging in to <http://www.gprocurement.go.th>.

For the purpose of transparency, there is the budget follow-up and evaluation process which refers to the monitoring and assessment of the spending of government agencies. At present, the Division of Evaluation of the Bureau of the Budget is responsible for evaluating the budgets of government agencies based on two important indicators, namely the progress of spending and the output of spending

Information and communication technologies are also utilized to promote transparency in the management of public finance. There is the follow-up and evaluation process which refers to the monitoring and assessment of the spending of government agencies. The Budget Bureau has been developing its electronic budget management system or e-Budgeting since the year 2005, to be used as a tool to support the operations of the main budgetary mission of the country. The system users consist of the Budget Bureau administrators and officials of not less than 700 budget-receiving agencies. This system has made a great contribution in various dimensions, including budget allocation strategy, National Strategy, Master Plan under the National Strategy and the National Economic and Social Development Plan.

To enhance the efficiency in the public disbursement and to prevent corruption, the CGD and the Budget Bureau have developed the Government Fiscal Management Information System: GFMIS to be one of the main tools in the procedures. The CGD and the Budget bureau has been utilizing the information technology systems that link information together by the featuring of the Budget Bureau Evaluation management Information System (BB EvMIS), the Information System for Budgeting of Local Administrative Organization (BBL), and the Government Fiscal Management Information System (New GFMIS Thai).

The operation procedures of the Budget Bureau and the budget receiving agencies for annual budgeting according to the annual budget calendar via the e-Budgeting system are as follows:

1. The budget receiving agencies prepare the initial budget request details in accordance with the rules and procedures to submit an expenditure budget establishing request, prepare the reports or estimates and the form of prescribes by the Budget Bureau. Propose to the Deputy Prime Minister or the Minister who take responsibility for approval before submitting to the Budget Bureau within the specified period.
2. The Budget Bureau considers the annual budget expenditures details and presents to the Cabinet for the budget details improvements.
3. The Budget Bureau considers the budget details improvements and presents to the Cabinet for approval.

The Budget Bureau conducts the hearings on the preparation of an annual budget expenditures, the Cabinet acknowledges the results of the hearings and approves a proposal of a draft bill on annual budget expenditures.

4. The Budget Bureau publishes a draft bill on annual budget expenditures and the budget documents to the Cabinet for approval and presents to the House of Representatives.

The House of Representatives and the Senate consider a draft bill on annual budget expenditures, the Cabinet Secretariat submits a draft bill on annual budget expenditures to His Majesty to announce further enforcement as a law.

5. The Budget Bureau submits the Annual Budget Expenditure Act's information to the Ministry of Finance to be used as the initial data of the New GFMIS Thai system, to support budget allocation according to the action plans and the budget expenditure plans that have already been approved by the Budget Bureau.

The Budget Bureau receives budget expenditure data from the New GFMIS Thai system on a weekly basis to import into the BB EvMIS system and the BBL system for monitoring and evaluation.

Furthermore, the Auditor General scrutinizes public procurements from a financial perspective. Audits under the Organic Act on State Audit include financial, performance, and compliance audits, in line with the international standards for supreme audit institutions established by the International Organization of Supreme Audit Institutions.

Compliance audits are conducted on high-risk projects and projects reported by the public or by financial audit teams.

To correspond with the National Audit Policy during the year 2018-2022, Thailand also utilizes information and communications technology to identify and analyse risks of corruption. Risk management and internal control is mainly conducted through internal audits within each government agency. In this regard, the Office of the Auditor General has incorporated the information of various government agencies to examine the public procurement through the Electronic Government Procurement (e-GP) in which the public can search for relevant notifications and documents on the public procurement. Furthermore, under the purpose of the Organic Act on State Audit 2018, the Office the Auditor General has published the annual performance report via its official website which is transparently accessible for the public.

2. In relation to public reporting (article 10)

Under the purpose of the Organic Act on State Audit 2018, the Office the Auditor General has published annual performance report via its official website (<http://www.audit.go.th>) in the form of pdf file which is transparently accessible for the public. Furthermore, the following relevant documents are also published via the same channel in order that citizen can be informed on relevant policies in both annual and long-term basis, the standards to be adopted in the country's audit, the state audit result:

- The Commission on Audit Notification on the State Audit Policy
- The Criteria on the State Audit Procedures
- The Report of the State Auditors and the Reports submitted by the State Agencies by virtue of the State Fiscal and Financial Disciplines Act 2018

There are further operations regarding the public reporting carried out by the Auditor General. Related news, information and the result of the audit in various aspects namely the legal procedures, the effective outcome, and the efficiency of the agency are publicized via a number of channels i.e. the radio network, the social media including the official website, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, YouTube of the Office of Auditor General, mass media (newspaper, digital television).

The Comptroller General's Department (CGD) also plays an important role in this matter, it publishes information related to public procurement e.g. laws, regulations, circular notices, guidelines, procurement announcements, and the report on procurement outcome via its official website (<http://www.gprocurement.go.th>)

In anti-corruption tasks, Office of the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC) and Office of the Public Sector Anti-Corruption Commission (PACC) have established their online channels to publicize the relevant information namely their functions, roles, commitments, laws and regulations, activities, contact information and report of performance in their website namely the <http://www.nacc.go.th> and <http://www.pacc.go.th>. The statistics of the corruption cases in the responsibility of each office are published in order that the public are informed on the progress of anti-corruption performance of authorities.

3. In relation to participation of society (Article 13), State parties may wish to provide information on measures that:

With respect to the role of the public in decision-making processes in accordance with the International Budget Partnership or the IBP set, the Budget Bureau enhances budget transparency through the preparation and dissemination of the annual budget expenditure in an infographic form of the “Citizen Budget” published on its website. In the fiscal year 2021, it was open to the public to comment on the documents and relevant anti-corruption measures via online channel.

However, allowing various sectors to share their opinions on the public budget document is meant to be in compliance with the international standard guidelines set by IBP and directly aligned with the Integrity and Transparency Assessment (ITA), the result of the opinions over the past period still did not cover as many stakeholders as the hearing approach of the opinions on a draft bill on annual budget expenditures according to the provisions of the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand, 2017 Section 77 where inquiries are made directly to various budget agencies and the hearing results themselves are used to prepare for a summary report that publicly publishes after the end of the process.

In addition, the information in the public expenditure budget document, which is regularly prepared year by year, the public, academics, or those who are interested in such information can be used for the analysis or study of overall budget issues due to a variety of contents about economic projections, income, public debt, budget classified by various dimensions and also project/activity information in different fields which the budget has been allocated.

Regarding the availability of the quality data in open data formats, due to the acknowledgement and approval of the Cabinet to proceed an implementation in accordance with the Budget Bureau advices, it has implemented the guideline of the National Anti-Corruption Commission as follows:

1. Publishing a statement accompanying the annual expenditure budget with English translation on the Budget Bureau website

2. Preparing important information according to the structure of the annual budget expenditure on the website in PDF format to prevent from any kind of modification of the annual budget expenditure data, which may be used in a wrongful way or committing fraud. However, if the relevant agencies need to use in Excel format, they can directly coordinate with the Budget Bureau on a case-by-case basis.

3. Bringing the annual budget expenditure draft as an electronic document on the website in June, 3 months before the consideration of the National Legislative Assembly.

4. Preparing budget information documents, a brief budget book in English, called Thailand's Budget in Brief, according to the draft bill on annual budget expenditures, and publishing on the website along with the budget document in Thai.

In relation to the participation of society, the Comptroller General's Department (CGD) applies the Infrastructure Transparency Initiative (CoST) to the disclosure of relevant information on the infrastructure to the public. The citizen can examine the progress of projects in CoST via the websites called CoST Thailand and Facebook CoST Thailand. In this regard, the CGD has established the Assurance Team responsible for collecting concerns from people living in the area of construction area in order to prevent adverse effect arising to people. Moreover, this enhances people's opportunity in the examining and giving their opinions on the public infrastructure project. Importantly, the Public Procurement and Supplies Management Act 2017 prescribes that state agencies shall provide citizen with the opportunity to criticize the Term of Reference (TOR) of the agencies' projects via the website <http://www.gprocurement.go.th>.

To increase the channels of communication and service providing in financial aspect in the digital area, the CGD has developed it "CGD Application" consisting of the information on social welfare, health care, public procurement, relevant statistics, laws and regulations on the financial aspects, seminar and workshop information, the Integrity Pact, etc. Besides the application, the CGD has also launched its public relation via YouTube and other Social Media including Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and email for collecting citizen's opinions.

In anti-corruption tasks, Office of the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC) and Office of the Public Sector Anti-Corruption Commission (PACC) have established their online channels to promote participation of the society, especially those outside the public sector. Any person can be the whistleblower providing a clue on commission of corruption or any other information relating to the performance of duties of the NACC or the PACC by informing their information through the official websites of each agency. The Office of the NACC has recently issued the Guide to Reporting Corruption Offences and Duties and Powers of the National Anti-Corruption Commission to provide people with the information on channels for reporting information or corruption complaints which can be submitted to the Office of the NACC via written complaint to the address of the NACC, the verbal complaint, telephone, application, suggestion and complaint boxes, etc.

Information requested from States parties in relation to challenges to and good practices in anti-corruption awareness-raising, education, training and research (Article 13, 1(c))

1. The measures Thailand has taken to ensure full compliance with article 13, 1(c)

(1) Awareness raising-programmes aimed at the public at large or specific groups in society

The third phase of the National Anti-Corruption Strategy (2017-2021)¹ has been implemented to focus on creating the culture which does not tolerate corruption, to enhance good governance integrative administration of the country, and to reform the entire anti-corruption regime to equal the international standard.

The national strategy to create a society which does not tolerate corruption attaches importance on the socialization process to build a context for the “intolerance of corruption” in every age group including young children. It aims at creating an anti-corruption culture and instilling the concepts of sustainability, discipline and integrity through institutions or representatives responsible for socialisation. Moreover, the strategy aims to create quality citizens, raise awareness of public consciousness, voluntary spirit and sacrifice for the greater good, and assist every sector to not condone any corrupt practices.

In a way, the strategy has been implemented by changing the public starting from young children to make them capable of distinguished between individual and public gains, promoting systematic anti-corruption operation and socialisation, utilising the philosophy of sufficiency economy as an anti-corruption tool, and empowering community participation and enlist collaboration from every sector to fight corruption.

(2) Educational courses or modules that have been introduced in primary schools, secondary schools and universities

Thailand, by Office of the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC), has established the ‘Anti-Corruption Education Programme’, which is in accordance the purpose of the aforementioned National Anti-Corruption Strategy. The programme includes anti-corruption educational courses or modules which have been outlined by experts and academicians from educational institutions, anti-corruption-related agencies, and private sectors. Its courses and modules are aimed to introduce to all levels of education, i.e. childhood, primary schools, secondary schools, universities, and vocational schools that are operated by both government and private sector. Moreover, this ‘Anti-Corruption Education Programme’ is also designed for the education institutes for personnel under the Royal Thai Police, Royal Thai Army, or other relevant government agencies and state enterprises in order to ensure that the programme covers all target groups in the entire education system.

The programmes contain five standard courses for five target groups, namely (1) compulsory education, (2) university students, (3) military and police, (4) state officials, and (5) networking coaches. The examples of educational courses or modules introduced in schools and university are raised as follows:

- (1) Primary Anti-Corruption Course, is comprised of four main modules:
 - a. Critical thinking on conflict of interests between the private and public sectors;
 - b. Zero tolerance to corruption;
 - c. Strong and sufficient mind against corruption; and
 - d. Citizens' responsibility towards society.

(2) University Anti-Corruption Course, 'Youngster with Good Heart', is comprised of four main modules:

- a. Mindset adjustment in anti-corruption;
- b. Zero tolerance to corruption;
- c. Elevation of quality citizen; and
- d. Fighting against corruption with sufficient mind

(3) Research programmes aimed at increasing knowledge or corruption in society

Thailand, by Office of the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC), has undertaken or arranged for compilation, analysis, studies, and dissemination of information and knowledge relating to corruption and misconduct in public and private sectors. Consequently, the NACC has implemented the National Anti-Corruption Commission Regulation on the Promotion and the Support of Research, 2016 to set up the Research Promotion and Support Committee for managing the research work of the ONACC in various aspects, including the publication of research and research grants for individuals, corporations, public and private sectors, and officials of the ONACC who have submitted eligible research proposals.²

The research projects funded by the ONACC cover all aspects of corruption suppression, such as the development of laws, agencies involved in the justice process, corruption prevention, awareness raising and cultivation of ethical sensibility, stepping up anti-corruption efforts at organizational, national and international levels, and funding of corruption-related research projects and trend analysis.

The example of the research programmes aimed at increasing knowledge or corruption in society are as follows:

(1) The research project on "Survey of the Awareness of Corruption Impact and Participation in Anti-Corruption Mission of Office of the NACC" (2016), which has been initiated under the purpose to evaluate levels of public awareness in impact of corruption and importance of participation in anti-corruption schemes. Office of the NACC has utilized the outcome of this research to as one of the decision factors in the development plan for anti-corruption work and improvement approach for promotion of the Anti-Corruption National Strategy.

² As of April 2022, the NACC is in the process of drafting the new edition of Regulation on the Promotion and the Support of Research to be in accordance with the power and duty of the NACC in anti-corruption research matter under the Organic Act on Anti-Corruption 2018.

(2) The research project on “The Synthesis of Formation, Mechanism and Approach in Fostering Integrity Culture for the Prevention of Corruption”, which has been conducted in the format of the comparative study on the effective formation, mechanism and approach implemented in Thailand and other countries namely Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China (HKSAR), Republic of Singapore and Republic of Finland. Its outcome leads to the recommendations on the most appropriate formation, mechanism and approach in fostering integrity that shall be proposed to Office of the NACC, as well as the guidelines distributed to seven target groups, i.e. family, education institution, community organization, religious organization, political and administrative organization, business organization and media.

(4) Innovative teaching and learning tools and methodologies

The aforementioned courses and modules applied innovative teaching and learning tools and methodologies which emphasize major learning theories, namely Construction Theory, Social Constructivism Theory, Cognitive Constructivism, Information Processing Theory, Theory of Multiple Intelligences, and Cooperative Learning Theory. The overall teaching and learning strategy is to aim intention at learners which participate in the process of thinking, analyzing, and synthesizing the corruption case studies given in classes and the group discussion which are proceeded respectively.

In addition, various instruction media, e.g. video, news, VTR, cartoons, movie trailers, brochures, advertisements, worksheets, computer programmes, and other relevant materials, are applied to the anti-corruption education.

(5) Interactive remote educational technologies and e-learning tools on anti-corruption, integrity and rule of law

The Anti-Corruption Education Platform and its Mobile Application, that will be launched on <http://aced.nacc.go.th> in May 2022, are applied in the Anti-Corruption Education as parts of the e-learning in the form of 18 e-books as follows:

- (1) compulsory education (14 e-books);
- (2) university students (1 e-book);
- (3) military and police (1 e-book);
- (4) state officials (1 e-book), and
- (5) networking coaches. (1 e-book)

In this regard, learners who have enrolled in the system and finished attending the e-classes and passing the tests will obtain the e-certificate once they complete each academic year of the curriculum.

(6) Efforts to encourage the contribution of young people to the prevention of corruption and to promote a culture of respect for the law and integrity

Thailand has put efforts to encourage the contribution of young people to promote a culture of respect for the law and integrity in accordance with Chapter 4 of the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand (2017) regarding duties of Thai people. Section 50 states that a person shall have the following duties: (1) to protect and uphold the Nation, religions, the King and the democratic regime of government with the King as Head of State; (2) to defend the country, to protect and uphold honour and interests of the Nation, and public domain of State, as well as to cooperate in preventing and mitigating disasters; (3) to strictly observe the law; (4) to enroll in compulsory education; (5) to serve in armed forces as provided by law; (6) to respect and not to violate the rights and liberties of other persons and not to commit any act which may cause disharmony or hatred in society; (7) to freely exercise his or her right to vote in an election or referendum, taking into account the common interests of the country as a prime concern; (8) to cooperate and support the conservation and protection of the environment, natural resources, biodiversity, and cultural heritage; (9) to pay taxes and duties as prescribed by law; (10) not to participate in or support all forms of dishonest act and wrongful conduct.

With regard to the contribution of young people to the prevention of corruption, Thailand has tasked with the mandate to prevent corruption and reinforce societal attitudes toward honesty, the NACC attaches great importance to the education and training on moral conduct, thereby making the younger generation good and honest citizens. According to the Cabinet Resolutions on May 22, 2018 and on August 18, 2020, the Office of the NACC has cooperated closely with Ministry of Education (the Office of the Permanent Secretary, the Secretariat of the Council of Education, the Office of the Basic Education Commission, the Office of the Vocational Education Commission, and the Office of the Higher Education Commission) to implement “the Anti-Corruption Education” in both compulsory education and universities under the ultimate goal to promote young people’s attitude and value of honesty.

With regard to the training, as we acknowledge the importance of capacity building and training, the Office of the NACC has recently signed a letter of agreement with the UNODC Regional Office for Southeast Asia and the Pacific last year. The signing of this letter of agreement marks a closer cooperation between two agencies to jointly develop more effective and tailored anti-corruption training in response to new and emerging challenges.

We are now looking forward to participating in various training programmes, namely the Transnational Crime and Anti-Corruption, the Seminar to Enhance Capacity of Asset Recovery Personnel, the Investigations of Computer and Electronic Crimes to Combat Corruption, etc. that are very beneficial for the performance improvement of our anti-corruption practitioners

(7) Statistics on number of students participating in anti-corruption education programmes in schools and universities

Since the 1st semester of the academic year 2019, Office of the NACC, Thailand has been continuously conducting and supervising “the Anti-Corruption Education”. The statistics on number of students and schools participating in anti-corruption education programmes in schools and universities are as follows:

(1) The compulsory education

Subordination	Number of Schools that adopt curriculum	Number of Students that participate in the curriculum (approximately)
Office of Basic Education Commission	29,871	6.7 million
Office of Private Education Commission	1,041	2.5 million
Office of Non-Formal and Informal Education Promotion	928	970,000
Office of the Vocational Education	914	990,000
Department of Education, Bangkok Metropolitan Administration	437	290,000
Department of Local Government Promotion	20,536	1.5 million
total	53,398	12,950,000

(2) University Students

Subordination	Number of Institutions that adopt curriculum	Number of Learners that participate in the curriculum (approximately)
Universities/Institutions under Ministry of Higher Education, Science, Research and Innovation	118

Other institutions under Ministry of Culture, Ministry of Tourism and Sports, Ministry of Public Health, Royal Thai Army, Royal Thai Police, etc.	7	2,200,000
total	125

2. Action required to ensure or improve the implementation of Article 13, 1(c)

Office of the NACC, Thailand finds that there are some challenges in applying the Anti-Corruption Education in each institution as the result of difference in identity and levels of comprehension to the curriculum. The Anti-Corruption Education is the area of specialization the teaching methods of which could be more complex than that of other subjects. Accordingly, the result of the evaluation shows that the curriculum “Youngster with Good Heart” mentioned in topic 1(2) has been applied in institutions less than other curriculum. Office of the NACC; therefore, has established the Anti-Corruption Education Advisory Center to promote the effective application of its entire subsidiary curriculum as one of the measures to ensure or improve the implementation of Article 13, 1(c).

3. Technical assistance required in order to allow full implement to this provision

At present, Thailand has a number of researchers and academicians specializing in anti-corruption area. Even though there are several publications of researches/academic journals which emphasize on public procurement, disclosure of information, and public participation, their recommendations arising from those papers have not been implemented in a concrete manner. Furthermore, complicated case studies raised in those research papers do not reflect current corruption situations. This is the reason for which the paperwork is not quite innovative to contribute the prevention and suppression of corruption arising in those aforementioned areas. Importantly, since there is no proper hub for categorizing those corruption-related researches and academic papers, Thailand still does not have a systematic database on academic information on anti-corruption area.

In order to enhance quality of relevant researches, collect the paperwork in the country, technical assistance required in order to allow full implement to Article 13, 1(c) is the guideline for conducting researches and determining critical issues of the researches to correspond with the current corruption situations and the possible fraud in the future. This could make a contribution to the effective recommendations for tacking corruption in public procurement processes, disclosure of information and promotion of public participation more concretely. In addition, Thailand requires a prompt support in the guidance in providing and associating database of anti-corruption paperwork which could be further utilizing in both national and international framework.

Measures/steps Thailand has taken, or is planning to take, to implement the commitments contained in paragraphs 1 to 22 (preventive measures) of the UNGASS political declaration and actions required to ensure or improve the implementation of the commitments as well as challenges faced or technical assistance required.

Paragraph 1

- 1) Build awareness on appropriate knowledge and comprehension via such means as public relations and corporate communications media, e-learning system and so forth.

2) Provide a system for behavioral assessment under MOJ's personnel code of ethics.

3) Organize events and activities to encourage MOJ's personnel's mindedness to adjust their attitude toward the collective interests rather than personal interest.

Measures/steps set to take

In the fiscal year 2022, the MOJ establishes its measures to prevent corruption and misconduct as follows:

1) In case of a government official or departmental official committing disciplinary offence relating to corruption or misconduct, the head of that agency shall consider the disciplinary proceeding against superior of or that official.

2) Government officials and personnel of the MOJ are prohibited from accepting assets, gifts or any other benefits derived from exercising their duty in order for them to strictly adhere to the measure and report their implementation to the Permanent Secretary of the MOJ every quarter.

(g) Item 7: Court of Justice's Action plan to prevent and combat corruption

Measures/steps set to take in 2022

The President of the Supreme Court has announced the policy called "Easy Access to Justice", which focuses on constructive work system that supports the sustainable and continuous change. The policy prescribed guidelines to build the work ecosystem that promotes use of digital technology in facilitating convenient, agile, accessible, transparent, and accountable justice for people. Along with the strategic plan 2022-2025, called TRUST, of Court of Justice (COJ), S strategy for sustainability prescribed that the COJ and sub units all over the nation shall enhance effectiveness, transparency and accountability in the judicial system, judicial administration system and management of the Office of the Judiciary by allowing people and other sectors to view information, including judgment and other works of the COJ.

(h) Item 8: Measures, policies and practices to prevent corruption, strengthening practical tools, and enhancing efforts and resources for education and training in the public and private sectors.

Measures/steps taken in 2021
